CRUSHING OF REVOLUTION BRINGS QUIET TO CAPITAL

to ask me to consent to an attempt to overthrow the legislative power in its preparatory sitting previous to the opening of Congress."

The Calels statement was given to all foreign correspondents and the local newspapers simultaneously with the explanation that it had been prepared in response to repeated requests for interviews and statements and also in response to telegrams from American newspapers asking for a statement.

The original plan of the rebels, the statement said, was to attempt to overthrow the government on September 1 at the opening of Congress. The date was postponed to September 15, in connection with the national independence day, was changed again to September 27, and then once more postponed.

REVOLT PLAN CONFESSED

The President said the government knew every detail of all these plans and all the movements preceding the actual attempt. He, however, refrained from action against the conspirators, having complete confidence in the loyalty of the army, and clinging to the hope that the plotters would abandon their effort.

"The government," he said, "is satisfied with and proud of the national army, an institution which has understood and fulfilled its duties and historical responsibilities."

Since August, he continued, propaganda conducted by Gen. Gomez and the late Gen. Serrano had been "an open and constant incitation to public rebellion and treason by the commanders of the army."

"In compliance with their duty," the statement added, "numerous army commanders who were invited to rebel informed me thereof, which, with the secret service, afforded me from the beginning full knowledge of the conspiracy.

"Any doubt that might have lingered in my mind vanished when Serrano himself, out of his wits, went so far as to ask me to consent to an attempt to overthrow the legislative power in the preparatory sitting (of Congress.)"

Gen. Quijano, recently executed as a rebel, confessed to this plan during his court-martial, the President said.

Every freight and passenger train on all the railroads of Mexico must carry an adequate escort of Federal soldiers, to guard against attacks by bandits, the War Department announced.

BANDIT RAIDS FEARED

The railroads have been instructed by the War Department to furnish the military authorities with all the necessary information on train movements so that the soldier escort can always be provided.

These protective measures have been taken, it was announced, because it is thought that many groups of bandits are attempting to take advantage of the recent revolutionary attempt, and posing as revolutionists may attempt to attack and rob the trains.

Automobiles leaving Mexico City in any direction are being searched by the military police for arms and ammunition. This precaution is being taken as the result of the discovery several days ago of an automobile leaving the capital on an apparently innocent mission, but in reality containing a machine gun and ammunition, presumably intended for rebels. Several arrests were made and vigilance since has been maintained in regard to departing autoists.

MORE OFFICERS AND MEN SURRENDER

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 11. (AP)—The surrender at Teocelo to loyal forces of 657 officers and soldiers from the units which revolted in Mexico City last week is announced here.

Those surrendered are: Three hundred soldiers of the Fiftieth Battalion; seven officers and 200 soldiers of the Forty-eighth Battalion, and the officers and 150 artillerymen of the Second Regiment.

They gave themselves up following the defeat of the insurgent Gomez-Almada forces, says the announcement.

TAPIA ATTACK TO BE INVESTIGATED

MEXICALI, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—Upon his return from San Diego, Gov. Abelardo Rodriguez today started an investigation of the attack made on Representative Tapia and a group of municipal and territorial officials in a cafe here last Saturday night.

According to a verbal report made to the Governor by Col. Tapia, the attacking party was headed by Police Sergeant Ignacio Lastra and was without provocation. The Congressman received a discolored eye and his alternate, Raphael Sousa, was so badly beaten that he was taken to a hospital.

As the Governor is a personal and political friend of Col. Tapia, it is expected that drastic action will be taken against the assailants if the investigation substantiates Tapia's statement that the attack was unprovoked.

GOMEZ'S AGENTS DENY HIS DEFEAT

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Oct. 11. (AP)—A denial that Gen. Arnulfo Gomez, Mexican insurgent, had met defeat, as reported from Mexico City, was issued here today by his local agents who displayed a telegram asserting that Gomez still is active in a military way.

The telegram, which came from a Gomez agent in New York, asserted that the town of Pachuca had been captured by the Azuara brothers, who were marching to join Gomez. The 800 soldiers captured by the Federals, according to reports from Mexico City, were not members of Gomez's army, but were members of the Federal army, the telegram said.

GEN. LOPEZ LEAVES TO HELP HUNT GOMEZ

EL PASO, Oct. 11. (AP)—Gen. Lopez, for five years commandante of the Juarez military zone, left this afternoon for the Vera Cruz district to join the Federal forces seeking to stamp out the remnants of the Gomez-Almada revolutionary faction.

Gen. Lopez's familiarity with the mountainous country about Vera Cruz is unofficially stated to be the reason for his assignment. Gen. Martinez, who recently was relieved of his command of the Nuevo Laredo garrison, arrived here today from San Antonio and took command of the Juarez district. His first order was to prohibit any officer visiting El Paso without written permission.

Martinez was on his way to Laredo when the rebellion broke out last week. On his arrival he immediately wired President Calles assuring him of his loyalty and offering to return to take the field against the rebels.

JALAPA CHOSEN FOR BASE OF PLANES

By Jack Starr-Hunter

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—Jalapa, the capital of the State of Vera Cruz, has been designated as the base of operations of the Federal airplane squadron comprised of five Farman type heavy bombing planes to be sent from here for use in locating the disrupted rebel groups under Gomez hiding in the mountainous districts since their defeat last Sunday, it was learned here today.

Dispatches from Jalapa announce that preparations are being made there for a suitable landing field with a new airdrome now ready for use as soon as it is inspected by War Minister Amaro. It is believed the use of planes will prove effective against the roving bands of the Gomez and Almada insurgents who are reported to have taken up their positions in still more inaccessible retreats in the backwoods country. Planes will be used for both scout purposes in locating the enemy camps and observing the insurgent movements as well as for bombing purposes with the objective of dislodging the rebels and assisting the Federal troops to engage them.

SUNDAY BATTLE IN MEXICO DECLARED DRAW

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—The New York American will say tomorrow that a radio message from Col. Ortiz, chief of staff to Gen. Arnulfo Gomez, to Martines de la Torre at Vera Cruz, reports that the battle between Federal and insurgent forces Sunday evening ended in a draw and that the rebel troops are advancing to obtain control of the oil fields. The complete text of the message follows:

"We have been here since Saturday evening with three mixed columns of infantry and cavalry, with total of about 4000 men.

"Gen. Francisco Medina had an encounter with Federal troops at Barranca Honda Sunday evening which ended at nightfall without advantage to either side.

"Troops of Gen. Aguirre mutinied at Paso del Macho near Perota, refusing to fight against their ex-chief, Gen. Gomez. The mutineers soon were overpowered by Federal Gen. Escobar's troops, who took many prisoners, but part escaped and joined us.

"Chief very busy organizing march across Caspnes River forward through Cuxtan Valley.

"We are moving headquarters to Palma Sola on the river banks south of Cuxtan.

MESSAGE HERE TELLS OF REVOLT END

Complete route of the rebel forces of Gen. Gomez, leader in the Mexican revolution against President Calles, with heavy toll in prisoners and casualties and a complete end to the movement is reported in a telegram from Ambassador Tellez in Washington, D. C., made public yesterday by P. A. Pesqueira, Mexican Consul here.

In publicizing the telegram, Consul Pesqueira states that the message is an official confirmation of previous reports from the field of action and that it signifies certainty that the rebellion is ended.

The telegram follows:

"The Gomez men who fled to the Vera Cruz forest were entirely annihilated in their first encounter with the loyal troops. After six hours of fighting, Gens. Gomez, Almada, Medina and Aquilar fled, abandoning their supporters. In their escape more than 500 prisoners were made by the troops. Many were killed. At the Jalapa headquarters, 500 rebel soldiers and officers arrived and these constitute the total of the infantry which Gen. Gomez had with him. More soldiers are surrendering to the loyal troops, requesting that persecution be stopped. The prisoners state that when surrounded by the Federal troops, great panic was caused among their lines and it was a case of every man for himself. With this action the group was completely routed. President Calles has sent congratulations to Gen. Escobar and other chiefs who thus ended the adventure of the rebels. Juan and Vicente Barragan, also Fernando Cue, are hiding at the Cuban Embassy, trying to escape the responsibility that they may have been in the rebel movement. The rest of the country is absolutely quiet.

[Signed] "AMBASSADOR TELLEZ."

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said:

"One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged.

But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Not Like Medicine

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine. Perfected by the famous Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle.

Ruth Elder (Mrs. Lyle Womack) who seeks to be acclaimed as first woman to fly across the Atlantic, and her Stinson-Detroiter plane.

SEA SILENT ON RUTH ELDER

Ruth Elder under the window of the right side of the cockpit, where Miss Elder sat.

Two of the backers of the flight, H. E. Cornell and T. H. Mcardle, both Wheeling (W. Va.) business men, saw the take-off.

As Miss Elder was saying goodby to friends, Mrs. Haldeman, a native of Salisbury, N. C., sat in an automobile nearby. "I am thrilled to see George hop off," Mrs. Haldeman said. "It's a big chance for him."

Miss Elder was very nervous.

"I'm very happy," she said, jumping up and down in her excitement. "It's the greatest day of my life."

Haldeman was a grim, determined man as he clambered into the cockpit. "I'll do it," he said, almost fiercely.

ALTERNATE AT STICK

Miss Elder will alternate with Haldeman in piloting the plane. She is a licensed pilot, having passed her examinations recently.

Haldeman was attired as if for a business appointment when they climbed into the cockpit. Miss Elder wore a plaid sweater with golf stockings to match, golf shoes, light woolen knickers and a varicolored bandeau around her head. Haldeman wore a blue business suit, tan shoes and a gray cap.

Both flyers, however, also put on as outer covering, the olive drab, furlined one-piece flying suits worn by army aviators, to protect them against the cold when in the air.

Miss Elder has had but two years of flying experience, all under the direction of her pilot on the flight.

Although she is married to Lyle Womack, a salesman in Lakeland, Fla., she prefers to use her maiden name in connection with her flight in The American Girl. She said she conceived the idea of the flight when Col. Charles A. Lindbergh made history in the Spirit of St. Louis. She has repeatedly expressed determination to be the first woman to follow in his trail.

Haldeman taught her to fly when both lived in Lakeland. He was in the real-estate business there but flying experience during the war led him to the Lakeland plant of an airplane company and he gave much time to flying instruction. He was married in 1920 to Virginia Lufay of Salisbury, N. C., and they have one son, Billy, 4 years of age.

Nearly a score of ocean liners are in the path to be followed by The American Girl on its flight to Paris.

Vessels bound for New York include the Mauretania, President Roosevelt and Ryndam, due Friday; the Belgenland, due Sunday, and the Aurania and Cameronia, due Monday.

Ships now at sea and bound from New York to European ports include the Tuscania, France, Pennland, Olympic, Minnetonka, Carinthia, New Amsterdam, Celtic, Caledonia and Gripsholm, which left here Saturday; the Stuttgart, which sailed Sunday, and the DeGrasse, which departed yesterday.

WHEELING BACKERS TELL OF OPPOSING FLIGHT

WHEELING (W. Va.) Oct. 11. (AP)—Objections lodged by Wheeling business men backing the American Girl flight to Paris were not withdrawn, Ruth Elder and George Haldeman, her copilot, taking off today in spite of the trepidations of their backers, it was made known here tonight.

"We did not want Miss Elder to hop off," said Joseph D. Holloway, spokesman for the backers, "but now that she and George have started we wish them godspeed and a safe arrival at Le Bourget field. It looks like a perilous journey but we have provided everything humanly possible to carry them safely into Paris, and we have confidence in the ability of the two flyers. Barring unfavorable weather, they should make it. We said all that could be said, and offered to release the flyers from their contract, but they maintained the same attitude shown when they stopped in Wheeling."

Holloway said that the backers are far from pessimistic, however, adding that he has a "hunch they will make it."

LINDBERGH RAPS CROSS SEA TRIPS

Hazardous Flights Taken for Publicity Opposed by Distinguished Airman

ATLANTA (Ga.) Oct. 11. (AP)—While Col. Charles A. Lindbergh declined here today to comment on the attempt at a trans-Atlantic flight by Ruth Elder and George Haldeman, begun at Roosevelt Field, N. Y., he did unburden himself on trans-oceanic flights generally.

"It is rather useless to take off on flights involving great hazard unless there is some definite and worthy purpose in view. I see no object," Lindbergh said, "in flying across hazardous ocean wastes unless there is a real purpose in mind."

His comment on transoceanic or hazardous flying was not made, however, in a discussion of Miss Elder's flight.

"Until there is developed a type of plane for transoceanic or other hazardous flying which will afford methods of communication and existence in event of a forced landing, transoceanic flights are going to take a toll of personnel," he said.

"Much is yet to be done to make transoceanic flights safe. Meanwhile, the flights of the future over the oceans should be for some other purpose than publicity."

GERMAN PLANE READY TO LEAVE FOR AMERICA

WARNEMUENDE (Germany) Oct. 11. (AP)—Weather conditions permitting, the Heinkel one-motor low-winged hydro-airplane D-1220 is expected to hop off at noon tomorrow on its trans-Atlantic flight to the United States by way of Amsterdam, Vigo, Spain and the Azores.

The monoplane, which is equipped with pontoons, has been subjected to a series of rigid tests of both its carrying capacity and the functioning of its 800 horsepower Packard motor which supplanted the German engine.

The plane will be piloted by Horst Merz who has been released by the Lufthansa for the flight and ranks as one of the best German air navigators.

At the Heinkel works today it was stated that everything is in readiness for the takeoff as the plane responded satisfactorily during three weeks of test flights and that the start depends only on weather conditions.

union stronghold until April 1, when the company posted a wage scale lower than the union scale, and union miners suspended work. Since that time the corporation has sought to operate with nonunion miners, joining the ranks of other open-shop operators, including the Pittsburgh Coal Company. The latter concern is operating a score of mines non-union. When informed of the injunction, officials of the company said: "We do not have in mind seeking an injunction similar to that obtained by the Terminal corporation."

the courage of the pioneer, but also with the hope that some words of mine on behalf of your sisters may dissuade you for this year from undertaking such a flight.

"Gov. Brewster joins me in the confidence that you will reach a right decision with a due regard to all concerned."

WRITES REPLY

After the ceremonies Mrs. Grayson wrote a reply to Mrs. Brewster, which read as follows:

"In behalf of my associates, particularly Mrs. Aage Ancker of Copenhagen, and myself it is decidedly a pleasure and an honor to have the first lady of the State christen our wonderful ship.

"While I deeply appreciate the plea of the women of your great State, as expressed by you, to postpone what they regard as a hazardous undertaking, I wish to send this message to the women of Maine and the women of these United States: 'That we fully realize the seriousness of our expedition and have fully prepared for the so-called hazards of this glorious month of October.'

"In urging me not to go I feel you have assumed as great a responsibility as if you had advised me to go. The Dawn will awake American women to great efforts and bind closer the women of two continents."

WILL RADIO FOR HELP

Mrs. Grayson discussed the ambition which had led her through months of preparations for this point and the objective which she hopes to attain.

"I will not say definitely," she said, "that we will not come down en route, but I am supremely confident that if we come down we will be able to continue to send out radio calls and bring ships to our rescue.

"If, indeed, that should be the case we will have done more for aviation than if we landed in Paris or Copenhagen."

It was obvious that she was thinking of public fears engendered by the fate of several planes which have been forced down somewhere on the Atlantic and Pacific.

OCEAN CITY LAID WASTE BY FLAMES

Heart of New Jersey Resort Burns With Loss Estimated to be $3,000,000

OCEAN CITY (N. J.) Oct. 11. (AP) The heart of Ocean City, popular seashore resort of the Southern New Jersey coast, was destroyed by fire tonight. More than fifty buildings, including hotels, boarding houses, stores and theaters, were destroyed at an estimated loss of $3,000,000.

The flames, which started at 7 p.m., at Ninth street and the Boardwalk, swept through a dozen city blocks between Seventh and Tenth streets and the Boardwalk and Central avenue.

Two of the largest hotels in the city, the Normandie-by-the-Sea and the Lincoln, were among the buildings destroyed. The Normandie contained 1000 rooms and the Lincoln about 900. Scores of small shops and several moving-picture houses along the Boardwalk were burned.

For the formal announcement this afternoon the doors into the hall by the throne were held open by two footmen in gold said Princess Martha and Prince Charles of Sweden gave an example of conventional powers.

There were two guards besides the sentries at the Palace. Supporting the arms of the first, which was the registration of the birth of that of her father, was the mayor of the city. All the ministers and officials of state were present at the ceremony, which was the christening of the Princess's name in the register.

Those who had come to witness the birth of an heir were not disappointed, for there was a baby in Belgium only for some was going.

Buying Power of Theater Chains Considered

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—The trade practice conference of the motion-picture industry proceeded jerkily today, distributors and producers passing the day in enforced idleness while exhibitors wrangled among themselves to achieve a code of protection against aggression by the producing interests. The code of ethics for which the conference was called was not forgotten by the exhibitors, but the two resolutions which reached adoption were more in the category of protection.

The bogy-man that started the independent exhibitors in the face and caused them to quake for the sanctity of their ranks was dispelled at 10:30 a.m. when the committee on credentials reported that of the sixty-four delegates from the exhibitors' ranks only three could be doubted.

Thus the ugly specter of a "packed house" on the part of the producer-distributor ranks was disposed of. The three will be allowed floor privileges, but will not be allowed to vote on anything affecting producer-distributor circuits.

RESOLUTIONS PRESENTED

The resolutions committee reported that its labor will be directed at resolutions defining fair, or unfair trade practices as they concern contracts, producer-distributor circuit competition and block booking, following that with the presentation of a resolution indorsing the findings last July of the Federal Trade Commission in respect to the Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation, block booking, and producer acquisition of theaters. The debate was so heated and diverse that the resolutions was sent back to the committee for further tinkering with its verbiage.

The next resolution was fair game and was adopted immediately. It defined the selling of motion pictures for nontheatrical exhibition in competition with established theaters as an unfair trade practice.

CHAIN BUYING POWER

The major portion of this afternoon was passed by the intrenched exhibitors in considering the merits of a resolution that circuits and theater chains are misusing their buying power to the throttling of the small-house operator. The resolution says that fair trade practice would end such buying power and give every house in a zone equal competitive chance at desired pictures for first run.

The resolution was adopted unanimously after discussion. If the producers and distributors likewise adopt it, it will end for all time the power of the great theater chains to grab the best pictures and run them first, to the disadvantage of the smaller exhibitors.

BRIDGE PLANS APPROVED

Denies Liquor Affects Her Voice

OPERA STAR'S DRINKS AIRED

Stimulant Given Mary Lewis Issue in Action for Damages Over Talking Film

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Whether three short drinks of Scotch whisky made Mary Lewis, Metropolitan opera star, "unfit and unable to perform properly in the talking films," last April, is the central issue today in a suit brought by John T. Adams, former musical director for the Vitaphone Corporation, against the corporation, charging breach of his $15,000 a year contract.

Adams was discharged by the Vitaphone Company last April. When he sued for a monthly salary instalment of $1250 the company charged that he had given Miss Lewis three drinks of whisky, in violation of the company regulations and the Volstead Act, rendering her voice incapable of proper performance in a film version of an opera in which she was to have appeared.

Adams submitted affidavits by the singer that she had been forced to wait all day long on the Vitaphone "set," because of a breakdown of electric power, and that the damp air of the studio made it advisable for her to take the stimulant. Medical testimony was introduced to show that the amount of liquor asserted to have been taken by Miss Lewis would have acted as a benefit rather than a deterrent to the production of proper tones.

Jeanne Gordon, another Metropolitan star and coperformer with Miss Lewis, in the film, stated that the drinks had no ill effect upon Miss Lewis's singing.

A few hours after the occurrences at the Vitaphone studio Miss Lewis surprised her friends by sailing for Europe with Michael Bohnen, another operatic star, to whom she had been secretly married four days before.

Printers Plan Open-Shop Fight as Session Ends

FRENCH LICK (Ind.) Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—With the meeting of the new executive committee of the board of governor of the Employers' Printing Association of America, the sixteenth annual convention at the French Lick Springs Hotel ended today.

The executive committee organized itself to carry out the ideas of the board of governors and the members of the association in the spirited and continuous fight for the principles of the open-shop in the printing industry.

Further plans for the aiding and insurance of any member of the association because of labor troubles were formulated. The association went on record as being in favor of lowering the costs of production so far as compatible with the highest standards of workmanship in printing and the bringing about of amicable relations between employer and employee, each side making whatever logical concessions are necessary to this end.

Marine Flyer Hits Mountain in Nicaragua

MANAGUA (Nicaragua) Oct. 11. (AP) After dropping bombs on Gen. Sandino and 200 of his followers in Northeast Ocotal Sunday afternoon, Capt. H. Thomas of the United States Marine Corps crashed into a mountain, but signaled that he was unhurt, marine headquarters announced today. Many of Sandino's followers were killed in the attack and others dispersed. Scouting planes returning yesterday said Thomas and his pilot had struggled many miles to Jicaro, arriving there in good condition.

Anxiety had been felt for some time because it was believed that Thomas and his pilot might have fallen into the hands of bandits. The other planes that participated in the attack had returned to Managua after Thomas crashed. They went back to the spot where they thought the plane had come down with food and water but were unable to locate Thomas.

COOLIDGE AGAIN NIPS TAX DRIVE

Insists Cut Next Year Cannot Exceed $300,000,000

Says Debt Must be Slashed to Reduce Interest

Chamber of Commerce Urged to Help Gain Economy

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (Exclusive) President Coolidge today again intimated he will not be a candidate in 1928 when he flatly told the newspaper men at the White House this morning that the Treasury figures and budget estimates for the next fiscal year will not stand a cut of $400,000,000 without endangering a deficit for the Federal government. He did not mince words and stressed economical administration, national debt reduction, both in principal and interest, and pointed out that new and necessary expenses in some lines are certain and necessary.

Neither Republican nor Democratic arguments for a large slash in income taxes were encouraged and while he welcomed the attention of the United States Chamber of Commerce and other organizations of similar character and also interested individual taxpayers in the problem of tax reduction he pointedly demanded extreme caution in a heavy reduction at this session of Congress.

DEBT STILL TOO HIGH

He reminded all who urge a reduction of more than $300,000,000 that that is the limit and he also declared that only approximately one-half of the national war debt has been paid off and that the taxpayers must face the economic necessity of reducing further both principal and interest on the vast sum it cost the country to gain peace in the World War which ended ten years ago.

President Coolidge is strongly in favor of another tax reduction but he believes that the cut should be in accordance with what can be provided by an economical administration and it should go hand in hand with reduction of the national debt.

It was explained that the President has not yet received definite figures from the Treasury Department or complete estimates of governmental reports from the Bureau of the Budget.

ECONOMY NEEDED FIRST

It is understood that the President's expressions were called for by reported activities on the part of the United States Chamber of Commerce and other organizations looking toward a tax reduction at the coming session of Congress which will exceed $350,000,000 or $400,000,000.

The President was reported as feeling that, while it is quite natural for any individual or organization to interest itself in lowering the taxes, at the same time these organizations should be bending their efforts in the direction of discouraging or preventing appropriations for unnecessary governmental expenditures and to help keep down the running costs of the government and to take part in the policy of the administration.

The President contends that, while he has not been definitely advised as to the surplus, a reduction of $350,000,000 to $400,000,000 will be too large. He was represented, however, as wanting it understood that he does not desire to go on record as predicting the exact amount taxes may be reduced but he has reason to feel that his warning of a deficit in the event taxes are reduced as much as suggested is well founded.

ANXIOUS TO BE UNDERSTOOD

Because of his recent candid discussions of the tax question President Coolidge is very anxious that the public understands his attitude. His feelings in the matter, as represented today, are that reduction of the funded debt and the reduction of taxes should go together, with the debt reduction given preference in the event the Treasury of the United States does not approve a tax reduction.

While on the subject today the President was represented as realizing some of the large outlays of public money which have been made since he was President and which are eating heavily into the nation's Treasury. He mentioned in this connection the adjusted compensation law as being the largest individual item of expense in this connection, and referred to the increase in the pensions made by the last Congress, which will cost $668,000,000 annually for some time to come.

He was represented also as pointing out that the government faces other large expenditures which are listed as absolutely necessary, such as affording flood control for the Mississippi Basin, which he realizes is going to cost considerable, as well as some additions to the Navy and for the development of the air forces under the five-year program, as well as for the construction of new buildings to house the Army. These items of expense, which may be separate from the ordinary run of annual governmental appropriations, will, in the aggregate, amount to a huge sum.

PRUDENCE IMPERATIVE

These extra expenses of government, the President feels, must be borne in mind when the size of the Treasury surplus is known and when the time arrives for considering the question of lifting further the burden of taxes for the people.

The President contends that unless the government exercises prudence in the expenses of the government it will be found to the sorrow of many that there will not be any reduction at all.

In this connection he contends that it must be more generally realized that tax reduction is predicated by economy. He agrees that at times in the past the Treasury surplus has been higher than was orginally estimated, but he does not consider it an evidence of wisdom to count too greatly upon it being higher again than estimated. Besides, advices received by him show that there have been unexpected increases in the surplus in the past, due to increases in revenue which are not likely to happen again.

HOLD UP BANK AND ESCAPE WITH CASH

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Oct. 11. (AP)—Three unmasked bandits armed with shotguns took between $3000 and $4000 in currency from the Portland branch of the First National Bank in a spectacular hold-up today and escaped in an automobile. The robbers forced H. C. Davis, manager, two other employees, and two customers to lie on the floor while they scooped up the currency, leaving coin and securities untouched. The men kept the employees away from alarm buttons until they left.

TRAFFIC EXPERTS GO TO BERLIN ONLY TO MEET TRACTION STRIKE

BERLIN, Oct. 11. (AP)—When Michael Faherty, president of the Chicago Board of Local Improvements, and a party of Chicago traffic and municipal experts landed in Berlin today from an airplane to study the elevated and underground railway systems, they found the entire system tied up by a strike.

Nothing is to be seen of the usual animated passenger movement as not a wheel has turned since 5 a.m. when the railway workers called an unexpected strike over their demand for an eight-hour day and questions connected with sick pay and holidays over which previous negotiations failed. About 5000 men are affected.

The strike was settled this evening and service will be resumed tomorrow morning.

Bade Declares Bible Disproved by Excavations

BERKELEY, Oct. 11. (AP)—Recent excavations at Mizpah have tended to disprove the biblical story of the Canaanite massacre in Palestine, said an announcement issued today by Dr. William Frederic Bade, archaeologist, who recently returned from the Holy Land. Dr. Bade is connected with the Pacific School of Religion.

"The pottery and other period implements that were excavated dissipate the story of the massacre," said Dr. Bade. "Instead, they indicate that there had been a gradual overthrow of one civilization by the culture of another. Nowhere could any excavation be found which would tend to add support to the old theory of the massacre. The reverse apparently is the case."

Myths About Ban Exposed by Hays

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—Will Hays gave a statement today in which he denied all the "myths" concocted about his bans on plays and stories.

"The misrepresentation by those whose plays or books are not being filmed that I ban certain books and plays from the motion picture is entirely in error," Hays said. "It arises from a fundamental misunderstanding of the industry's purposes and a gross misconception of procedure in this regard.

"This office does not ban anything—any more than an editor bans news from his newspaper."

Delinquency of Juveniles Gains

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 11. (AP)—A steady increase in juvenile delinquency in California was shown today by records compiled by Clarence S. Morrill, chief of the State Bureau of Criminal Identification, on activities during the last three years.

The increase in delinquency among girls is particularly marked, the number being virtually doubled during that period. Morrill's report is based upon the number of requests for fingerprint identifications received by his office.

For the last fiscal year these requests totaled 5525 for boys and 308 for girls—a total of 5833. This compared with a total of 5188 in 1926 and 5172 in 1925.

The number of girl delinquents, as shown by the fingerprint requests, increased from 156 in 1925 to 215 in 1926 and 308 this year.

Yank First-Sacker Set New Record for Runs Batted in; Heilmann Second Choice of Scribes

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (AP)—"Larruping Lou" Gehrig, first baseman with the world champion Yankees, tonight was proclaimed the most valuable player in the American League for the 1927 season.

Selection of Gehrig, who gave Ruth a stubborn battle for home-run honors, and finished with a total of forty-seven, more than any other player in baseball history with the exception of the Bambino himself, was made by a committee of baseball writers comprising the cities of the league. All but one of the first-choice votes were given to Gehrig who won the coveted honors with fifty-six points out of a possible seventy.

Harry Heilmann, Detroit batting champion of the American League, and Lefty Grove, star pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics, had 29 points, while thirty-four votes.

The only dissenting vote was cast by Tony Lazzeri, as the most valuable player to the Yankees, all of the others chose "Columbus Lou," not only as the most valuable player to Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, but the greatest in the league. Look at him, folks, it's "Larrupin' Lou" Gehrig, the slugging first-sacker of the world's champion New York Yankees, who was yesterday voted as the American League's most valuable player during the past season. Gehrig, aside from hitting forty-seven home runs, which is more than any other major league player aside from Babe Ruth has hit in a season, finished third in batting, and hung up a new record for runs batted-in. Los Angeles fans will get a chance to see Gehrig in action at Wrigley Field on the 30th inst., when he and Babe Ruth appear here in an exhibition game that is being sponsored by the American Legion.

WHO'S NEXT TO REFUTE BUCS' SALE

Lou Wentz Denies That He is Negotiating for Pittsburgh Club

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11. (AP)—Arriving here today from New York, Lou Wentz, former Pittsburgher and now a wealthy Oklahoma oil operator, issued a statement tending to indicate he had not purchased the Pittsburgh Pirates and that there have been no recent negotiations between Wentz and Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the club, looking to sale of the National League champions.

"Along while ago," Wentz said, "I asked Mr. Dreyfuss for the right to negotiate should he consider sale of the Pirates. He was not inclined to make a sale and that ended it. I am mindful of the fact that the Pittsburgh club is an institution built by Mr. Dreyfuss and that it is his business and pleasure to operate it. Under the circumstances, I would be at a loss even to suggest one reason why he should sell."

Dorothy Logan, Physician of London, Breaks Record Set by Gertrude Ederle

GERTRUDE EDERLE

The time of her take-off from the coast of France was given as 7:40 p.m. yesterday while her arrival on the English shore was 8:50 a.m. today. She walked ashore at Folkestone in the midst of a din of sirens and welcoming shouts, she collapsed and was taken to Hythe, where she had been in training.

Exendine May Start Second String Backfield

Sagehens Prep for La Verne Contest Saturday

With practically three weeks of rest since the S. C. game in which a number of stars were bunged up by the beefy Trojans, the injured regulars of Occidental's football team will be ready to tackle the U.C.L.A. Bruins in the Coliseum Saturday with the exception of Phil Cuthbert and Ward Schweizer.

ALBERT A. EXENDINE

Schweizer, who is one of the best defensive men on the Oxy roster, has been limping around from class all week and, although he says he will be ready to play, is more likely to sit on the bench. Cuthbert, the husky Oxy tackle, has a bad knee which has been slow in healing.

Glenn Rozelle, George Fusco and Harris Hitch, however, are going as strong as ever. Coach Albert Exendine has a complete second-string backfield which is fully as good as the first string. It is likely that Exendine will start the former with Jack Schweizer at quarter, Hunt and

Miljus Signs Buc Contract for Next Year

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11. (AP)—John Miljus, a Pirate hurler, whose wild pitch ended the world series last week, today signed his 1928 Pittsburgh National contract. While Barney Dreyfuss refused to divulge the terms, it was known that he was pleased with Miljus's relief hurling and followers of the team expressed the belief that John received a neat increase. Miljus came to the Pirates from Seattle several months ago.

SARAZEN ADDS TO LAURELS

Former Open Golf Champ Outstrokes Cruickshank to Win Metropolitan

GARDEN CITY (N. Y.) Oct. 11. (AP)—Gene Sarazen won the metropolitan professional golfers' association championship today with a total of 292 strokes for the seventy-two holes of play over the Salisbury Country Club course.

GENE SARAZEN

The doughty little professional of the Fresh Meadow Country Club, Flushing, N. Y., turned back the challenge of Bobby Cruickshank in the last eighteen holes with a brilliant 71 after the Scot had drawn to even terms at the fifty-four-hole mark with the aid of a 70, two under par. Cruickshank weakened under the strain of the long two days of play and took a 75 for the final round, finishing four strokes behind Sarazen in a tie with Willie Klein for third place.

Second honors went to Leo Diegel with a 295, three strokes behind the winner. Diegel's game was consistent and steady, while Sarazen was more spectacular with his two 71's, one on the first round and the other on the fourth and last.

Fourth place was shared between MacDonald Smith, Lakewood veter-

Barragar Likely to Start in Center Berth

BY BRAVEN DYER

Dick Hyland, the well-known author and football player of Stanford, appeared at Bovard Field last night and took part in Southern California's scrimmage against Cardinal plays. It wasn't Hyland himself, of course, but Charley Borah, world's fastest sprinter, doubling for "Tricky Dick." And, as a double, young Charley proved very troublesome, which isn't surprising in view of the fact that he played football at Phillips Andover before enrolling at the Trojan institution.

CHARLIE BORAH

Howard Jones, knowing that his athletes were not used to keeping track of a man of Hyland's speed, fixed it up with Dean Cromwell, track coach, to have Borah don the moleskins for two afternoons of toil. Cromwell was "on," the only stipulation being that the Trojan gridders refrain from tackling curly-headed Charley as they might desire to smack down "Tricky Dick" in view of the latter's recent venture into the field of fiction. Cromwell would just as soon have you jerk out his right eye as to have Borah injured in any way, but Dean was also interested in doing what he could to help the Trojan grid cause.

LIKE LIGHTNING BOLT

Borah went down on passes, and the Trojan backs, by running twenty yards while Charley was covering forty, were able to keep fairly even with him. Borah went around the ends on reverses and some of the wing men thought they were trying to clamp their claws on a bolt of lightning. Jones's eyes popped and he muttered something to himself about "Wish I had a chap like that on my football team." Frankly, Borah knows what it's all about and would make a sweet football player, but his track career is naturally the big thing with him.

Hyland ran away from the Trojan backs last year and Jones doesn't want such a thing to

RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

A LOT of bright ideas originate in Glendale, but the brightest I have heard comes from P. H. Weatherly, who suggests that the Coliseum management employ the plan used by the University of Pennsylvania this year in lining off a football field.

As I understand it, Penn marks the goal line about one foot wide as compared with the yard-line markings, which are about four inches wide. In the end zone stripes are used — white lines about five yards apart and running parallel with the continued side lines.

With the goal posts on the end zone lines this year, ten yards back of the goal line, players and spectators alike are confused without some definite marking to distinguish the end zone from the playing field.

In the past the goal posts have been the outstanding feature of the scenery, but their relocation makes some other marker necessary. At the Coliseum the other day I was confused in glancing quickly from scrimmage line to goal line to ascertain the yards the teams had to go to make a touchdown. The goal line was red, and hard to distinguish from the press box. A player racing for a punt near the goal line is likely to lose his sense of location under the present arrangement, but with stripes in the end zone he will be favored with a tremendous advantage. I am passing the idea along to Zack Farmer for his superior judgment.

Now that the Oregon Aggies have scared U.S.C. half to death an anonymous correspondent who predicted it early in the season is now willing to confess his name is Jimmy Bird. That he formerly attended the Corvallis institution, and didn't want to give his name in the first place because it might be considered detrimental publicity to the Aggie cause, and be misinterpreted by former classmates. However, he says that while he believes Wes Schulmerich slowed up the Aggie backfield last year, he would have at least earned a tie for his team against U.S.C. last Saturday because he "never missed the one point after touchdown."

"I knew that the Aggies had a good line," writes Bird, "and two fair backfield men in Maple and

Armand Emanuel Finishes Rival Heavyweight in Ninth Round of Olympic Main Event

BY PAUL LOWRY

The whole trouble with the main event at the Olympic last night was eight rounds of agony. Armand Emanuel of San Francisco won by a knockout over Walter (Biff) Hoffman in the ninth spasm, but if the prayers of the cash customers had been answered there would have been no ninth round.

Emanuel's right-hand wallop to the chin may have put a pleasant night-cap to the torture for some of the fans, but even that is doubtful. The boys bored everyone to tears before Armand was able to pour in his sleep producer.

ARMAND EMANUEL

"Biff" was pretty tired from keeping his arms propped up in a fighting posture, and the change seemed welcome to him, too. He took the count stretched flat on his back.

Freddie Gilmore the referee, was so disgusted at the exhibition that he threatened to heave the boys out of the ring a couple of times, and the fans kept up a continuous salvo of boos and

COPPERS THROW MOTORING GRID FANS FOR BIG LOSSES

BERKELEY, Oct. 11. (AP)—While the University of California's rejuvenated football team was trampling over St. Mary's for a 13-0 victory here last Saturday the traffic police of this city were throwing motorists for a loss, it was observed today as 497 drivers arrested for violating parking regulations at the game trekked to the City Hall to pay their $2 fine. The number of tags handed out Saturday set a new record for Berkeley traffic arrests.

TAYLOR FIGHTS FARR HERE

Johnny Farr and Bud Taylor will be featured at the Olympic on the 25th inst., it was announced yesterday by Matchmaker Wad Wadhams. The bout was closed in a wire received from Eddie Long in Chicago. For years Taylor has refused to box the Cleveland Iron Man, claiming Johnny was too tough.

Wadhams has been assured that Benny Bass, the Philadelphia feather whom many rate as the best 126-pounder in the world, will come to California and box either Taylor, Sangor or Farr inside of the next two months. Farr was originally slated to box Sangor on the 18th inst., but on the Clevelander's arrival he learned that Sangor had canceled his part of the match, claiming a sore right arm.

Howe, halves, and Eberhardt at fullback.

The second-string backfield, although a few pounds lighter than the first string, carries an offensive wallop. Eberhardt has been going great guns. He looked exceptionally good against Arizona. Hunt is one of the best backs on the Oxy team, and like Eberhardt is a bearcat on the defense. Besides these men, Exendine will have "Rats" Brobst and Al Clayes to rush in when needed. Brobst is first-string quarterback, and may start in place of J. Schweizer.

Hitch, whose cracked rib is still sensitive, may be replaced at guard by Popelka. Milt Nash will start at the opposite guard and Al Klein at center. With Cuthbert out, Ed Beebe is back at his old job at tackle and Ted Ellsworth at the other tackle. Wendell Smith will play opposite Allan DeHoog at end.

That team carries a lot of power and stacks up well against the Bruins. Coach Bill Spaulding's squad is in excellent physical condition with the exception of Joe Fleming, who is still suffering from a charley horse. Fleming's educated hoof was a big threat last year, and if he is going poorly the Bruins lose half their offensive punch. Joe missed three goals against Whittier, an attempted place-kick from the 25-yard line and two conversions, which is exceptionally unusual for the Bruin star. Spaulding pulled him in the second quarter and kept him on the bench for the remainder of the game.

The Bruins will line up as last week with Barta and Beck, ends; Hiddens and Peterson, tackles; Brown and Davis, guards, and Epstein, center. Birienbach will start at quarter, Fleming and La Bucheria, halves, and Fields full. If Fleming goes out he will be replaced by Jerry Russum, who played an excellent game against the Poets.

INJURED SAGEHENS OUT OF LINE-UP

CLAREMONT, Oct. 11. (Exclusive) Two Pomona varsity linemen, injured slightly in last week's tussle with California Tech, may not start against La Verne when the Leopards invade Claremont this week. Clarence Bishop, sophomore end, and Stat Archbald, veteran center, were withheld from practice last night, Bishop having a bad foot and Archbald a wrenched leg. They are not seriously hurt, but have been kept out of practice and it seems probable that they won't start Saturday.

Coach Eugene Nixon stiffened up the potion of work last night. He had the regulars working their plays on the reserves and later brought on Earl Merritt's freshmen to afford a little opposition. Nixon found two or three of his plays failing consistently against Caltech and he's hard at work finding out what happened to stop them.

The squad as a whole, looks pretty good in practice. Most of the boys haven't a scratch on them, thanks to the sporty game that Tech plays and, with the exception of Archbald and Bishop, all romped through the workout with great zest. The line is beginning to take on a bit more business-like appearance and the backs are working together better.

IS BRUIN MEAT BENGAL FOOD?

"Rats" Brobst, Occidental College varsity quarterback may have something to do with settling that question Saturday afternoon in the Coliseum, when the Tigers tackle the Bruins of U.C.L.A. The Oxy backfield rates considerably better than that of last year when the Bruin won a 24-to-7 victory, and there is considerable hope of victory on the Occidental campus, as Coach Albert Exendine puts his Bengals through their paces for one of the biggest games of the season.

I am told on good authority that this young fellow Joe Dundee, who risks his welterweight title against Ace Hudkins at Wrigley Field the 29th inst., is a different kind of a champion.

Of course, that statement is an old gag. It's always dragged out of the chestnut bag for a new title-holder. But in this respect is Dundee different. His first question when he reached Los Angeles was:

"Where's the closest church?"

Verily, this is a new era in pugilism, what with the Tunneys and the Dundees.

BORAH DONS GRID UNIFORM

happen at Palo Alto Saturday. By getting accustomed to Borah's terrific speed, which exceeds anything Hyland has to offer, the Southern California athletes will be in some measure prepared for the fleet-footed Cardinal.

Jesse Hibbs is likely to blossom forth in a new role against the Redshirts—that of a passer and ball carrier. Jones has to do something about that bad punting and Hibbs seems to be the only solution. Jesse is able to boot the pigskin farther than either Drury or Elliott, but sometimes takes a little bit longer to get his kicks off. Against a line such as Stanford's, this might prove fatal. Southern California has had much success in the past at Palo Alto blocking Ernie Nevers's punts. Nevers was a notoriously slow kicker.

HIBBS GOOD PASSER

Hibbs is a splendid passer and on occasion has shown that he can pack the pigskin to advantage. He has a powerful arm and can waft the ball half the length of the field with little or no effort. Those of you who go north Saturday will do well to watch for some long shots from Hibbs's trusty right arm.

Nathan Barragar, despite his bad passing of last week, is being doped to start at center instead of John Fox. Barragar's passing has been improving steadily this week, and inasmuch as he has been showing more fight than Fox he'll probably get the call.

Jones is still undecided about left guard, where Frank Anthony and Clark Galloway have been holding forth. There probably won't be any decision made until the day of the game.

Francis Tappaan is alternating with Tony Stepanovitch at right end, and will probably see a lot of service Saturday. Tony may start, but if he doesn't do his stuff properly right at the start Tappaan will bust into the game.

The Trojans leave tomorrow night.

MERMAID IN CHANNEL SWIM

McLellan," made the swim on her fifth attempt, her take-off at this late date of the channel season being inspired by word that Miss Merceles Gleitz, London typist, had conquered the channel a few days ago after six failures.

Although Dr. Logan's time was placed at one hour and twenty-one minutes better than that set by Gertrude Ederle, when the latter became the first woman to cross the channel, her time was poorer than the channel record set by the Frenchman George Michel, who made the crossing in 11h. 5m., and the second-place mark set by the German, Ernst Vierkotter, who crossed in 12h. 43m.

Dr. Logan's unadvertised moonlight swim was made under the same blanket of mystery which has marked her previous swimming and none but her attendants were aware of her attempt until the weary, but determined woman neared her goal.

She found the channel waters tranquil, but very cold and used a backstroke most of the way. Almost in sight of success she wished to leave the water believing further effort was useless, but her trainer—Horace Carey, a bus driver—insisted that she continue.

GERTRUDE WILLING TO TRY AGAIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the English Channel and whose time for that feat was lowered today by Dr. Dorothy Logan, said tonight that she is willing to try for a new channel mark.

"If the report is true," Miss Ederle said, "I wish to extend heartiest congratulations to Dr. Logan. I hope that some time in the future I will be able to give her the opportunity to break a new record."

Asked if she would attempt the swim next year, Miss Ederle said that "it all depended on circumstances."

GEHRIG GIVEN PLAYER AWARD

honor of driving in more runs than any other player in the league. In 154 games, Gehrig was at bat 584 times. He made 218 hits for a total of 437 bases. These included fifty-two doubles, eighteen triples, and his forty-seven homers. He drove in 175 runs, averaging better than a run a game. Gehrig is regarded as a "natural" ball player. He is a fine steady fielder, but his terrific hitting was the important thing in his favor in compiling the vote of the committee in his favor.

Gehrig, born in New York, June 19, 1903, began his baseball career with the Brooklyn High School. He joined the Yankees in 1923, and was later sent to Hartford. He returned to the New York club the following year in time to play in the last ten games of the 1924 season. When the veteran Wally Pipp retired, Gehrig, who had been Pipp's understudy, became the guardian of first base.

SHORTER THAN RUTH

Stockily built, and somewhat shorter than Ruth, Gehrig follows through in batting with the same powerful swing that enabled the Babe to set a baseball record of all times with his sixty home runs.

Gehrig's name in the American League's hall of fame adds to the list which began with Ty Cobb in 1911. Ruth was the choice in 1923. Walter Johnson in 1924, Roger Peckinpaugh in 1925, and George Burns in 1926.

Injuries Jolt Huskies Hard

SEATTLE, Oct. 11. (AP)—The University of Washington football team, which will play its first conference game of the season against Montana Saturday, has been hard hit by injuries.

Those on the injured list include Herman Brix, veteran tackle; Bill Wright, guard; Johnny Dalquest, reserve halfback, and Bob Foster, reserve tackle.

DAVISCOURT TO GRAPPLE GREEK

Jim Londos Faces Headlock Artist in Mat Bout

"Dainty Dick" Down to 215 Pounds for Hard Go

Fans Who Like Rough Scrap Due to be Satisfied

TONIGHT'S MAT BOUTS

Jim Londos vs. Dick Daviscourt, best two out of three falls, two-hour time limit.

Pete Sauer vs. Sanza Kozak, one fall, one hour time limit.

Prof. T. Higami vs. Marinoff Kikovich, one fall, thirty-minute time limit.

With Dick Daviscourt entering the ring at 215 pounds, which is ten pounds lighter than he has wrestled at in any of his bouts here, the 8000 fans who are expected to witness his two-hour battle with Jim Londos in the feature event of Lou Daro's wrestling show at the Olympic tonight, will possibly see the greatest grappling bout ever held in this section of the country.

The other two bouts Londos and Daviscourt engaged in here were the toughest and wildest affairs of the year, and the Wichita giant seemed to have the better of the first one, an hour event, while he pinned the Greek for the only fall in the second. In both bouts he gave Londos more punishment than the Greek ever received from any other mat man. That is the main reason why Daviscourt is being picked to plaster Londos's back to the canvas again tonight.

LONDOS TRAINED DOWN

But what a battle he is expected to have in doing it. Londos has been training for the past month getting ready for a return bout with Daviscourt, which he felt sure would be his before long. He watched him wrestle Joe Stecher for the world's championship here twice. He learned more about the Wichita headlock expert's style of grappling watching him work against the champion than he did wrestling the giant himself.

Stecher demonstrated that Daviscourt could be outroughed if the latter's opponent was persistent enough in his counter-roughing. Londos also discovered that Daviscourt could lose his temper quickly in being continually roughed, and while in that frame of mind he would be most likely to drop his guard.

Knowledge of both of these facts was invaluable to Londos, as the Greek looked almost pitiful in his attempts to nab Daviscourt with headlocks in their last bout. The Kansan cyclone roughed and headlocked Londos into insensibility. Londos tried to get back at his heavier and stronger opponent by roughing, but, judging from the tactics used by Stecher, the Greek would give up too soon each time.

Although Londos has been in secret training for this bout, it is reported that he is ready to beat Daviscourt at his own game, or be mauled to death in the attempt. The Greek is set in redeeming himself in the eyes of his backers in this section, and at the same time regain the prestige he lost when he was beaten here for the second time in six years.

"JEEM" HARD AS NAILS

Londos is hard as nails, and weighs closer to 200 pounds than he did for his last bout. He has been trying to build himself up in order to have plenty of reserve strength to keep going at top speed after the first hour and a half. Londos lost twelve pounds in his last match with Daviscourt. He went into the ring weighing 193 pounds and the scales registered only 187 pounds after the two-hour battle.

Daviscourt already has taken off about all of the weight he can for this match, and in the opinion of close followers he means to set such a fast pace in the first part of the bout that he will have Londos on the floor twice inside of an hour. The Wichita headlock expert declared last night that he felt as strong as ever, despite the fact that he had trained off ten pounds. Whether or not he will feel the loss of weight remains to be seen, but he believes it will not affect him in the least.

WATCHING COAST ELEVENS

WITH HOWARD JONES
FOOTBALL COACH, U.S.C.

Going to Stanford for a football game is something of a novelty to me, inasmuch as the two previous Cardinal contests played during my regime at Southern California have been staged in Los Angeles. Nobody realizes better than I do, that we are running into a tough proposition, and I only hope that we can maintain Southern California's excellent record on the Palo Alto gridiron.

"DIFF" HOFFMAN

Stanford's strength has not been disclosed this year. Coach Warner's team was not pointed for the St. Mary's game and the 16-to-0 score against the Redshirts means virtually nothing when Southern California and Stanford are being compared.

With two fullbacks such as Hoffman and Fleishhacker, Coach Warner doesn't have to worry about his line. Big men, with tremendous drive and power, Hoffman and Fleishhacker will attend to the line-smashing duties in very capable fashion.

Some of the northern sports writers have warned Stanford to "watch out for Southern California" this year because of the unusual silence surrounding early-season prospects. They imply that we are holding something back. The plain facts are that six men who played in the line last year—Cravath, Gorrell, Taylor, Cox, Badgro and Behrendt—will not be in Saturday's line-up against Stanford. That, to me, is certainly a good reason for silence.

In addition, two of the regular backfield men in this year's line-up are sophomores—Harry Edelson, fullback, and Russell Saunders, halfback.

Any boasting on our part, while bearing these facts in mind, would certainly be without sound basis.

The game with Oregon Aggies showed that we were not quite so strong as some of our ardent fans believed. The true basis of a football team's strength is only revealed when that team goes up against stiff opposition. We expect to meet this in Stanford.

Stanford's attack is more versatile than anything we have met this season. With two men such as Hoffman and Hyland, the Cardinals are extremely dangerous every minute of the game. Hyland hasn't played very much this year but his past record shows him to be probably the fastest man in a football suit on the Pacific Coast, even though, according to newspaper reports, he believes it himself.

Coach Warner lost a great player in George Bogue, but it will not be surprising to find that some Stanford player has developed sufficiently to give satisfaction in Bogue's old position.

The old cry about Southern California having more reserve material than Stanford no longer rings true. Our squad of varsity men numbers thirty-five, while Stanford has more than fifty athletes available for varsity games.

These facts are brought out, not in the nature of an alibi in case of possible defeat, but merely to acquaint fans with the situation as it exists. Southern California will go north to play hard, clean football against Stanford, and I hope it will be a great game.

Ruth Hits Out Three Homers

TRENTON (N. J.) Oct. 11. (AP)—Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig of the world champion New Yark Americans opened their exhibition barnstorming tour here today, playing with a selected Trento team against the Brooklyn Royal Giants. Before a large crowd Ruth hit three homers. Gehrig got a double and a single out of four times at bat.

After Ruth's third homer the game was called with the score 9 to 4 in Trenton's favor, as officials found difficulty in clearing enthusiastic spectators from the field.

GLAD-HANDERS AWAITING JACK

Jack Dempsey will get a bigger reception on his arrival home after his defeat at the hands of Gene Tunney than he met when he returned after winning from Jack Sharkey.

Promoter Jack Doyle and Patrick Shanley are in charge of the home-coming affair.

Doyle received a wire from the ex-champion yesterday stating he would reach Los Angeles at 9:10 o'clock Friday morning at the Union Station.

He will be met at the train by a band and paraded up Fifth street to the Biltmore Hotel for a more formal handshake.

Next Monday night Dempsey will be guest of honor at a big Elks' banquet. A nominal cover charge will be made for the banquet and admission will be made by ticket only. The tickets are on sale at the Continental Hotel, Elks' Club, Olympic Auditorium and the downtown Olympic box office.

Eastern Grid Teams Work

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—With football armies of the East making ready for major battles Saturday, such promising teams as Navy and Penn in practice today were applying the last touches of mortar to the defensive stone wall while Yale, Harvard and others who have faltered on the offense labored at the task of building a battering ram able to drive "that last yard."

Eli's varsity was stationed on the scrubs' ten-yard line and told to "carry it over." Again and again the Blue attack featured by Bruce Caldwell and his understudy, Johnny Garvey, rushed the ball over from that position. Against Brown this Saturday Yale will not muff chances to score as it did against Georgia, if Tad Jones can avoid it by hard drilling.

A new light appeared in the Harvard backfield to brighten fading Crimson hopes—Guy Holbrook, of last year's freshman team.

play. Jefferson and L. A. High previously had trounced Inglewood without much difficulty.

CLAIMS POLY TEAM DUMB

The Mechanic mentor further states that his team is the greenest and dumbest that has represented Poly for many a year.

However, the game is going to be played anyhow on the Hollywood gridiron and after Friday the truth will come out. Most of the asserted critics are making the Foothillers slight favorites, but the game figures to be a close one unless one team blows up.

Roman Eleven Bests Fremont

Displaying an unimpressive brand of football, Los Angeles High scrimmaged Fremont on the Pathfinders' field yesterday. The game was marred throughout by the frequent fumbles and loose line work of the Romans, Fremont breaking through time after time to smear the backfield for large losses.

During the first half most of the playing was done in Roman territory, with the Red and Gray threatening to score repeatedly. The second half, however, was the reverse, as the Pioneers awoke to the fact that they were in a game which calls for something more than mere beef. Late in this period the Romans succeeded in pushing over their lone score on a series of plunges through the newly substituted line of their opponents.

The line-up:

L. A. High.		Fremont High.
Levy	L.E.	Kaufman
McComas	L.T.	Henderson
McGee	L.G.	Douglas
Quirk	C.	Oehlrich
Fraze	R.G.	Biesanz
Chapman	R.T.	Iffe
Brown	R.E.	Gruel
Wilson	Q.	Marra
Houck	L.H.	Bertan
Owens	R.H.	Cain
Grannas	F.	Dutter

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER
BILL HENRY

THE prime requisite to success as an author being the ability to get yourself talked about, we'd regard Mr. Tricky Dick Hyland of Stanford University as well on his way to fame and fortune in the literary world. It used to be that to achieve success as a writer you had to be able to write. However, that has long since been disproved by the vast sums of money paid for the literary efforts of such facile and educated authors as Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, etc. We're not going to accuse either Dick Hyland or Adelbert Rogers St. Johns of not being able to write well. What we are saying is that in Hyland's case his initial literary effort has caused so much excitement that henceforth literary talent is entirely unnecessary.

From what we learned after reading "The Frontrunner," which has stirred up all this excitement, it looks to us as though the story were being used somewhat after the manner in which the red cloak is used in a bullfight—as a means of stirring up the animals. Certainly the Trojans are in a desperate state of mind over the affair and are bent on revenging themselves upon Stanford University in general and Mr. Hyland in particular. This should certainly be considerably helpful to Brother H. Jones in getting his delegates in the proper fighting frame of mind for the game.

We're rather inclined to believe that the astute Mr. Pop Warner is likely to make use, likewise, of the displeasure with which the Trojans, individually and as a whole, view Mr. Hyland.

We wouldn't be at all surprised if Mr. Hyland were to be seen from time to time on Saturday rushing toward the sidelines and making motions as though about to receive a forward pass and, while Mr. Hyland was being enthusiastically pursued by a number of blood-thirsty Trojans, have somebody else in a Stanford suit departing with the ball in an entirely different direction. That would be just like Pop.

Anyhow, it's all going to contribute to the general excitement at Palo Alto and there ought to be plenty of thrills in the game. We doubt if Drury fumbles much up there and we're rather inclined to think that U.S.C. will make a terrific battle out of the game.

ZWICK KAYOES RUSSELL

CANTON (O.) Oct. 11. (AP)—Phil Zwick, Cleveland, featherweight, knocked out Spark-plug Russell of Newark, N. J., in the fifth round of a scheduled ten-round main bout here last night.

Hollywood Athletic Club and the Olympic Club will meet in a dual boxing meet at San Francisco, the 17th inst., it was announced yesterday afternoon by Bob Howard, athletic director, acting for Boxing Commissioner Tom Gallery. Gallery is scheduled to return today or tomorrow from Chicago, where he was called by the illness of his mother.

The meet will be the first dual competition between the clubs and Howard expects to take a team of seven men north. It will likely be the last competition for both teams before the far-western A.A.U. championships at the Bay City, the 31st inst. and November 1. Both will be well represented in this event.

ADOLPHUS WINS RACE

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (AP)—Adolphus, full brother to the great Sarazen, furnished one of the many surprises at the Hawthorne track today, winning the third race by a nose in a day filled with long-shot victories.

TILDEN AND DOEG WILL FEATURE AT DEDICATION

Big Bill Tilden, one of the several national tennis stars to perform in this city during the recent Pacific-Southwest net championships, will do battle with young Johnny Doeg, former national junior champion, this afternoon at the dedication of the Clover Field tennis courts in Santa Monica.

JOHNNY DOEG

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, champion of all women players of America some twenty years ago, will cross rackets with one of the Bay City's rising youngsters, Miss Midge Gladman, present national girls' champion, in another singles exhibition.

The final contest on the afternoon's program finds Miss Gladman and Big Bill facing Mrs. Bundy and Doeg in a mixed doubles. The officials in charge, Lee Smith and George Fries, have made arrangements to seat a crowd of more than 1000 fans. Tickets for the exhibitions have been on sale at the Los Angeles Tennis Club and can be secured at the gate this afternoon.

Santa Monica's pride, With the exception of Tilden, the dedication of the Santa Monica courts will be fittingly made by the Bay City's home talent, all of whom have held national titles. Mrs. Bundy, Midge Gladman and Johnny Doeg.

Willie Hunter Resigns at Brentwood to Take Over New Montebello Park Go

LATEST COURSE OPEN TO PUBLIC

Announce Pay-As-You-Play Plan for Golfers

Ad Club Members to Tackle Riviera Tomorrow

Moser Out of Club Affair at Wilshire

BY BILL WISE

Wee Willie Hunter, California open champion for the second consecutive year and professional of the Brentwood Country Club for the past four seasons, will sever his $10,000 connections with the Santa Monica organization next spring to take over the professional and managerial duties of the new Montebello Park Golf Club on Whittier Boulevard.

The Montebello Park venture, being constructed by Max Behr at a cost of approximately $500,000, will embody the very latest features of construction pay-as-you-play golf courses, according to exclusive information released by club officials yesterday.

Grading work has been under way for the past few months, and, according to Behr, the all-grass layout will offer one of the finest tests in the country. An initial expenditure of $10,000 for trees was authorized before even the preliminary grading was started, the construction architect stated, and, like Lakeside, work on the new course will not be rushed unnecessarily and the layout will not be ready for play before next April or May.

Hunter's resignation as Brentwood professional will come as a decided surprise to even club officials. There was considerable executive discussion regarding the former British amateur's $10,000 yearly contract several weeks ago, but the fiery little Englishman refused a slash, and, as a result, was again offered the Brentwood job, with no cut in salary, and, as formerly, all concessions.

WOMEN'S TEAM PLAY TOMORROW

Women golfers will swing into action in Mrs. G. M. Midgley's new three-division league over the local circuit tomorrow. Schedule of play tomorrow is as follows:

First division—Rancho at California; Hillcrest at Los Angeles.
Second division—Wilshire at Hollywood; Bel-Air at El Caballero.
Third division—Fitzbridge at Oakmont; San Gabriel at Annandale.

AD CLUB GOLFERS TACKLE RIVIERA

Golfing members of the Advertising Club will open the current season with a featured interassociation divisional tournament at the new Riviera club tomorrow. Ad Club officials have arranged a very attractive schedule of events and expect the first of the regular monthly affairs to draw a record entry.

BEAR GOLFERS WIN OVER SAN JOSE CLUB

BERKELEY, Oct. 11. (Exclusive) The preliminary practice season was introduced in good style by the University of California's varsity golf squad Sunday when it defeated the San Jose Country Club, 7-5, over the latter's own links. This marks California's first victory over the clubmen, last year having suffered a 12-to-3 defeat. None of the California scores were over 83, while many were in the 70's, with Bill Fleager picking up low honors with a 74. Dr. Hines of San Jose was low man of the match with a 73, with Hugh Dittler and Julian Cahn, his roommates, both registering a 76. Benny Rucker, a Bear, turned in a 78.

SOCCER TILT PLANNED

BERKELEY, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—The season's first genuinely strong competition will be faced Saturday afternoon by the University of California's championship soccer team when it meets with the San Francisco Olympic Club on the Winged O's home grounds. The Golden Gate Park Stadium.

EXPECT AUERBACH TO TROUBLE BERT COLIMA

Herman Auerbach, former sparring partner of Jack Dempsey, when Jack fought Gene Tunney at Philadelphia, is likely to give Bert Colima a hard fight in the Hollywood American Legion stadium main event Friday night. That impression is being given by smart men in the fight game, who have seen Auerbach under fire and know he is a better fighter than most people realize.

If Colima can stop Auerbach he is making another step forward in the way of getting a championship fight with Mickey Walker. Jack Kearns wants plenty of coin to fight Colima as Walker is about ready to step into the light-heavyweight ranks someone is going to get a crack at the middleweight title. Bert Colima has first call.

There is going to be a knockout in the main event. If Bert Colima doesn't flatten Herman Auerbach then the Salt Lake City lad will kayo Colima. The fighters hit too hard for the main event to go ten rounds.

HARRIERS REPORT AT REDLANDS MONDAY

REDLANDS, Oct. 11.—Coach Cunningham has issued the call for all the long-distance BVD artists to report for initial training next Monday afternoon for the annual cross-country event, which will be held some time during the first part of December. Prospects are bright this year, as only one member of last year's team, which took third place, has returned to school. Cecil Dotts, track captain, and premier distance man of the school, took third honors in last year's meet and there is no reason to think that he will not do better this year. Bill Hettler, his running mate, finished in no mean place last year and can be counted on for points this year. Other men who were on the team last year are John Truesdale, Bill McPherson, David Kreyssler, Burton Young, Herman Williams, Ralph Cope and Clinton McKinnon.

HUDKINS TRAINS FOR GO AT BAKER RANCH

Ace Hudkins, fast-punching welterweight, will divide honors with some real cowpunchers Sunday at Baker Ranch, Saugus, where he is training for his title bout with Joe Dundee, welter champion, at Wrigley Field, the 29th inst.

As one of the high spots of his arduous training program, Hudkins will engage sparring partners in a twelve-round workout. Numerous of his Los Angeles friends are expecting to make the trip to watch him in action.

Following Ace's sparring, cowboys will attempt to ride twenty-one wild, bucking horses, just arrived from Idaho. They will be used in the huge spring rodeo at the Baker stadium.

BUD TAYLOR MEETS BELL IN CHICAGO RING

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (AP)—Promoter Jim Mullen tonight matched Bud Taylor, generally recognized as the world's bantamweight champion, and Archie Bell of New York for a ten-round contest involving the title here November 19.

Bell recently returned from a campaign in England. He is rated as one of the outstanding challengers for the 118-pound title.

TERRIS IS SUSPENDED FOR FOULING McGRAW

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Sid Terris of New York, one of the outstanding contenders in the lightweight division, was suspended indefinitely by the New York Athletic Commission today for fouling Phil McGraw of Detroit in a bout at Ebbets Field last week.

SOCCER PLAYERS SOLD

FALL RIVER (Mass.) Oct. 11. (AP)—Sam Mark, owner of the Fall River club of the American Soccer League, today announced that he had purchased all fourteen players of the Philadelphia club.

Indiana Grids Work Hard for Michigan Tilt

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (AP)—The largest of the tackling dummies, labeled "Herb Joesting," was the center of the Indiana football squad's attack tonight as the Hoosiers labored to achieve the hitherto impossible feat of stopping the great Minnesota all-American fullback.

Freshman squads battered their strength against the varsity today on all the Big Ten gridirons, using formations brought back by scouts from foreign fields. The Indiana frosh in three separate squads tested the Hoosier regulars in hard scrimmage.

Michigan reserved the weekly scrimmage battle for tomorrow, as its last hard practice before entraining for Madison to meet the Badgers, their annual victim since 1899.

Coach Stagg took his Chicago team all apart today and tested the various cogs separately. Fritz Crisler told the linemen how hard Ralph Welch of Purdue would be to stop, declaring most of the new star's gains against Harvard were off tackle and off guard, which lays the burden of defense upon the forward wall.

Another of the Purdue backfield regulars went to the hospital tonight. Tony Leichtle having a badly injured knee.

The Northwestern backfield, with the exception of Capt. Vic Gustafson, remained among the scrubs today, but showed added vigor because of their demotion for "laziness."

Coach Zuppke warned his Illini that Iowa State was no set-up for next Saturday, and worked his men hard on forward-pass defense.

HOFFMAN IS KAYOE VICTIM

stamping of feet, so everybody had a pleasant time.

Ole Windy Winsor called the turn as he filed out of the arena: "Say, the guy who compared Emanuel to James J. Corbett ought to be pilloried."

EMANUEL TRIES HARD

At that, you can't blame Emanuel. He did his best to make a fight out of it. He is not a damaging hitter, and the other poor guy can't fight, but he got exhausted moving around in a circle as Emanuel danced in and out.

A number of the ringside experts made cute remarks about the combatants as they waded through round after round, and William Warde Fowler, the celebrated Gaelic authority, suggested that probably Jack Doyle was keeping the bugs on a starvation diet in order to whet their appetites for the good things to come. Herman Spitzel was sure Hoffman had won until Emanuel landed his lucky punch, and his raucous cheers of encouragement were heard above the welkin.

However, the house was larger than last week's at the Hill-Foley match, so it looks as if the heavyweights are an appealing dish to the cash dispensers, anyway. Emanuel weighed 177 to Hoffman's 181.

Mike Watters started too late to head off Armando Shackels, and the latter won the six-round semi-windup. Watters had his foe dizzy with right-hand pokes in the sixth round, but Shackels won the first four rounds, so there was no doubt about the decision.

But Referee McFarland got himself in dutch when he called Willie Fausto the winner over Joe Purras in the four-round opener, and the bugs were on him so bad that Dan Tobey couldn't introduce the next performers because of the din.

SPEEDY KNOCKOUT

In this event Oscar "Battling" Baker rolled up his twenty-second knockout, scoring it at the expense of Nathaniel Hogan in the second round. Hogan was down twice for the count of nine before he succumbed for good. He was knocked out on his feet, falling into a corner from a right to the chin, and remaining propped there, limp as a rag, until eased into a stool.

Harvey Holliday and Genzolo Rubio put up a whale of a fight—a six-rounder—which was called a draw, and booed by the fans, some of whom thought Rubio won and the others Holliday.

Holliday scored two knockdowns in the third round, and Rubio scored one in the fifth round. Rubio had the edge in the sixth, but Holliday's margin in the earlier rounds might have entitled him to the decision.

SPEED NEWMAN IS REAL SAFETY MAN

BERKELEY, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—Among their many assets this season the Golden Bear gridsters of the University of California have a genuine safety man in the person of "Speed" Newman, an experienced varsity player of other years, just returned to the campus from his ranching activities near Twin Falls, Idaho, whence he brought a sensation for the frosh team in Clarence Garrity, a 200-pound fullback who can do everything with the pigskin except make new ones.

LEFTY LUCATORTA PRAISED

"Lefty" Lucatorta, local semipro ball player, who led the Division A in hitting honors two years ago, is believed to have set a semipro record last Sunday, when he hit his fifth home run in five consecutive games. He was playing for the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank team, against the Sawtelle team, winning the game in the eleventh inning with a home-run clout to break a 12-to-12 tie score, and making it his fifth in five games. He is leading the team with a batting average of .706.

NEW RULES HAVE NO EFFECT ON EASTERN GRID ELEVENS

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Based on games played to date, the 1927 changes in rules have had little, if any, effect on football in the East. Straight football and the forward pass have played large parts in scores.

The point from touchdown has not appeared to be the bugaboo some critics feared it would be with the goal posts ten yards behind the goal line, and the percentage of drop kicks and placements seems to be about the same as always. In only one game, Harvard's defeat of Vermont, has the lateral pass been used to any extent.

Critics are of the opinion now that the lateral pass is to be almost totally ignored as an offensive weapon, and that its use for the next few weeks at least will be chiefly as a check on other plays, and that it will be held in reserve, as an element of deception.

Fandom is looking to the Notre Dame-Navy encounter at Baltimore for many frills. Both teams have reached an advanced stage where they can very well afford to put everything at their command into the battle. Rockne's team, evidently as strong as ever, will be meeting a powerful, alert and smart Navy eleven. West will have one advantage over East in this meeting, that being the matter of experience. Coach Bill Ingram has had to use much reserve material to replace the positions left vacant by graduations.

WALTER SPENCE TO SWIM HERE TONIGHT

Walter Spence, world's medley swimming champion and national breast stroke king, will appear at the downtown Y.M.C.A. this evening in a series of water events. He swims the 100-yard breast stroke faster than the average man does the crawl, it is said.

Other swimmers will perform on the bill and all fans will be admitted free.

GLENN WRIGHT FREED

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—Glenn Wright, Pirate shortstop, had "nothing much to say," in traffic court today regarding the collision of his automobile Sunday with another machine. Magistrate John Staley, jr., dismissed the case after it was developed that a private settlement would be made. Three occupants of the other car were injured slightly and a traffic beacon was damaged in the collision.

ROYAL PALMS CLUB MERMAIDS IN SWIM

The Royal Palms Club girls' swimming team will enter in their first competition at the Huntington Hotel swimfest at Pasadena Saturday afternoon, according to Frank Holborrow, club mentor.

Lillie May Bowmer, Kathryn Ulrich, Hilda Curtis and Marjorie Lowe will wear the Royal Palms Club insignia in competition against the Pasadena Athletic Club entries.

WILSHIRE OPTIMISTS WIN TENNIS DOUBLES

The Wilshire Optimist Club defeated the Burbank aggregation in the finals of the annual tennis doubles tournament at the Ambassador courts yesterday. The Southwest and Northeast Optimist organizations also participated.

DUNDEE IN RAPID RISE TO WELTERWEIGHT

Joe Dundee, thirteenth welterweight champion of the world, and the third one to come out of Baltimore, Md., rose from the ranks of the flyweights to win the welterweight title, all within eight years.

From the flyweight Joe jumped to the lightweight division, where he met and defeated such boxers as Joe Welling, Andy and George Chaney, Ever Hammer, Luis Vicentini and others. In 1925, Dundee fought his first fight as a welterweight. He took the decision from Jack McVey in Madison Square Garden, and rose up the ladder by defeating such men as Jimmy Jones, Joe Simmonich, Jack Zivic, Sailor Freedman, Eddie Roberts, George Levine, Lew Tendler; he knocked out Nate Goldman, Eddie Burnbrook, Mickey Walker, in eight rounds, Jack Darcey, and others.

BOB MEUSEL SIGNS UP WITH ALL-STARS

Bob Meusel has signed with Joe Pirrone's Major and Minor League All-Stars to play six exhibition games, it was announced yesterday by Pirrone, who received a wire from the big outfielder. CONCORD (N. H.) Oct. 11. (AP)—Miss Helen Gwendolyn Jones, 24-year-old graduate of the University of New Hampshire, today became the first feminine mayoralty nominee in the history of this State when she finished second in a field of four candidates in today's nonpartisan primary election for the city elections next November.

Miss Jones ran second to the present Mayor, Fred N. Marden, in today's voting. She indicated she will run as an Independent Democrat. The other candidates are Democrats.

Carroll Plea Up Tomorrow

ATLANTA (Ga.) Oct. 11. (AP)—A special meeting of the Federal Parole Board has been called for Thursday in Atlanta to consider applications of prisoners at the penitentiary who became eligible for parole in October, among whom is Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer.

CALIFORNIAN TAKES OATH IN FEDERAL JOB

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—Clarence L. Charest, a native of California, recently named by President Coolidge as general counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, succeeding Alexander W. Gregg, entered upon the duties of the office today. The oath was made in the presence of Commissioner Blair, Assistant Nash and other bureau officials.

ENVOYS TO SIT WITH ORATORS

Fellow-Countryman Will Present Each Speaker

Senator Smoot to Accompany Dorothy Carlson

Cabinet Officers Also Will Have Place on Stage

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (Exclusive) When the five contestants in the second international oratorical contest are summoned to the stage of the Washington Auditorium Friday night to battle for the high-school oratorical championship of the world, each will be accompanied by an official fellow-countryman who will sit by his side throughout the meeting.

The Ambassadors of France, Mexico and England, and the Minister of Canada and a United States Senator will be the battle companions of the young orators. Thus, with the introduction of each speaker by the singing of a national air of his own land and the presence of a man from his home country, the presentation of the contestant field will be made with complete impartiality.

HOWARD TO GIVE ADDRESS

Vincent Massey, Minister to the United States from Canada, will accompany Frederick P. Hotson, champion of the Dominion country; M. Paul Claudel, Ambassador to the United States from France, will sit with Georges Guiot-Gullain, spokesman for France; Don Manuel C. Telles, Ambassador to this country from Mexico, will encourage Arturo Garcia Formenti, representative in the contest of Mexico; Sir Esme Howard, Ambassador of Great Britain, who will make the formal address of the contest, will accompany James Keith Watson, champion of England, and Senator Reed Smoot of Utah will sit with Miss Dorothy Carlson of Salt Lake City, spokesman for the United States.

In addition to the foreign diplomats who will act as the official supporters of their countries' champions, all the other ambassadors and ministers of foreign countries represented in Washington, will be present upon the auditorium stage during the course of the contest. United States government officials, including members of the Cabinet, will be seated with the foreigners to repeat the international aspect so thoroughly represented by the young orators themselves.

HALL INSPECTED

Contest officials of several foreign countries now are en route to Washington, and Friday night they will mingle with government officers on the Auditorium stage.

While the stage is being set for their coming combat, the contestants are preening themselves for their best efforts. They visited the Auditorium for the second time this morning to study the hall's acoustic peculiarities so that when they deliver their orations they will be able to do so in the most effective manner.

Early this afternoon the four boys and the lone girl contestant were entertained at a luncheon given in their honor by the Canadian Society at the University Club. Dr. E. N. C. Barnes, president of the society, presided as their official host.

FREAK WELL PAYS COSTS INSTANTER

Drilled in Three Days for $150 and Yields Fifty Barrels, High Gravity

FARMINGTON (N. M.) Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—One of the most remarkable oil wells the world ever has known has just been completed on Mancos River dome, forty miles northwest of this city.

The hole, which was drilled in exactly three working days at a cost of $150, is 302 feet deep, and is yielding light oil of 36 deg. gravity at the rate of at least fifty barrels per day.

Such a production practically will pay for the hole in about two days. At present low prices the cost would be offset in at least three days, it is believed.

The well was drilled by the Great Basin Oil Company in the northwest end of the San Juan Basin district. Being at least a mile from the discovery well on the Mancos River dome, the new producer, it is believed, will prove up at least 1000 acres additional for shallow production.

Fall En Route to Stand Trial With Sinclair

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (AP)—Albert B. Fall, during whose tenure as Secretary of the Interior the Teapot Dome oil lease was made, was en route to Washington tonight to stand trial on criminal charges with Harry F. Sinclair, ready for trial and ready to assert his innocence.

"Once only have I faced charges in relation to the oil leases in question and then I was acquitted with Mr. Doheny by a jury," he said after he had boarded the train.

"I am not worried about the outcome of the coming trial. It has not occurred to me that I might be found guilty. A man doesn't think of that, you know, when he is absolutely sure of his own integrity."

He said he would be ready for trial next Monday.

Evacuation of Residents Urged in Report

Underwater Volcanoes Get Blame for Quakes

RIGA, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—Written in the conservative language of scientists, a report is published in the soviet press announcing that Crimea is threatened with a terrible catastrophe.

A committee of geologists sent to Crimea to investigate the earthquakes which are becoming more frequent and intense, states that the soviet government should take immediate steps to evacuate the population on the southern shores of Crimea, since a large district may subside into the waters of the Black Sea in the near future.

The scientists discovered that underwater volcanoes are active, causing the earthquakes and forcing the populations of Yalta, Simferopol and other cities to live in tent colonies in the suburbs.

Gigantic Land Fraud Charged

NORTH PLATTE (Neb.) Oct. 11. (AP)—Advertisements which sought to sell valuable lands at cheap prices led Federal government officials to an investigation which resulted in the arrest of four men, Edwin T. Morrison, an Omaha attorney; Charles Aker, Kansas City; Guy Weir, Crookston, Neb., and Roy I. Wilkinson, Shelton, Neb. They are charged with using the mails to defraud.

The four are accused of obtaining forgeries to deeds of lands owned by nonresident owners in Western Nebraska, working up abstracts, and then selling the land between themselves, the various "sales" recorded on the abstract leading the final innocent purchaser to buy the land in good faith. More than $200,000 worth of asserted forged deeds and abstracts were found in the possession of the arrested men.

Two Give Up in Rum Battle Case

Application of Paul Brokaw, "society bootlegger," for probation was taken under advisement. Brokaw's attorney told the court his client is dying in a Livermore hospital. The man was sentenced to two years' confinement and fined $1000 for his participation in the Moss Landing affray.

Insurance Against Engine Repair

The first thing to do before making any extensive repairs or adjustments is to have the ignition checked and the spark plugs looked over.

Many times expensive repair bills are incurred and it is afterwards found that all that was needed was a new set of spark plugs. This because spark plugs in time deteriorate and need to be renewed.

Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd and other great flyers staked their lives on AC Spark Plugs in their epoch-making flights. You, too, can have the same spark plugs. See your dealer for the right type and size for your engine . . .

COSGRAVE WINS IN DAIL EIREANN

Retains Presidency by Majority of Six

De Valera Adherents Make No Nomination

Administration Criticised in Irish Tongue

DUBLIN (Ireland) Oct. 11.—(AP)—President William T. Cosgrave has been re-elected President of the Irish Free State Executive Council by the new Dail Eireann with a majority of six over his opponents and now will proceed to form his Cabinet.

His nomination as President was opposed by members of the Fianna Fail (De Valera party) and Laborites. No alternative nomination was made, however, and Cosgrave, receiving the support of six Farmers and Eleven Independents, obtained an easy election.

Michael Hayes was re-elected Speaker without opposition. Eamon De Valera, making his first speech in the new Dail in Irish, protested that the Speaker's salary of £1700 a year is too much and announced that he later will move its reduction to £1000.

The first sitting was not sensational. Sean O'Kelly, De Valera's chief lieutenant, in opposing the re-election of Cosgrave, spoke in Irish, roundly denouncing the whole Cosgrave administration.

SPEECH TRANSLATED

President Cosgrave sat opposite, but as he is not an Irish scholar he could not understand what he was hearing. Finance Minister Blythe, however, passed to the President slips of paper on which he had written a translation of O'Kelly's remarks.

The burden of O'Kelly's attack was that the Cosgrave policy was responsible for a great increase in emigration and at that the bulk of the 250,000 emigrants driven out by the Cosgrave policy belong to the Republican party.

The opposition speakers also denounced the Public Safety Act. Blythe, in defending it, said the act is necessary to prevent the "Balkanization of Ireland."

LABOR BACKS DE VALERA

Sean Lemass, De Valera's director of elections, said the Fianna Fail would not shirk the responsibility of government if Cosgrave were defeated.

Though both De Valera and Labor party leaders deny there is anything like an alliance between the two, the Laborites voted solidly with De Valera and close co-operation between these parties in the opposition is considered certain.

Cosgrave did not attempt to take up any of the opposition challenges in today's discussions. He contented himself with observing that there will be plenty of time for this in the next five years. The opinion of observers is that unless he presses controversial legislation Cosgrave can carry on for at least one year even with his present small majority.

Combined Refrigerator-Stove Given Public Showing at Chicago Meeting

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (AP)—A combined gas range and refrigerator has been given its first public showing here in connection with the convention of the American Gas Association.

The new cooking and cooling unit occupies no more space than the average gas range. It is finished in white enamel. The refrigerator occupies the lower part of the unit.

Light Urged on Vice Problems

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—Pleas to drag the problem of social disease from a skeleton closet of diffidence and social inhibitions were made before the public health section of the Commonwealth Club here today by Dr. Mabel E. Gifford, head of the San Francisco police clinic, and Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University. The time has arrived to face the issue squarely and in broad daylight, they said, in effect.

The abolishment of houses of ill-repute has failed to curb the spread of social disease, Dr. Gifford maintained. Women who frequented such sections are not the principal carriers of disease, she averred. More dangerous, in her opinion, is the indiscriminate automobile ride.

President Wilbur asserted that "police efforts at suppression have shown themselves ghastly failures."

NOTE ON TARIFF PLEASES PARIS

Washington Reply Produces Favorable Impression

Text of Negotiations to be Kept from Public

Way Believed Now Open for Technical Discussion

PARIS, Oct. 11. (AP)—The latest American communication in the Franco-American Exchange on French Tariff Rates, presented to the Foreign Office this noon, appeared to have produced a favorable impression here tonight.

Both parties in the discussion have agreed to keep the negotiations out of print at present, but there were unmistakable evidences of satisfaction around the Foreign Office after the note had been read.

It especially was agreeable to the Quai D'Orsay that Washington gave strict instructions to prevent revelation or comment on the text of the document, as there is a tendency in French diplomatic circles to fear difficulties when newspaper polemics are made possible by the publicity of details of such negotiations.

In the absence of details concerning the American reply to the recent French aide memoire, there was a tendency in political circles and the press to assume that recent dispatches from Washington give the essence of the note and that it paves the way for actual negotiations to a promising basis.

From indications at the Quai D'Orsay, it is assumed that Washington has agreed to get down to a discussion of the purely technical phases of the situation caused by the great increase in the French tariff rates on American goods, ignoring questions of doctrine, which might prolong any preliminary discussion indefinitely. Experts who may be called upon to participate in the negotiations say that if such is the case, it will be easy for the two governments to come to an agreement.

It also is assumed that another note from the French government may be necessary before the basis of future negotiations finally is fixed and that this will be forthcoming without delay.

British Aviatrix Weds Baronet

LONDON, Oct. 11. (AP)—Mrs. Elliott Lynn, British aviatrix, was married today to Sir James Heath, ironmaster and colliery proprietor, who was created a baronet in 1904. The bride is the heroine of many daring aerial exploits and recently established a new world altitude record for light airplanes at 19,000 feet.

The bride gave her age as 30 years. Her entry on the register at Christ's Church, Mayfair, where the wedding was solemnized, propably is the longest ever entered there. It reads: "Sophia Catherine Theresa Mary Pierce Evans Elliott Lynn, widow."

Roma Sacudida por un Temblor

ROMA, Octubre 11.—Un ligero temblor ha sacudido hoy a Roma. Lo más intenso del movimiento se registró a las 3:46 de la tarde. Hicieron péndulo las lámparas en las casas, pero el temblor no fue lo suficientemente fuerte para romper la loza o cerrar de golpe las puertas.

Los peatones sintieron claramente las vibraciones en la Plaza de España, así como otros las advirtieron cerca de San Pedro; pero no hay noticia de que hayan ocurrido daños materiales.

Primo de Rivera Desmiente lo de la Entrevista

MADRID, Octubre 11.—El primer ministro Primo de Rivera ha dado hoy a la publicidad una nota semioficial, desmintiendo la absurda entrevista a que hace poco se refirió un diario de Londres.

Dice la nota que, después de su breve declaración subsecuente a su conferencia con Sir Austen Chamberlain, ministro de Relaciones británico, en la isle de Mallorca, no ha hablado ni escrito una sola palabra para el público relativa a dicha conferencia.

R. London Sunday Times habló esta último domingo de una entrevista, en la que se atribuye a Primo de Rivera haber indicado que tal vez se retirará España del Africa Septentrional, y que, si actuase de mediador el Imperio Británico, el creía en la posibilidad de algún arreglo muy satisfactorio entre España y Francia en la cuestión de Tánger.

Achacábase también al primer ministro que había dicho que la conferencia de Mallorca, descrita por él como una "visita de cortesía" más que otra cosa, sería reanudada en otras conversaciones que iba a tener con Sir Austen.

En el ministerio de Relaciones de Londres se guardó estricto silencio ayer en lo tocante a la entrevista, si bien algunos funcionarios manifestaron a las claras su disgusto.

WET TALK FAILS TO STIR NORRIS

Prohibition Issue Will Be Minor One, He Says

Senator Thinks Dry Law Has Not Had Fair Chance

Should Be Divorced From Politics, His Opinion

[Will prohibition be an issue in the next Presidential campaign? There is disagreement on this among the leaders of each of the two major parties. This is shown by a series of interviews written for the North American Newspaper Alliance by Robert Barry, well-known Washington correspondent. Mr. Barry interviewed Democratic and Republican leaders throughout the country. Publication of the Democratic interviews has been completed. The views of the Republicans are now being presented.]

BY ROBERT BARRY

[Copyright, 1927, by all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska, is not distinguished for consistent agreement with his Republican colleagues, but he is in accord with them on the prohibition issue.

SENATOR GEORGE W. NORRIS

He does not believe it a question likely to cause controversy on the Republican side. He does not envisage it as a major issue next year. To him, other things are certain to prove more important.

"I have not regarded the prohibition issue as one that will enter very greatly into the coming campaign," Senator Norris declared.

He speaks as an ardent dry, politically and personally, and as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee which controls all prohibition legislation in the upper house. Senator Norris typifies a considerable body of farmer sentiment in the Middle and Near West.

The real significance of his interview is in these words:

OPPOSES STAND-PATTER

"A wet President, assuming, of course, that he would fairly enforce existing law, would be much more desirable to me than a dry who stood for all other stand-pat kinds of legislation which, to my mind, is detrimental and injurious to real democratic principles of government."

The veteran progressive leader does not undertake to say the agrarian insurgents among his colleagues share that sentiment. He is not in the habit, however, of deferring to the judgments of others. He stands for his personal opinions.

"I have not desired that prohibition should be a deciding issue in the campaign," Senator Norris declared. "I am one of those who believes, at present, at least, that there is no possibility of repealing the Volstead Act and that the agitation of the question is not only unnecessary but undesirable.

"I have been a consistent supporter of prohibition, and from my knowledge of the members of the two houses of Congress it is my belief that it is perfectly idle for the opponents of prohibition to expect to repeal the law or to obtain any modification of it that will tend toward greater leniency in its enforcement. It seems, therefore, that it ought not be a dominant issue in the campaign.

FAVORS PROGRESSIVE

"Personally, I regard other issues of far greater importance. I would prefer a President who was progressive in his ideas and who stood for the proper control of railroads, water power and other progressive measures, even though he were opposed to the Volstead Act. In other words, I do not think it is the only issue, and it should not be made the only issue.

"I do not believe that prohibition ever has had a fair chance. I do not believe it ever has been fairly enforced. It has been made a partisan, political issue in many instances.

"Prohibition enforcement officers have been appointed not because of their sincerity in enforcing the law, but because they have been active in a partisan way in keeping the machine in power. It ought to be entirely eliminated from politics.

"Laws ought to be enforced regardless of partisanship, but in the prohibition question there is greater danger in putting the enforcement of it on the political pie-counter than any other executive function. This is because there is so much money in the violation of this law.

BOOTLEGGERS IN OFFICE

"Men are appointed to enforce the law often for purely partisan reasons. There is so much profit in the business that men creep into office under the guise of partisanship and faithful political services when the real reason is to get into the bootlegging business for the money there is in it. Men of this kind can make enormous contributions to the political machine out of the profits of their unlawful business.

"If the President would select men regardless of their partisanship, picked entirely for their qualifications and ability to enforce the law, and then give the law a fair, honest test, I think we would get results that never have been heretofore obtained, and would meet the criticism so often justifiably made that the law is not being enforced. It is time enough to talk about any modification or repeal after the law has had a reasonable opportunity by fair enforcement to show its usefulness.

"I am one of those who believe that a fair and honest enforcement of this law will convince the people of the country not only that it is necessary to retain it, but that a vast amount of good has been brought about on account of its enforcement."

(The next interview will be with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University.)

POWERFUL BLOC IN MAKING

Five Western Senators Invite Others to Help Form Group Which Can Swing Balance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—Organization of an effective western bloc to seize the balance of power in the coming session of the Senate and not promotion of Senator Norris's Presidential boom, is the real objective of the radical Republican Senators who have been holding almost daily conferences here during the past week.

Invitations to join the group have been extended to all western Republican Senators and no platform or definite program of action will be adopted until they have had time to respond or return to Washington, according to the formal statement issued today by the five—Senators Borah, Idaho; Norris, Nebraska; Frazier, North Dakota; Nye, North Dakota, and Brookhart, Iowa—who have participated in the conferences thus far. The statement disclaims any "third party" intentions and denies even any thought of insurgency within the party.

The purpose of the proposed bloc, according to the statement, is to "get some unity of purpose and some solidarity of action" among western Senators and to impress upon the eastern States and their representatives in Congress, as Senator Borah explained it, that "a large portion of the United States lies west of the Allegheny Mountains."

SEVERAL SUGGESTED

When it became known a few days ago that the radical Senators were conferring it was announced that their intention was to choose some Presidential candidate behind whom western States delegations could unite in the Republican national nominating convention in 1928. Senator Borah proposed his colleague, Senator Norris, and the latter reciprocated by naming Senator Borah as one of several including Senator Johnson of California, Senator Howell of Nebraska and Ex-Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania, who could carry the West if nominated.

"These conferences," it is asserted, in the statement issued tday, "have for their purpose the discussion and consideration of questions which seem particularly to concern or appertain to the West, both politically and legislatively. We have our problems, such as the agricultural or farm problem and other matters which seem more vital to us than they are to the East. We hope to get some unity of purpose and some solidarity of action.

"While dealing with legislative matters we shall also probably consider political matters. We are cognizant of the fact that an election is coming on next year and cannot help feeling some interest in it.

NO SEPARATION PLANNED

"These conferences have not the slightest thing to do with a third-party movement. We proceed upon the theory that the Republican party is a national party and not an eastern party. We proceed upon the theory that if we make our wishes known in a proper way and with sufficient force, they will be respected and considered by the party. Ours is a pretty large country and it now extends from the Mississippi to the Pacific."

Presidential candidacies are dismissed in the statement with the assertion that the feeling of the group individually "is that they would be glad to support Senator Norris in any State in which he would consent to have his name used."

The general disposition of the group, according to Senator Borah, is to favor the application of any Treasury surplus which may exist toward retirement of the public debt rather than toward tax reduction.

Differences of opinion exist among the members on the form and extent of farm relief which the group should sponsor, but all are agreed, Senator Borah asserted, that the West needs the same measure of tariff protection for its products that is now afforded eastern industrial sections.

McNARY TO EVOLVE NEW RELIEF BILL

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 11. (AP)—In the hope that some practical form of farm relief may be worked out and presented to Congress, Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, will call a conference on his return to Washington, of representatives of farmers and eastern financiers. He expects, he said today in a formal statement, to see evolved from the conference, a bill which will not only be satisfactory to the producers, but also to the financial interests; a bill which will, as far as possible, bring about control of surplus products.

CARDINAL O'DONNELL PASSES GOOD NIGHT

DUBLIN (Ireland) Oct. 11. (AP)—Cardinal O'Donnell, primate of Ireland, who is suffering from double pneumonia, passed a good night, says today's bulletin from Carlingford. COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—[Advertisement.

Miss Easton and Jeritza Return

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Two Metropolitan Opera stars, Marie Jeritza and Florence Easton, returned today from European appearances.

Mme. Jeritza declined to speak of cable dispatches that she had refused to sing with a Viennese star who trod on her train. "I make it my practice never to comment upon fellow-stars," she said.

Mme. Easton said she had grown somewhat stouter during the summer but was not worried about it.

"The roles I sing call for plumpness," she said. "It is consoling to know that an opera singer can be plump, whereas it is fatal in the films or on the legitimate stage."

AIR EXPRESS FOUND BOON TO PATRONS

Value of Rapid Transit Demonstrated in Various Ways, Says Announcement

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Air express has justified itself, among other ways, by such services, as affording rapid transport for medical supplies, by saving a St. Louis bank more than $3000 interest, and by sparing Gene Tunney the humiliation of riding from a Chicago hotel to his Soldiers' Field conference with Jack Dempsey in an old suit, the American Express Company announced today. The purpose for which the medical supplies were sent and the identity of the bank were not revealed.

The company reported that 2000 shipments were made during the first month of the country-wide service and that after the first day few of these were for publicity purposes.

Other services of the air express are said to be the transport of her costumes from New York to a prima donna in San Francisco, regular shipments of expensive cut flowers, rush delivery of a sample fur coat from New York to a Milwaukee department store and the relay of fashions from Paris to the west coast.

GIANNINI GROUP TO CUT MELON

Action Authorized by Board of Bank of Italy

Twenty-five Per Cent Dividend in Stock Projected

Stockholders Called to Vote Program's Approval

Increases in the capitalizations of the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings Association and the National Bankitaly Company, distribution of a 25 per cent stock dividend and additional stock subscription rights to stockholders have been authorized by the respective boards of directors, it was jointly announced yesterday by James A. Bacigalupi, president of the bank, and A. P. Giannini, chairman of the board of the affiliated company.

To accomplish the approval of the board's actions, a letter was mailed late yesterday to stockholders, calling a special meeting of stockholders for the 25th inst.

It is proposed to increase the capitalization of the Bank of Italy from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 and the capitalization of the National Bank-Italy Company from $12,000,000 to $20,000,000, and the number of shares of each corporation from 1,200,000 to 2,000,000 of the present $25 par value for the bank and $10 par value for the company.

OWNERSHIP IDENTICAL

Stockholders of the bank and National Bankitaly Company are identical, the two institutions being owned share for share by the same individuals.

Payment of a 25 per cent stock dividend amounting to 300,000 shares to stockholders of record the 25th inst. has been approved. Of the remaining 500,000 shares, 250,000 will be offered to present stockholders at $180 a share on the basis of one new share for each six shares owned of record November 12. The remaining 250,000 shares will be sold to the Bancitaly Corporation at $180 a share.

Certificates for the 25 per cent stock dividend will be prepared prior to November 12, and will participate in the rights. Issuance of the new shares sold at $180 will be made about March 15, 1928, but will participate in the dividend from the first of the year.

DIVIDEND TO RUN

The present dividend of $5.24 a share will be maintained on the shares issued under the stock dividend. This is the equivalent to an 25 per cent increase in the dividend rate, and represents an annual return of $26.20 a share to stockholders of the original $100 par value stock.

"The purpose of the sale of 250,000 shares to the Bancitaly Corporation," the latter states, "is to create a reserve of stock wherewith in the future to meet the requirements of employees of the Bank of Italy under the employees' special compensation plan, at the then market price. It will also provide a means of adequately taking care of and interesting stockholders of banks hereafter purchased and merged with the Bank

FOREIGN POWER NEW GOAL

American Capital, Controlled by Electric Bond and Share, Widens International Influence

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Against the stubborn opposition of the British, organized American capital has made notable progress in recent months in the contest for the control of foreign industries and resources. Particularly in South America has the rivalry been bitter, involving especially the public utilities for which enormous sums have been bid and paid. Apparently the tremendous financial resources of the Americans have been too much for the British, as several recent American triumphs would indicate.

International Telephone and Telegraph, an American vehicle, has scored some important South American victories in the bidding for telephone companies, and now the powerful Electric Bond and Share Company of New York has moved in aggressively on the power and light business. This company is allied with the world-wide General Electric Company, and its new purchases plainly lift the company to an important position in the foreign public-utility business. It already is represented in the Central American countries.

RAILS INCLUDED

The new ventures on the part of Electric Bond and Share involve the expenditure of upward of $36,000,-000 for properties in Brazil and Colombia, and in France and Japan. The Brazilian companies include electric and railway companies in Petropolis, electric companies in Nictheroy, electric and railway companies in Bahia, electric companies in Victoria and Itapemirim, railway companies in Victoria, electric companies in the State of Sao Paulo and telephone properties in Victoria and Bahia. Properties in Colombia comprise electric companies in Barranquilla.

South American Power Company, a Florida corporation, is vested with the ownership of these new companies, which will be transferred to the American and Foreign Power Company, Inc., a subsidiary of the Electric Bond and Share group. American and Foreign Power is now the owner of properties in Cuba, Panama, Guatemala and Equador.

Formerly it was British capital that reached out for the control of foreign corporations, or wielded dominant influence indirectly through the capital loan market. But since New York has become in most respects the international money center the British capitalists have met with persistent competition from the Americans in the foreign fields. Only recently, however, has American capital gone extensively into the more speculative foreign ventures, largely because there has been too much employment for capital at home.

CYCLE RETRACED

Electric Bond and Share, for illustration, has been mostly occupied by the job of purchasing and combining American power companies. This company controls a long list of domestic operating companies, and seems to have reached the point where the foreign companies appear more attractive. It is the old story of the investment cycle, accumulating one type of security until prices are too high, and then switching into another that has not yet participated in the activity.

Like the determined contests in which International Telephone has engaged in with the British over telephone companies, and the controversies between Royal Dutch-Shell and the Standard over world oil fields, the light and power industry now is the center of attraction. When the rivalry is over, the international scope of American capital may disclose some entirely new aspects.

Cotton Eases Off Following Early Advance

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—The market made a sharp rally toward midday after a break from the opening that had carried prices down about 25 points on the average from yesterday's closing in following a decline at Liverpool, and also from the effects of further scattered local liquidation and southern selling on the disappointing failure of the market to respond as much as had been expected to the somewhat bullish government crop estimate of Saturday, from what the trade had been looking for.

In the early break October contracts went off to 20.16 cents; December, 20.32 cents; January, 20.38 cents; March, 20.66, and May to 20.84. Those prices had brought the market to within 10 to 20 points of the previous low level of 19.90 to 20.75 cents for October and May contracts of a little over two weeks ago on the break from the excited rise to 24.40 to 25.07 for October to May contracts on September 8 on the government's previous crop estimates, made the indicated crop 12,692,000 bales from 13,492,000 as of August 1, with these two comparing with the latest estimate of Saturday of 12,-678,000 bales without linters.

On today's early break it looked as if the market had become fairly well liquidated and also oversold, as it rallied quickly when substantial new trade buying that had been attracted by the lower levels developed. In this rally shorts covered freely sending the market up 35 to 40 points from the early low levels and to 12 to 15 over yesterdays' before a fresh supply of contracts came on the market to check it. December advanced to 20.72, January 20.77 cents; March, 21.01 cents, and May, 21.21 cents on this rally with most of the gain held in the late trading on reports of a sharp drop in temperatures over the western part of the belt, with indications of a cold wave likely to develop there over the holiday here tomorrow and at New Orleans. Both exchanges will be closed tomorrow.

Liverpool cotton futures made an extensive decline of 10 to 20 of their points early today on liquidation by Bombay and Continental interests, but closed steadier at a net decline of 13 to 14 for the day against 11 to 12 decline that had been due to have met our closing prices of yesterday's decline, which averaged 90 points from Saturday's final quotations. Middling cotton there was off 24 points to 11 3-8d per pound with the day's sales 8000 bales.

CITY BOND BLOCK FLOATED

Water and Power Liens of $7,000,000 Par Value Sold at Lowest Interest Rate in Twenty Years

Water and power bonds aggregating nearly $7,000,000 in par value and carrying the lowest average rate of interest of any bonds sold by the city of Los Angeles in the past twenty years were awarded by the City Council yesterday to a banking group composed of R. H. Moulton & Co., Security Company, Harris Trust and Savings Bank and American National Company, for a premium of $7684.

Proceeds from the sale of the bonds, which it is expected will be offered for public subscription by the successful syndicate later this week, will be used for financing power construction work and projects for the Water Bureau, including further extension of the Colorado River project. The bonds were voted at city elections in 1924, 1925 and 1926.

The successful banking group offered the $7684 premium for $2,000,-000 of 4 1-2s, $1,400,000 of 4 1-4s and $3,500,000 of 4s, or an average interest rate of 4.195 per cent. In the past, bond interest for city bonds in Los Angeles has averaged about 4 1-2 per cent.

Three other groups bid for the liens. The Anglo and London-Paris Company, First National Bank of New York, Eldredge & Co., Blair & Co., Inc., and Bank of Italy offered $2194 for $3,000,000 of 4 1-2s and $4,000,-000 of 4s. A premium of $10,199 was offered by the National City Company, Bankers' Trust Company, E. H. Rollins & Sons, W. R. Compton & Co., Heller, Bruce & Co., California Securities Company, Drake, Riley & Thomas and Citizens' National Company, for $2,000,000 of 4 1-2s, $2,500,-000 of 4 1-4s and $2,500,000 of 4s. Blyth, Witter & Co. and Guaranty Company of New York offered $279 for $3,500,000 of 4 1-2s and $3,500,-000 of 4s.

London Daily Radio

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY

[Copyright, 1927, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

LONDON, Oct. 11. (By wireless)—Markets opened slightly easier today after yesterday's improvement, but fresh buying of Chemicals put Imperial Chemicals at new high levels. Celanese recovered slightly after a reaction, and Courtaulds were lower.

Canadian stocks were noticeably easier. Buying of Distillers Company and Vancouver Distilleries continued. Tobaccos were quiet and neglected.

The strength in Chemicals was attributed to United States buying, and the idea is put forward that the American purchasers are planning to get hold of a company that will be a unit in a big international combine.

It is suggested also that a synthetic nitrogen combine is in process of formation to be associated with the Chemical Cartel.

Loans were in more demand owing to bank calls, and small treasury bill maturities, although markets continued firm. The $5,000,000 South African loan, which closed this morning, was fully subscribed and a good reception is expected on the 6 1-2 per cent Brazilian issue, which opens here Thursday morning.

HAY MARKET QUIET

Prices Reported Generally Firm on Light Receipts

Hay markets were quiet, although generally light receipts held prices steady during the week ending the 8th inst., according to the weekly hay market review of the United States Department of Agricultural Economics. Demand was only moderate in most sections due to the continued mild weather. Pastures are still furnishing considerable feed as far north as Minnesota.

Western alfalfa markets were irregular. Prices in the Yakima Valley were lower with a poor demand and farmers pressing sales to avoid further rain damage. Recent cuttings are reported to have been severely damaged and a large part of the third cutting will grade No. 2 or lower. Light offerings caused a firmer tone at the Sacramento market. Interior trading improved and coast and export trading was brisk.

Middle - western alfalfa markets were firm, with rainly weather holding back movement to terminal markets.

Shainwald, president, a special stockholders' meeting has been called for the 17th inst. for the purpose of amending the company's articles of incorporation to provide for an increase in the number of shares from 30,000 shares of preferred stock and 60,000 shares of common stock, all of no par value, to 50,000 shares of preferred stock and 100,000 shares of common stock.

RIGHTS OFFERED

Preferred stockholders will also be asked at that time to give their approval to the issue and sale of 2000 shares of preferred stock and 6000 shares of common stock. It is proposed to offer the 2000 shares of preferred stock at $25 a share to preferred stockholders of record November 6, in proportion to the number of shares of preferred stock held by them on that date, and to offer the 6000 shares of common at $17 a share to common stockholders of record November 6 in proportion to the number of shares of common held by them on that date. Any shares not subscribed for have been underwritten at the prices named.

The corporation plans the construction immediately of a new factory and warehouse on a site adjoining its present Los Angeles plant at the corner of Slauson avenue and San Pedro street. It is proposed to have the new plant ready for operation March 1 of next year. The new plant and warehouse, together with the cost of the land and equipment, will call for an expenditure of approximately $400,000. The present factory building will be used for additional warehouse facilities.

EFFICIENCY GOAL

The daily capacity of the company's present factory is 3,500,000 feet of finished products, while an output of 5,000,000 feet of finished products is required to properly care for the current demand for the company's products, it was stated. Present warehouse facilities are also far from adequate.

The new plant, in addition to providing additional capacity, will be equipped with the latest in machinery, effecting more economical operation and speeding up delivery of finished products.

The company, the largest manufacturer of plaster board west of the Rocky Mountains, also operates a large plant in Seattle. Sales of the corporation's products are handled through 1650 dealers in every western State and in a number of foreign countries. During thirteen years of operation, sales each year have shown a consistent increase over those of the preceding year, and the company has never had an unprofitable year.

BANK GROUP AGAIN LEADS IN TRADING

Volume of Sales Heavy With Course of Prices Irregularly Mixed

Again crossing the board in heavy volume, bank stocks featured trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday but moved in opposite directions. United Bank and Trust Company of San Francisco led the advance, moving up 5 points to a new high and close at 180, while Bank of Italy appeared tired and sold off 4 points to a low and close at 246.

Los Angeles First National opened 1-2 of a point net higher at 99, touched 99 1-4 and then reacted to a low and close at 97, a net loss of 1 1-2 points for the day. Farmers' and Merchants' closed at 485, after opening at 490. Pacific National Company continued its move into new high ground, adding 5-8 of a point to a record high and close at 129 1-8. Bancitaly Corporation followed the movement of Bank of Italy, receding 1 1-8 points to a close at 112 1-2.

Southern California Edison common closed fractionally lower at 39 1-4, while Los Angeles Gas and Electric preferred added a fraction of a point to 104 1-8. Los Angeles Investment recovered the 5-cent loss of Monday and closed steady at 2.75. Caterpillar Tractor declined another point to a close at 45 1-2 in the morning and a closing bid in the afternoon at 44 1-8.

Oil shares again failed to show strength. California Petroleum lost 3-8 of a point to 20, Standard of California receded to 53 7-8 and closed a fraction lower at 53 1-8, and Union Oil of California held firm at 41 1-2. Rio Grande added 1-2 of a point to 16 3-4.

ANGELENO GROUP IN NEW OIL COMPANY

TIGHTER-MONEY RUMOR HIT

Wall Street Story of Banks Clamping Down on Loans to Brokers Declared "Ridiculous"

BY PAUL WILLARD GARRETT

[Copyright, 1927, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—"Ridiculous" is what the financial district's leading money lenders say of the story freely circulated in the last few days that the banks, fearing the surprising stock market, have clamped down on their loans.

If any concerted movement is under foot to tighten up the purse strings and mark down stocks, it has not yet come to the attention of a round half-dozen of the outstanding lenders. These responsible officials, whose business it is to follow such things, not only from day today but from hour to hour, indeed rest from the implication that all of a sudden the dangers of a skyrocketing market only now are becoming apparent to them.

The job of loan clerk in one of Wall street's big banks is so organized that violent swings in particular stock automatically come to the attention of a bank and automatically reduce or close a loan as the danger increases. The banks do not hold joint meetings at which they determine whether or not the market is safe. Perhaps the only time in history that the banks ever met together in exactly this way was when the stock exchange closed in 1914.

Except for the automatic release of controls administered by the loan clerks as the market changes, the loan situation in Wall street is exactly what it has been right along. There has been no change of policy among the banks. The largest banks have not even considered it necessary to caution their own loan clerks. It very frequently happens that in the course of his business the loan clerk himself will spot a weak loan and call it without ever taking the matter up with the bank.

Marking down of stocks and the calling of loans as conditions vary, is a routine business that has occupied clerks especially trained for it ever since Wall street started as a financial institution, and those who know how the system operates deplore reports which make it appear that the bankers gather behind locked doors from time to time to decide jointly what to do next. The turnover of loans in Wall street is in the neighborhood of $100,000,000 a day but so carefully are these loans scrutinised by experienced clerks on the alert every moment to preserve what to them represents a good margin of safety, that losses from these loans are very rare. The safety of loans lies in the fact that the bank will lend only up to within ten to forty points of the margin on stocks and that the loan portfolios are carefully diversified.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Prices of curb stocks drifted irregularly today. Issues which had displayed marked activity in previous sessions suddenly became sluggish and dull, while withdrawal of pool interest in a number of stocks caused slumps running from one to more than 5 points.

Celanese and Celluloid shares were among the weak spots, particularly the new Celanese common, which broke 5 points to around 104, 13 points below the year's high, established two weeks or so ago.

Some of the high-priced issues, such as Royal Baking Powder and Pittsburgh Plate Glass dropped rapidly on a few odd lot sales, the former closing at 235 against a year's high o. 330.

Renewed buying of Johns Manville after the recent sharp slump, carried the price up to 122½, a gain of more than 6 points, but realizing at the top clipped away about half of the advance. Borden Company moved up briskly to a new 1927 maximum around 134.

Public utilities attracted much less attention than in former sessions, and price changes were few and narrow. Oils as a group displayed a firmer tendency. Imperial of Canada and Vacuum gave particularly good accounts of themselves.

The closing price is omitted when same as the last, and both low and close when same as the high.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Further irregularity was displayed by bond prices today, but losses in the main were limited to small fractions. Hesitancy of the list was largely attributable to profit-taking in recently strong issues and to readjustments of accounts on the eve of the holiday.

Heavy offerings of Brazilian 6½s followed announcement of a new issue of nearly $90,000,000 to be marketed here and in Europe late this week, but the price fell back only a small fraction. Polish obligations were strong, the 8's gaining more than a point, simultaneous with reports that negotiations for the new $70,000,000 loan had been practically completed. Public offering of this issue is expected this week or early next. Fiat Motors with warrants were among the firm issues in the foreign group.

Public utilities took the lead in the domestic list, particularly telephone company obligations. American Telephone 5½s and 4s sold well around their previous peak for the year and Detroit Edison 5s established a new high. Point gains were registered by three of the Interborough Rapid Transit mortgages.

Railroad liens were less active than in recent sessions, although there was brisk demand for such securities as Canadian Pacific 4½s, Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s, Southern Pacific 4s and New Haven 4s, the last two rising more than a point to new tops.

General Motors Acceptance 6s sold at 103½ for the first time this year, and large offerings of Goodyear Tire 5s were taken with slight effect on the price.

Little business was done in the United States government department and prices were easy.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. Unless otherwise noted, the close is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

STOCKS MOVE IRREGULARLY

again called attention to the unsatisfactory character of new buying and indicated an easy price tendency for figished steel which is now at the lowest level in five years. United States Steel common rallied from a low of 143 5-8 to 145 1-2, but was unable to maintain the gain, closing at 144 for a net loss of 3-8. Gulf States sank to a new low at 40, but the other independents showed little net change.

The return to this country of William C. Durant, who has been one of the big bulls on General Motors, was accompanied by another heavy turnover in that stock, although it closed only a half-point net higher at 136 1-2. Hudson fell back 1 3-8, but the other motors held fairly steady.

Expanding department store sales undoubtedly accounted for the revival interest in mercantile issues, good gains being recorded by Abraham & Straus, Macy & Co. and a few others. May Department Stores touched a new high, but lost the gain on profit-taking. New strong spots cropped out among the public utilities, special buying taking place in Radio Corporation, Western Union and People's Gas.

Erratic fluctuations took place in Houston Oil, which opened at 179, sold down to 168, recovered a loss and then reacted again to 169, off 4 points net. Preferred Texas ran into a lot of profit-taking after yesterday's spirited advance.

Rails were mixed, but some of the so-called "merger issues" sustained rather large losses, particularly Jersey Central and Delaware and Hudson.

Call money held steady all day at 4 per cent and there was no change in time money and commercial paper rates. Foreign exchange rates held fairly steady, although sterling yielded slightly in the afternoon dealings. Cables on London were quoted around $4.87 1-8.

of Italy, as well as other persons whom it may be thought advantageous to interest as shareholders of our institutions. Stockholders are asked to waive their rights to the 250,000 shares to be sold to the Bancitaly Corporation.

"In order to enable the present shareholders to increase their holdings by subscription to the new issue, the Bancitaly Corporation has agreed to make loans to shareholders which will enable them to acquire such stock on an installment basis, extending over a period of eighteen months, upon payment of $10 per month on each combined share, with interest at 6 per cent on deferred payments.

"Subscriptions to the new stock must be returned to the secretary's department and paid in full not later than December 31. Warrants will be mailed after November 15. No fractional shares will be issued, but fractional warrants may be cumulated by the acquisition of additional fractions entitling the holder to a full share."

Liquidation on Grain Futures Brings Setback

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (Exclusive)—Liquidation was on in grains as the result of the bearish construction placed on the government crop estimates of the previous day, and while there was a fair rally from the inside figure, the net result was a setback on the part of local shorts for the Columbus Day holiday, the finish was at net losses of 1¼@1⅝c on wheat, with December 1.35¼@1.35⅝ and March 1.33⅛@1.33½. All deliveries of corn sold at a new low on the crop, with December touching 86½ and the other deliveries at net losses of 2¼@2½c, with December 86½@86¾ and March 91¼@92¼. Oats were off 1@1½c and rye was ¼@1c lower.

Local traders were decidedly bearish on wheat and had assistance in the way of a sharp break in Winnipeg to help them. Premiers appeared on all the bulges, with buying against July and short covering, as well as scale order-buying credited to a leading local professional a factor in checking the decline.

There was little in the general run of the news to encourage bureaus of wheat. The Kansas weekly report indicated that 89 to 94 per cent of the winter wheat in the western two-thirds of the State had been seeded and another week of favorable weather will probably see the work completed. Weather conditions in the Canadian Northwest were again unfavorable and threshing is making slow progress, with nearly 80 per cent of the Winnipeg receipts inspecting in No. 4 or lower. The good grading brought in a better foreign demand for domestic sorings, with sales of 400,000 bushels reported.

There was a noticeable lack of aggressive buying in corn until the December dropped to around 86. Stop-loss orders were uncovered in prohibition around 91 and under, with buying against July and by shorts checking the break. There was persistent selling by commission houses on the way down, and at the last there was very little grain held by buyers that showed a profit.

Forecast for frost or freezing weather in Northern breaks attracted little attention, as 56 per cent of the crop in that State is officially estimated as safe and the bulk of the Kansas crop is also beyond the stage where frost will do much damage. Country offerings of new corn to arrive were immense, with around 80,000 bushels booked for November-December shipment at 7c under Chicago-December for No. 4 yellow.

Registered liquidation was on in oats and prices declined to a new low on the crop for the March and the May, with a fair rally toward the last on short covering and buying on resting orders.

Buying of rye on scale orders offset to some extent the decline in wheat and the net loss for the day was not severe. Some rye was sold at the seaboard to Rotterdam.

Lard met increased pressure from commission-house selling, with poor support early, followed by better buying on the decline. Trading in all was fair and net losers on the near-by deliveries were 17½@22½c and on January 12½c, while May lost 17½c.

Short ribs lost 15c on December, while October was unchanged. Bellies were traded in slowly and closed 20@22½c lower, the latter on December.

down 320 feet. Locations for several other wells have been staked and a road crew is working on a road-building campaign to enable trucks to reach all parts of the property.

It is reported that the Elbe is still getting good showings in its No. 6 well, which is filling the role of deep-test well for the Round Mountain district. At 2700 feet, Elbe No. 6 is getting streaks of oil sand in shale, which make the prospects considerably brighter. This development offsets the discouraging effect of the St. Helen's Petroleum Company's lack of results in its Kern county No. 1 well. The St. Helen's has had no showings for several hundred feet, and at 2600 feet is in hard sand.

Showings Continue

The General Petroleum Corporation is still getting showings in its Kerwin No. 1 Glidden well near the Edison plant, at Bakersfield, according to official reports. The well is down 3294 feet, and is picking up streaks of sand, showing a fair degree of saturation, with considerable regularity. The oil sand is found in bodies of brown shale.

Gets Good Well

The Petroleum Securities Company has brought in a new well on its original Naples lease in the northwestern area of the Seal Beach field, and is getting about 800 barrels a day from the new producer, according to field reports. The well was deepened from the Selover zone to the Wasem zone, and is down 5300 feet.

Well Stops Drilling

The Associated Oil Company has stopped work on its Cypress No. 1 well in the Potrero district, three miles from Inglewood, and the project is standing idle, it was learned yesterday on competent authority. Bottom of the hole is 4703 feet, and while no official word as to showings is available, it is understood that the drill has been going through shale, with streaks of gray sand for some days.

Whether the Associated contemplates drilling deeper, testing the well at its present depth, or plugging back for a test a little below the point of the last test, are questions which oil men are asking themselves, and which it is probable that the Associated itself does not know the answer to just at present. It is considered most likely that the well will either be deepened, or plugged, inasmuch as the preponderance of evidence indicates that there is not much to be expected at the present depth. On the other hand the well did get some good showings for a considerable distance below the old bottom, and there is a good chance that a test there might result in production.

Near Completion

Graham & Loftus, who already have one prolific well in the deep zone at Signal Hill, expect to have another deep sand gusher on their list within the next couple of weeks. The well is down about 5050 feet at present, and should pick up the sand in another 200 feet. It is located at the intersection of Arabella and California streets.

Getting Deep

The General Petroleum Corporation is getting pretty deep in its Gaschen No. 2 wildcat well on the North Dome of the Kettleman Hills district, according to field reports. Present bottom is at 4708 feet, and the showings so far have not amounted to much.

The Millham Exploration Company is having much the same experience in its Elliott No. 1 well in the same district. The Elliott is down 4700 feet and aside from some minor indications has not had any important showings.

Starts New Well

Davis & Haines are starting a new well in the old area of the townlot field at Huntington Beach. It will be drilled at the intersection of Seventeenth street and Magnolia avenue. The location is in proven territory, but there are so many producing wells in the immediate neighborhood that the well is not expected to be anything sensational in the way of production.

"Times" Daily Short Story

"THAT GAY YOUNG SET"

The Cheerful Giver

By LUCILLE VAN SLYKE

This is another of a series of short stories, each complete in itself, detailing the amusing war of the insurgent youngsters against the conservative oldsters of an old-fashioned town.

THE Bliss youngsters were a trifle small for it, but Babs, their conscientious mother, decided that the time had come when they ought to go to Sunday-school. So, on a certain September morning, she set forth for the dear old ivy-clad church at the end of Ralston Drive.

Sunday-school for the infants was held an hour before the regular service, and, on her way home, she met many of Clairmont's decorous oldsters, moving sedately under the elms toward the beautiful old Gothic doorway.

"Say 'good morning' to Mr. and Mrs. Findley and Miss Ralston," she admonished her restless charges, as her neighbors paused to greet them.

Small Gene, his usually boyish spirits a bit subdued by the stiffness of his Sunday collar, obeyed her. But Barby, who wasn't quite three, and who stood in no awe of the Honorable Philander Munro Findley, Esq., dashed forward to throw both arms about that gentleman in an ecstatic embrace.

She wanted a kiss and she went after it shamelessly. Her freshly pipe-clayed shoes left long white streaks on Philander's striped trousers.

"Philander, I'm ashamed of her!" Babs exclaimed remorsefully.

Philander, who wasn't at all unaware of how trig his plump figure looked in his morning coat, beamed upon Barby's pretty mother.

"That's quite all right," he assured her.

Mrs. Philander, lifting her lorgnette inspected the trousers and added graciously:

"Undoubtedly the sexton will have a brush of some sort!"

Philander sighed.

"Perhaps it would be better if I went home and changed," he suggested, with seeming artlessness.

"What an absurd idea!" his sister-in-law boomed. "You'd not have time! There's the organ now."

"Where?" shrieked small Gene. "And where's the monkey?"

Small Barby started back to the church.

"I'll det mine pennies back," she flung over her shoulder, as she ran. "And I'll det your pennies back—"

Her mother pursued her and explained.

"There isn't any monkey, sweetheart, with this kind of organ, and you can't get pennies back, after you've given them to the church." Her blue eyes danced with fun. "She was awfully generous a few minutes ago. She was so pleased with the collection idea that she took all the money out of my purse and threw it into the plate."

Philander chuckled.

"Well, you know what the Good Book says about the cheerful giver," he remarked.

"Come, Philander." Mrs. Findley warned him.

Down the aisle came the Honorable W. Herbert Warrington, a carved black walnut plate, neatly lined with purple velvet, in his gloved hand.

"Free-ee-ee-ly ye have received—"

"Free-eee-eee-ly gi-iv-ive!" admonished the baritones.

Philander, dreaming of a water-hazard on the seventh hole, was smiling serenely.

"Philander!" his wife whispered sternly, as she prodded him.

The imaginary golf-ball vanished.

Philander started, and blinked. Silly, of course, that now, instead of the thirteenth bunker, he should see small Barby marooned in a sand-pile because she—

W. Herbert coughed meaningly. Miss Eunice Ralston put her offering into the plate. Mrs. Philander Munro Findley put her offering into the plate. And, in the brief seconds in which the plate journeyed from Herbert to Philander, and from Philander to Mrs. Philander, and from Mrs. Philander to Miss Eunice, and back to Philander, that gentleman got Babs's idea.

Gently he thrust back into his pocket the neatly folded one-dollar bill that was his customary offering. A second later a crisp new five-dollar bill fluttered to the plate.

The plate of the Honorable Herbert flickered.

Mrs. Philander, who was certainly not penurious, but who was one of those persons who consider very carefully the appropriate amount to give, felt her own eyelids quivering. Her own income was vast, and Philander's was small. Five dollars was much too much for Philander to give.

But she said nothing until they were in the privacy of her boudoir that evening. Then she put the matter tactfully.

"Of course, you couldn't take it back, even when you saw that you'd made a mistake, Philander, but it just shows you how careless it is to done during service—" she began tentatively.

"I meant to put five dollars in," Philander said, a trifle tartly.

She was too dazed to say anything.

A week went by. A shining autumnal week. Another Sunday dawned, even fairer than that first Sunday wherein small Barby had put too much in the plate.

The Philander Munro Findleys, accompanied by Miss Eunice Ralston, again walked sedately under the elms to the ivy-clad church. Again the organ rumbled, again the responses were murmured, and again the vestrymen walked down the aisle with the walnut-carved, velvet-lined plates.

"Freely ye have received—" trilled the sopranos.

"Freely gi-ive" admonished the baritones.

Philander, his cheeks slightly pink, put a ten-dollar bill in the plate.

The ornaments upon Mrs. Philander's new fall hat bristled.

Really, it was a bit difficult to keep her mind upon the sermon!

Figures danced before her eyes. So much for this charity, so much for that, so much for the rental of the pew, so much for the offertory. She sighed. And again, that evening in the privacy of her boudoir, she spoke to Philander.

"Really, Philander, considering that I have just paid the quarterly rental on the pew and sent in the check for missions, I think a dollar each is adequate for us to put in the collection on Sunday morning."

The cheerful giver smiled.

"Splendid sermon this morning," was all he vouchsafed.

He was the most amiable spouse who ever refused to meet a suspicious wife's inquiring gaze.

The third Sunday, on their way to church, they met young Mrs. Eugene Huntington Bliss, Jr., coming out of the parish-house with her son Small Barbara was conspicuous by her absence.

His conduct through the service was far from exemplary. He dropped his hymn-book. He

DECLINES TO TALK OF MARITAL RIFT

Mrs. Edwin Carewe

SEPARATION OF CAREWES NOT DENIED

Reported Estrangement of Screen Pair Comes as Hollywood Surprise

Rumors that Edwin Carewe, well-known motion-picture director and producer, and his wife, the former Mary Akin, screen actress, have separated were not denied last night by Mrs. Carewe.

Edwin Carewe

"I don't care to discuss the matter at all," she declared when queried over the telephone. "I have nothing to say at all."

Mrs. Carewe, however, did state that her husband is now living at the Hollywood Athletic Club. Attempts to reach him, however, were unavailing at a late hour last night.

The reported separation of the two screen notables castle as a surprise to Hollywood generally. Mrs. Carewe became the mother of a son, Edwin Gilbert Carewe, on September 5, last, the couple's second child.

Mr. and Mrs. Carewe were married in Mexico in May, 1925, when they were members of a party that accompanied Bert Lytell and Claire Windsor, motion-picture actors, who were married in Juarez on May 14, 1925, and who since have been divorced.

The wedding of the Carewes, however, was kept a secret for several months after the ceremony and when it finally was announced the question was raised as to the legality of the nuptials. It developed that Mrs. Carewe formerly had been the wife of Thomas L. Armstrong, Chicago business man, and that she had only obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from him in this country.

However, it was asserted that the actress had obtained a divorce decree from Armstrong in Cullacan, Mex., before she married Carewe. The couple's first child, Sally Anne Carewe, was born in Beverly Hills about eighteen months ago.

UNIONISTS FIGHT OVER MEXICANS

Californians Stir Row at A.F. of L. Session

Green Forces Win Victory Over Coast Workers

Habitual Stand for Liquor Again Reaffirmed

Representatives of the California State Federation of Labor split the American Federation of Labor convention wide open yesterday on the question of Mexican immigration and precipitated the first conflict of the forty-seventh annual convention now in its second week.

After hours of discussion the convention went on record, 135 to thirty-two, on a delegate per capita basis, as against a United States application of the quota law to Mexican immigration. The California delegation and its supporters lost and the President Green "administration" group triumphed in its first test of solidarity at this convention.

The federation reaffirmed its habitual wet position, denouncing national prohibition and demanding of Congress a modification of the Volstead Act "so as to permit the manufacture and sale of wholesome beer." It directed its officers to call a national union conference in Washington to plan repeal or modification of anti-trust laws and limitation of equity courts so that unions cannot be charged with restraint of trade conspiracies under anti-trust laws and so that they cannot be enjoined against striking. The date of the conference was left to the officers.

CALIFORNIANS OBJECT

The immigration question went before the convention when the executive council report committee laid before the body the report of the American-Mexican Labor Immigration and Emigration Conference for adoption or rejection. The report in substance related that the two countries' federations attempted to settle the objection of the American federation to Mexican labor coming into this country without restriction by the Mexican federation agreeing to get its country to restrict Mexican emigration into the States by a Mexican law that would do what application of the American quota law would do if it were applied to Mexican immigration.

To this the California delegation objected with emphasis. Instead it would have had the convention demand of Congress application of the quota law to Mexicans and the question went to debate with a stir. A principal argument in support of the "administration" plan was that the quota law if not applied to any American country and to apply it to Mexico would be an affront to that country and precipitate similar application to Canada and South American countries, deemed undesirable. A principal argument in favor of the California delegation stand was that Mexicans are wresting the Southwest from Americans and hampering unionization of workers in the area.

BURNING REMARKS

Carrying the burden of California's position were State Senator Murphy, Secretary Scharrenberg of the California federation, Henry S. McCluskey of the Arizona federation, and C. J. Golden of the United Mine Workers of America and others. On the "administration" side were President Green, Chairman Woll of the resolutions committee, President Hutcheson of the Illinois federation, National Treasurer Tobin, Victor Olander and others.

Both Murphy and Scharrenberg predicted defeat for their move before it came to vote, but Scharrenberg gained the floor and cried dramatically:

"Neither the American Federation of Labor nor any other body will prevent us from trying to keep our country to ourselves."

In his speech Tobin at one point exclaimed:

LOUD VOTE ON WET ISSUE

"The worst curse on American labor today is the influx of Mexican labor."

"If this plan does not work," President Green said, "I will go to Congress and ask that the United States restrict Mexican immigration."

"If this goes on," Murphy said, "this will not be our country any longer; it will be somebody else's country."

"Every State on the border favors the California move," McCluskey declared.

A thunder of "aye" votes on the wet side of the prohibition question and a considerable roar of "no" votes

INNER HARBOR PLAN URGED

Wilmington Man Advances Plan for Berth Space; Breakwater Extension Held Matter of Years

Instead of waiting possibly a score of years for the completion of the proposed extension to the present breakwater at Los Angeles Harbor, immediate plans should be formulated and carried into effect for the development of slips in the East Basin of the inner harbor, in the opinion of J. W. Weightman, secretary-manager of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, expressed before members of the Los Angeles chamber yesterday.

Mr. Weightman pointed out that present facilities are bound to be congested many years before the contemplated structure possibly could be completed. He stressed the fact that the Liverpool docks, handling annually 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 tons, cover a lesser area than is available in the inner harbor here.

At present vessels are berthed parallel to the basin. Through the dredging of slips — not an expansive undertaking — it would be possible to multiply the available dockage many hundred per cent, it is stated. Through this proposed procedure it is possible to develop from thirty to forty miles of wharfage in the inner harbor.

In support of his argument Mr. Weightman reviewed the harbor development and stated that the Federal government had established the main harbor lines, leaving to the city the task of developing and financing the slips which the Federal engineers contemplated. Every dollar expended by the city in a slip at the outer harbor is an economic loss as compared with a slip development in the inner harbor, he contended. The round trip haul is but a fraction under twelve miles farther to the outer harbor than to the inner wharf. This long haul is reflected in additional costs to wholesalers, manufacturers and ultimate consumers.

The speaker asserted that the Wilmington inner harbor had been completely overlooked and that practically all of the $15,000,000 harbor bonds issued by the city had been expended on the outer harbor.

The coming of the Ford plant and other large industries was used as a closing argument to the business interests of the city to get behind a movement for immediate action on the wharfage problem.

BEACHES TO HEAR ABOUT BOULEVARD

Manhattan Meeting Friday to Reveal Sepulveda Road Plans for Resort Cities

That Sepulveda Boulevard, which is to extend from San Fernando to Seal Beach, a distance of fifty-two miles, is to run through the heart of Manhattan and Hermosa beaches, is information to be given members of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the beach cities at a meeting Friday night at the City Hall in Manhattan. Maps prepared by the engineering department of the City Planning Commission showing the entire route of the 100-foot roadway are to be displayed at the meeting. Through Hermosa and Manhattan Sepulveda Boulevard is to follow El Camino Real, part of which already has been improved.

MORTON MacCORMAC

Morton MacCormac, secretary of the Manhattan Beach Chamber of Commerce, has called a meeting of the chambers of Inglewood, Torrance, Redondo, Hermosa and Manhattan, at which Gordon Whitnall is to speak. Plans for obtaining additional signatures of property owners in the proposed assessment area are to be discussed.

Much of the boulevard through the San Fernando Valley is finished now and dedicatory strips through the new territory makes the work still to be done comparatively simple. Construction work is being pushed rapidly.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICE HOUSER of the Second District Court of Appeal yesterday spent part of the thirtieth anniversary of his admission to the bar in officiating at proceedings admitting 143 Southern Californians as members of the California bar.

Justice Conrey presided and Associate Justices Houser and York participated. John E. Bilby, local member of the State Board of Bar Examiners, moved the admission of the candidates who recently passed the State bar tests, and Harry C. Lillie, clerk, administered the oath.

W. J. Hunsaker, attorney, in an address of welcome to the newly admitted attorneys, urged them to observe the high standard of professional ethics.

Among those admitted yesterday were five modern Portias, the Misses Beatrice Warner, Elsie M. Ferris, Catherine Peterson, Dora S. Heffner and Harriet W. Pugh. Another is Martin De Vreis of Fullerton, crippled World War veteran, forced by ill health to leave Stanford three times before finally completing his education. The third time he went into the mountains and taught a small rural school, continuing his studies at night. When his health was restored he returned to Fullerton, where he taught during the daytime and continued his law at the evening schools.

Pola Negri Pays Taxes Past Due

Liens against property owned by Pola Negri that had been filed by Galen H. Welch, collector of internal revenue, were withdrawn yesterday, showing that the motion-picture star has paid back income taxes of $33,-581.36 for the year 1923.

The discharge liens were filed yesterday by Collector Welch in the United States District Court.

HEARING CONTINUED

GIRLS SIGN PLEDGE TO KEEP THIN

Film Contracts Completed in Court Require That They Stay Under 130

Anyone interested in locating a couple of girls who are not interested in costly candy and ice-cream sodas might look up Sally Phipps and Lucille Miller.

LUCILLE MILLER

The two young women are under contract to keep their weight down to less than 130 pounds for the next five years. This developed yesterday when they appeared before Judge Larew in Superior Court to ask approval of motion-picture contracts, the signature of the court on the documents being necessary because they are minors. The contracts allow their employers to cancel if their weight passes 130 pounds.

Miss Phipps, that is the name she agrees by contract to allow her employer to fasten upon her instead of her own somewhat difficult name of Byrnece Beutler, has signed with the Fox Film Corporation for five years at a wage starting at $125 a week and rising to $600 a week for the last six months.

SALLY PHIPPS

Miss Miller has been engaged by Mack Sennett for five years at a salary ranging from $60 to $525 a week. Both girls were represented in court by Attorneys Bauer, Wright and MacDonald.

BABY STAR IN SURPRISE ROLE

Adamae Vaughn Married, Divorced and Resolved to Wed Same Man Again—All a Secret Undreamed of by Members of Film Colony

Adamae Vaughn, Wampas Baby Star, has been married and divorced and will be married again to the same man within a few weeks. It was disclosed yesterday when a final decree in the divorce was on file.

ADAMAE VAUGHN

News that Miss Vaughn has been married came as a complete surprise to members of the film colony. And news that she was tied in the bonds of matrimony at the time of her election as a baby star came as a further surprise.

Albert R. Hindman, a local contractor, is the man to whom Miss Vaughn was married and will be married again within a few weeks. The first marriage occurred in May, 1926, and ended a few months later for reasons that Miss Vaughn characterized yesterday as "foolish and silly." Her interlocutory decree was granted by Judge Gates in September, 1926. Attorney Sam Wolf represented Miss Vaughn in the hearing of the case.

That the divorce action never interfered with the friendship between herself and Hindman was indicated yesterday by Miss Vaughn.

"We continued good friends even after the divorce and now we have come to realize that our first marriage was a failure only because of foolishness. We intend to be married again as soon as we can and we are sure this marriage will be successful and happy."

Miss Vaughn was elected to baby stardom by the Wampas organization last fall. She is a sister of Alberta Vaughn, a baby star of a year before. She does not intend to give up her motion-picture work, it was said.

BERMAN TAKES MYSTERY TRIP

Lawyer Reveals Journey to New York With Wife

Connection With Julian Case Denied by Attorney

Keyes and Aides Also Have Been Out of City

Jacob Berman, alias Jack Bennett, known as the "bright youngster" of the Julian Petroleum Corporation financial maelstrom that brought about the collapse of that organization, has been in New York for the past week, it was announced last night by his attorney John F. Murphy.

Although secrecy and mystery surrounded the disappearance of Berman from Los Angeles, and his subsequent appearance in New York, his local counsel denied emphatically that Berman's trip to the eastern metropolis has any bearing on the Julian case.

RETURNING HERE

According to a statement issued last night by Murphy, Berman left New York City Monday night and now is on his way to Los Angeles, after having escorted his wife East where she is undergoing another operation and also to join the two Berman children.

JACK BENNETT

"There is absolutely nothing in connection with the Julian case that motivated Berman's return to New York," Attorney Murphy said last night.

"As was publicly announced, Mrs. Berman became a mother a short time before Berman surrendered to Los Angeles authorities several weeks ago. Berman has never seen his baby. Coupled with this is the fact that Mrs. Berman has been seriously ill for several weeks, and two weeks ago suffered a collapse at the home of her brother-in-law in Beverly Hills where she had joined Mr. Berman. After serious consideration Mr. Berman decided to take her back to New York where she can be under the care of physicians who have treated her before. This was and is the only reason for Berman's return East. He spent less than forty-eight hours in New York and is now returning here. He will be here Thursday of this week," Murphy concluded.

CONNECTION DENIED

Although subsequent to the departure of Berman for New York City, Dist.-Atty. Keyes, Chief dep. Dist.-Atty. Davis and Dep.-Dist.-Atty. Richardson also disappeared from the District Attorney's office, all parties concerned in the forthcoming trials revolving around the collapse of the Julian company emphatically denied there is any connection between the unexpected moves of Berman and Keyes and his chief aide.

Berman, who is charged with violation of the Corporate Securities Act, forgery and embezzlement, at first was reported to have returned to New York to obtain important documents for the District Attorney that are to be used in the forthcoming Julian trials. However, attaches of the District Attorney's office, and Berman's own counsel, yesterday vigorously denied any connection between Berman's trip east and the Julian case.

Although Berman is out on $25,000 bail, following his arraignment before Superior Court Judge Stephens on the charges against him shortly after his surrender to the District Attorney, he has been attended constantly by a member of the District Attorney's detective staff, "for his own protection," according to announcements from that office. However, the man who is accused of having juggled millions of dollars in the financial orgy that preceded the collapse of the Julian company, returned east without a bodyguard, according to his attorney. Detective Horn of Keyes's staff is the man constantly assigned to Berman.

"RECEIVERS WILLING"

According to Attorney Murphy, Receivers Carnahan and Scott of the Julian company were informed of Berman's plan to make the trip east and made no objections to it.

"Berman is out on bail and can

COLUMBUS HONORED TODAY

City and County Offices and Banks Will Be Closed; K. of C. Plan Varied Observances

Four hundred and thirty-five years ago today Christopher Columbus first set foot upon the shores of the New World and in commemoration of that day and of the discoverer of America various celebrations are scheduled throughout the city.

All the city and county offices will be closed for the day, as well as banks and some business offices. The schools will remain in session, but will conduct appropriate exercises for the occasion.

The Italian colony of the Sons of Italy plans to celebrate tonight with a gathering at Moose Hall, 1024 South Grand avenue, at which an entertainment will center around an Italian girl and an American girl who recently were participants in a beauty contest. It is expected many notables, both Italian and American, will attend.

KNIGHTS CELEBRATE

In co-operation with the Southern California chapter of the Knights of Columbus the Hollywood Council will hold an open meeting at the new clubhouse on McCadden Place, just south of Sunset Boulevard, to which the public is invited. In the evening, in addition to a number of speakers, there will be a musical program. Representatives of all the Southern California councils are expected to be present.

The San Fernando Council, with the Boy Scouts of the valley, has planned a program for this evening at 6 o'clock in the Memory Gardens across from the San Fernando Mission, to which everyone is invited. Special programs have also been arranged by the Pasadena, Santa Ana and Anaheim councils.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THE evil effects of city life go a darn sight deeper than just noise—in spite of the eminent psychologist of Colgate University.

He says that the continual din lowers efficiency, but that isn't half of it.

INSANITY OR WHAT?

There are certain inhibitions—complexes if you want to call them that—in every normal person.

One of these is a dread of caves and tunnels. Anthropologists say it is a race memory—a relic of our cave days. At any rate it is there.

Elevators, subways and so on are flying in the face of this instinct. The result is inevitable. We are headed for a race of people, nerve shattered, or so calloused that they will be numb—or dumb.

PURE AIR

On the other hand, the old wheeze about the bad air of cities is the one crime of which the city is not guilty. Experiments have proved that the air of a city's streets is purer than the stratum of air along the roofs of the tall skyscrapers. A comparative analysis of the air bottled in the polar regions and the air at Forty-second and Broadway, New York, showed very little difference.

A PRACTICAL SIREN

The stage dancer who came into our divorce courts complaining that the husband she married as a great movie star turned out to be a sap extra man . . .

Her experience calls to mind the case of a young movie lady of my acquaintance. A young man, hinting of great wealth, proposed to her, but she delayed her answer for one week—the coy shrinking of a young girl's heart.

When he came for his answer, she scornfully held out a report from a commercial agency. "Where do you get that stuff—you got a million dollars?" she said, contemptuously. "Here's what you have; and here's what you owe—principally what you owe."

PORK BARRELS

Reading the recent biography of Boss Tweed; and the daily dispatches from Washington, is hard going for pessimists.

In three years the Tweed gang, without the slightest pretense of concealment, stole public sums variously estimated at from $90,-000,000 to $300,000,000. Elections were so corrupt that twice as many votes were cast as there were voters.

Tweed was a chair maker by trade. He captured the New York State government and was working on a settled plan to capture the machinery of the Federal government when sent to prison . . . through the efforts of the New York Times.

Contrast this with Washington dispatches announcing that Coolidge has clamped down the lid of the pork barrel tight, leaving the Congressmen to weep in lonely desolation.

PUBLIC DISGRACE

The suicide of Russell Scott, the Chicago murderer, is a terrible reflection on the American criminal courts.

Any smart lawyer can have a case continued and continued until the charge dies of old age and senility. In nine cases out of ten the real reason for a continuance is one of two things: the defendant's lawyer is trying to let damaging witnesses get out of town, or he wants time for the loving relatives to dig up his fee.

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 11.—Harry B. Allen of San Francisco, president of the California Real Estate Association, pointed out the importance of the organization in the business and economic life of the State in his address this morning before the twenty-third annual convention of the association in session here.

The first general session of the conclave was called to order at 9 o'clock in the Santa Monica Municipal Auditorium at Ocean Park, following a concert by the Huntington Park Elks band. W. H. Pitchmiller, president of the local realty board, welcomed the visiting realty men from all parts of the State, their numbers swelled to approximately 2000 by late registrations. Mayor Miciel then presented the delegates with a key to the city, after which Fred S. Wilson, general chairman of the gathering, was introduced.

PAST YEAR SUCCESSFUL

President Allen declared in his address that the California Real Estate Association is recognized as a vital factor in the business life of the commonwealth, adding that the past year has been a most successful one in the accomplishment of the association's aims. This statement was elaborated on in the annual report of Secretary Williman, which described in some detail the outstanding achievements.

Utmost confidence in the continued solidarity and co-operation of the three States of the Pacific Coast: California, Oregon and Washington, was expressed by T. W. Zimmerman, executive secretary of the Pacific Northwest Association of Real Estate Boards, another speaker. He averred that there is no jealousy between the people living in California and those in the Northwest, the prosperity of one meaning the prosperity of the other.

Zimmerman's plea for co-operation was echoed by Harold J. Stonier, the vice-president of the University of Southern California and president of the Pacific Coast Advertising Clubs. "We cannot hope to attract people here, either as tourists or as settlers," Stonier said. "If our emphasis is largely on one city or State."

FORM POLICY OUTLINED

Stephen Barnson, State real estate commissioner, roundly scored subdividers who violate the laws of supply and demand in marketing their properties and promoters of mountain cabin sites who preach purchasing worthless land as an investment. He outlined the policy of the department in regard to farm lands, announcing that material on various projects, collected by a special force, is now at the disposal of the public. The speaker said the State is being thoroughly inventoried in regard to character, activities, accomplishments and, particularly, potentialities.

"I think of California as a great merchant," the commissioner concluded, "whose shelves are well stocked but lacking trade. Our capital is tied up in fine wares, needing nothing but added population to develop its industrially, financially and agriculturally. We live in a magnificent State, a domain tapped of its resources but little, and I would guide the steps of millions of people held out yonder in comparative economic bondage to this land of all heart's desire."

Stuart O'Melveny of Los Angeles, president of the California Land Title Association, spoke before a brokers' conference this afternoon, outlining the service title companies render the real-estate broker and his client, the insurance companies, mortgage houses, investment concerns and other organizations connected with transactions involving real property. C. A. Ricks, chairman of the brokers' division, was another speaker at today's conference, which took place in the Edgewater clubhouse.

WOMEN ENTERTAINED

Women have been lavishly entertained during the convention so far. Dinner was served them this evening at both the Gables and Sea Breeze clubs, a film carnival and fireworks display drawing hundreds to the sandy beach of the Gables after the meals. Motion-picture stars were presented in a monster revue, with elaborate costuming and lighting effects.

Sessions of the convention are to be resumed in the Santa Monica Municipal Auditorium tomorrow.

C. C. Hieatt, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards of the United States, arrived with Mrs. Hieatt in Los Angeles yesterday to attend sessions of the State convention. They were greeted by a special welcoming committee composed of Harry H. Culver, president of the Los Angeles Realty Board, national vice-president and State past-president; Ned B. Johnson, chairman of the day for the Los Angeles Ad Club; Tom Ingersoll, secretary of the Los Angeles Realty Board; Theodore J. Van de Kamp, vice-president, and H Lewis Haynes, secretary-treasurer of the Ad Club.

COMPTON REALTY MAN KILLED IN ACCIDENT

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 11. (AP)—Bliss N. Pixley, president of the Compton Realty Board, died this morning from injuries suffered in an auto accident, it was announced at the convention assembly this noon. His machine collided with a truck on Alameda street, Los Angeles, yesterday.

Ray Deyoe of Monterey, former president of the Peninsula Realty Board, is in a Paso Robles hospital suffering from injuries incurred when his machine ran into a bridge at Bradley, twenty miles north of Paso Robles, Sunday evening. He was badly cut on the head, but will recover, it is stated.

REALTY MEN HELPED BY CIVIC PRIDE

Public Parks and City Planning Conducive to His Welfare

"Public parks and city planning, generally, are becoming of increasing interest to the 50,000 wide-awake, conscientious realty men of America, for these men are beginning to realize that the harmonious development of the city conduces to their own success while contributing to the general welfare and progress of civilization," declared C. C. Hieatt, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, in an address given yesterday before the Advertising Club at the Biltmore.

Introduced by Ned B. Johnson, chairman of the meeting, Mr. Hieatt, whose home is at Louisville, Ky., discussed "Merchandising Principles Applied to Real Estate Transactions," dwelling especially on the ethics of the profession of the men who "manufacture buildings sites."

Harking back to the Civil War and to Kentucky's contribution of the great Emancipator, as well as of "Jefferson Davis, who so fought for the cause he believed to be just and right," Mr. Hieatt said:

"I am glad that in that struggle the rights of man triumphed over the rights of property. I am just as anxious that the realtors of America shall never place property rights above human rights and that, in their dealings with men, they shall consider service and honest business of greater value than financial success."

"TIMES" TO FETE VISITORS

Spanish Barbecue Will Be Given Tomorrow for 2000 Delegates to Realty Convention

More than one fatted calf will be offered up in honor of delegates to the twenty-third annual convention of the California Real Estate Association when they gather at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow at Miramar Estates as guests of the Los Angeles Times at an old-fashioned Spanish barbecue.

Delegates, their wives and friends will be welcomed on the site of The Times' model demonstration home by a committee headed by Irving Smith, advertising manager, and Burton L. Smith, State editor of the Los Angeles Times, and Mayor Michel of Santa Monica.

Following the formalities of introduction, the convention will be placed in the hands of Jose Romero, who is the oldest active Spanish barbecue "impresario" in California. In addition to fatted calf cooked to a turn, guests will be served with all the fixin's that go toward making the Spanish feast one of the features of the program. Entertainment in the form of Spanish dancing and music will be presented by the Jose Arias troupe.

Harry Allen, president of the State realty organization, will head the convention delegation and, according to estimates by the entertainment committee, more than 2000 delegates will attend The Times' barbecue.

Following the entertainment program the real estate men will view the progress of the work done on the model home which The Times presents as its part of a better-home and better-building service to the people of Southern California.

The Times' home will be a demonstration one in every sense of the word—in materials, architectural merit, quality of construction, up-to-dateness and adherence to those principles of design which have been found to be the most suitable to Southern California. Each detail of construction and plans for the completion, equipping, decorating and furnishing of the ideal home will be explained to the visiting delegation.

break under the increasing burden of disrepute which is attaching itself because of the misuse of injunctions against labor."

VOTING FOR JUDGES

Also in the same action the convention called on its members to favor candidates for judgeships into the open on the injunction question before election day so that unionists can vote for their friends on that point. Another provision in the action calls for a law declaring the "yellow dog" contract against public policy and therefore null and void. The contract so-called was explained as one wherein an employee agrees not to join a union as a condition of employment.

In a closely related action, the convention again proclaimed the unionist policy that "the right of workmen to quit work for any reason is guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States and is the only effective means which labor has for resisting oppression and for making economic progress." The policy was proclaimed because, as is related in a part of the record immediately preceding the part quoted, "innumerous decisions of the Federal courts the right of union workmen to go on strike has been limited or denied."

The convention declined to adopt a resolution indorsing the Shipstead bill in Congress limiting equity courts but indorsed the principles of the bill and referred the resolution to the executive council of the federation which was declared to be formulating a bill similar in character but "different in language."

ATTORNEYS SCORED

In discussions preceding taking action on those matters, much emphasis was placed on the necessity for nonpartisan political activity by unions, a proposal to which President Green of the federation gave pronounced approval. John H. Walker, president of the Illinois federation, advised beginning with precinct committeemen in such activities. He indicated that politics now is controlled largely by lawyers and in no uncertain terms he denounced the character of most of the members of that profession although giving quarter to those in it who are honest.

"A lawyer is the only man in the courts who has a right to be an accessory-after-the-fact in a crime," he said, "and he is the only man who can sit in legislative halls and accept bribes, through employment with a corporation, without being guilty of treason."

STATESMEN FRIENDS

Max Hayes, Farmer-Labor party candidate for Vice-President in 1920, suggested a third party of the kind in order to bring pressure on the two old parties to yield to union demands, a view that President Green energetically opposed and pointed a way, through union support for friends in both old parties, to achieve that political control necessary for union purposes. As examples of such friends he cited United States Senators Norris, LaFollette and Shipstead and Supreme Court Justices Brandeis and Holmes.

D. G. Ramsay, formerly president of railroad telegraphers' union, said the trouble with judicial decisions against unions is that many of the judges are "men who are born into the world with silver spoons in their mouths or are brought up in corporation circles" and that they just naturally have that point of view instead of the viewpoint of the "worker." He and many other speakers did much talking to impress on delegates the necessity, from a union standpoint, of electing judges, and other public officials who are in sympathy with unionism.

President Green himself said that in the next campaign unionists will make themselves felt in this way much more than ever before. Other speakers along this line included Thomas J. Donnelly, president of the Ohio State Federation of Labor, and Chauncy A. Weaver of the musicians' union.

The greetings of Will H. Hays, so-called czar of the movies, formally were extended to the federation by Jason Joy, his representative, who is arranging for this afternoon's tour of the studios by delegates. Joy proclaimed the film industry as "the fourth largest in the United States" and described it as developing into "an attitude-forming institution" along with other institutions of the kind.

OTHER ACTIONS TAKEN

Among other actions of the convention yesterday were ones summarised as follows:

Denounced lethargy of unions, predicted disaster for unionism unless it be aroused and directed impressing of ideals of unionism on members.

Condemned company unions as in grave conflict with unionism and an employer trick to enslave labor.

Advised stopping any further venture into labor bank experiments.

Directed federation officers to continue opposition to Federal legislation requiring registration of aliens.

Reiterated opposition to conscription and went on record as opposed to compulsory military training in schools outside of government schools for that particular purpose.

Expressed some dissatisfaction with Federal radio legislation, but recognised certain futures and instructed officers of federation to keep close watch on legislation developments from unionist viewpoint.

Union officials refused to comment on the court action.

Phillip Murray, international vice-president of the United Mine Workers, said he had not had a chance to read the court's order, but that he probably will have a statement tomorrow after he has conferred with union counsel.

On the result of this conference, it is generally believed, will depend whether the union will take the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

VOTERS' LEAGUE HOST TO WOMEN DELEGATES

Women delegates and visitors to the American Federation of Labor convention in this city were guests yesterday at a luncheon given in their honor by the Los Angeles League of Women Voters in the Women's Athletic Club. Among those present were Miss Anna L. Saylor, Miss Gertrude Barman, Mrs. William S. Green, Miss Edith Holmes and Miss Sushama Tagore, niece of the Hindu poet. Miss Tagore is in the United States to study social conditions and educational methods which she hopes to introduce in India.

The luncheon was presided over by Mrs. Lavinia Graham Timmons, president of the league, who later turned the meeting over to Miss Anne Peterson, the league's chairman of women in industry, and executive secretary of the Los Angeles Garment Workers' Union. Miss Peterson, as director of the program, introduced the speakers, who included Mrs. Belle Hayes Cooley, Los Angeles representative of the California State Welfare Commission; Mrs. Daisy A. Houck, member of the executive board, United Garment Workers of America, and Mrs. Sarah Conboy of New York, executive secretary of the International Textile Workers.

Mrs. Cooley spoke of the work of the Welfare Commission, giving a brief summary of present conditions and wages for women, and the efforts of the commission to obtain back pay due women workers under the minimum-wage law. Last year $104,000 was paid by the canneries alone, she said, and it is both to the law and the Welfare Commission that the women owe the receipt of this money.

"Problems of Women in Industry" was the subject of Mrs. Conboy's speech, and Mrs. Pauline Manzini, treasurer of the Los Angeles Garment Workers' Union, sang several Spanish songs to the accompaniment of her guitar.

UNION OFFICIAL SAYS REDS BEING OUSTED

Union forces have met with marked success in suppressing the activities of Bolshevism within their ranks, Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, told members of the Sons of the American Revolution at a luncheon at the University Club yesterday.

One of the major operations of the federation during the last few years, he said, has been their campaign to keep Communism from disrupting their ranks. They have recently met with marked success in this regard, he said, in their work in the Northwest in particular. New York, with its large percentage of foreign-born, remains the only sore spot now, he declared, and that is well under control.

GREEN SAYS DECISION DESTROYS MEN'S RIGHTS

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said yesterday that the order signed by District Judge Schoonmaker in Pittsburgh, "in my opinion completely destroys all rights of the United Mine Workers employed in the mines of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation."

"Evidently the injunction issued by United States District Judge Schoonmaker," Green commented, in a statement to the Associated Press, "is sweeping in its extent, and is a further step of encroachment in the use of the injunction upon the rights and activities of the trades unions.

"The judge has fulfilled the tendencies of the courts to broaden the use of injunctions in industrial pursuits. The right to picket has been regarded as an inherent right. I will say that in my opinion the order completely destroys all rights of the United Mine Workers employed in the mines of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation."

If every religion had a Yom Kippur—a season when, as Rabbi Winkler says, "mortal man casts off the bonds of materialism . . . his hunting after earthly desires."

Every person should have not only a time; but a definite place to which he retires for meditation. Not necessarily for prayer, but to step aside from thinking about money and give his soul a bath.

That's what people ought to use mountain cabins for—not for booze parties.

Woolwine Will Filed in Court

William D. Woolwine, banker, who died in Paris September 31, last, left his estate to his widow, Lily W. Woolwine of Duarte, and his daughter, Martha W. Banks, also of Duarte, according to his will, filed yesterday for probate in Judge Stephens's court. The amount of the estate is not indicated, except by a formal statement that it exceeds $10,000.

UNIONISTS FIGHT OVER MEXICANS

on the dry side was the first expression of any kind from the floor of the convention that delegates might be divided on any point. It provoked President Green to say:

"The chair suggests that you vote as loud and strong on other actions as on this."

The Mexican question came up next and delegates "fell to" with enthusiasm.

SUMMERALL SPEAKS

Maj.-Gen. Summerall, chief of staff of the United States Army, appeared before the convention for a brief talk. He said his profession is little understood. He said it is the great agency for peace, its first duty being to preserve peace and its next to regain it and human liberties if and when lost.

"You are under the leadership," the general said, "of men of the greatest patriotism and highest ideals in this country. Your President is among the greatest of the country's patriots."

After three sessions of discussions yesterday and the day before, the convention went on record as favoring the repeal or amending of the Sherman antitrust law, Clayton act and others of the antitrust law "in such manner that inhibitions against monopolies in the products of labor may be enacted in place of the present laws, which are being used to prevent workers from combining for purposes of mutual aid."

In the same action the convention went on record as demanding a law defining and limiting jurisdiction of courts of equity, stating that "the misuse of injunctions in labor dispute has become so notorious that unless a remedy is found the entire equity system will ultimately

CLEAN!

Years ago we set out to make the best dentifrice possible. Our chemists made countless experiments. They told us that the one thing a dentifrice should do is to clean. We then produced Ribbon Dental Cream—designing it to do that one thing superlatively well. It is not medicated, because the testimony of leading dental authorities today sustains the original principle that the one function of a dentifrice is to clean.

THREE CHECKS ONE TOO MANY

Last of Trio that Presents Identical Paper Lands All in Cells

Seemingly never having heard of the pitcher that went to the well too often, three persons drove up to the Pan-American Bank, Eighth street and Broadway, yesterday, and one at a time entered and cashed $200 checks, all bearing the signature of Alexander B. Stewart, police report.

The last of the trio was held by bank officials until the arrival of police, who arrested all three on suspicion of forgery. They gave their names as Horace Axtle, his wife, and William D. Greer, all of 502 Echo Park avenue. Greer is said to be the owner of the house at that address and the Axtles are his tenants. The men were booked at the City Jail and Mrs. Axtle at the County Jail by Detective Lieutenants Posner and Crawley.

BAR EXPLAINS PUBLICITY BAN

Resolution Adopted at Instance of Bench

Judges Protest Practice of Associates

Press Agents Exact Fee for Exploitation

Kemper Campbell, president of the Los Angeles Bar Association, yesterday issued a lengthy statement to explain the action of the board of trustees of the association in attacking by resolution the "publicity practices" of certain judges and the activities of paid press agents.

In his statement, Mr. Campbell explained that the resolution was adopted and made public at the instance of certain of the Superior Court judges after the discovery that press agents had approached numerous judges with offers to exploit them in the press at the rate of $100 a month or more.

PRACTICE QUESTIONABLE

"We feel that the practice of a judicial officer paying from his meager salary, or from his independent means, $100 a month, or any other sum, to professional publicity agents to exploit his personal or official activities will meet with the earnest disapproval of all citizens seeking to maintain the standing and dignity of our courts," his statement said.

Further, he pointed out that if one judge employs a professional press agent, every other judge must do likewise in self-defense or be harassed by threats and worry because he is unknown to the public.

"Many of the judges have earnestly protested to us against this growing evil. The newspapers have for years, through legitimate channels, handled the court news. In my judgment, newspaper publishers are sincerely striving to uphold the dignity of the courts.

RESENT BEING HELD UP

"Citizens do not want their opinions unduly influenced by paid press agents, newspapers do not want their space thus used, and, least of all, do judges want to be victimized at the price of $1200 a year and upward for services which no competent judge needs.

"I am quite sure that the Legislature would not have granted a generous increase in the salary of judges with the knowledge that the same would be expended in public exploitation. A false fear is being commercialized in this matter. I know I speak the sentiment of the bar and of this entire community when I say emphatically that no judge on the bench who is industrious, earnest and even fairly competent need fear for his re-election. I am sure that the bar, and press and the public all believe in the retention of faithful servants and will unite their efforts to that end."

JACOB BERMAN JOURNEYS EAST

go any place he so desires," Attorney Murphy declared, "and any attempts to misconstrue Berman's trip east will be an injustice to Berman and to the receivers of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, who were fully informed as to his intentions and agreed to them, although Berman is not under obligation to them, in so far as legal phases are concerned."

Although Berman was considerably in the limelight at the time he surrendered to the District Attorney's office, and subsequently was released on a considerably reduced bail, he eventually faded from the publicity horizon. However, when two weeks passed beyond the time he set to recover $1,000,000 for the receivers of the company, he again became a central figure in the efforts being made to untangle the Julian mess.

It was not until Monday of this week, however, that information first was obtained that Berman was on a mystery trip east, and when first questioned his attorney denied it, stating that Berman was "away for a few days only."

PUBLICITY QUOTED

In substantiation of reports that Berman returned to New York in an effort to produce documents that will be of material assistance to the District Attorney, in prosecution of Julian cases, Hall of Justice observers pointed out yesterday that much publicity has passed out of Keyes's office to the effect that valuable evidence concerning the Julian case was westbound by air mail. However, no announcement has been forthcoming that this so-called evidence arrived.

When Berman first attempted to reach a pact between the receivers and himself relative to his efforts to assist them in the recovery of usurious interest, paid out on Julian pool loans, Berman, through his attorneys, requested the release of himself, his father-in-law and his brother-in-law from suits that might result from their activities in the Julian scandal. This was refused by the receivers after a conference with United States District Judge McCormick. These relatives of Berman's are in New York.

Dist.-Atty. Keyes and his deputies, Davis and Richardson, left their offices in the Hall of Justice Monday morning with a suit case full of evidence in the Julian case and immediately went into seclusion to await Berman's return. They are scheduled to reappear in their offices today. Attaches there denied they are playing golf.

On Berman's scheduled arrival tomorrow he immediately will go into conference with his attorney and the receivers, it was announced yesterday.

THREE NEW JULIAN USURY COMPLAINTS ISSUED

David Rubin, jeweler, Frank Meline, real-estate operator, and Maurice Smith, dentist, were named yesterday in complaints charging usury filed by City Prosecutor Lickley in connection with asserted loans to Julian Petroleum Corporation pools.

Meline is accused of making a $35,775 loan for thirty days for which he collected $7950 interest; another loan of $14,750 with $3000 profit and a third loan of $19,575 which is asserted to have yielded a profit of $1987.50.

When informed of the complaints filed against him Mr. Meline vehemently denied that he ever had participated in any Julian Petroleum pools.

"I absolutely deny any transaction with the Julian Petroleum Corporation in which I collected any usurious interest," he said. "It is true that during the past year I bought and sold Julian stocks, but this was done as an individual without affiliation with any pool whatever, and at present I am out $13,871.31 as a result of these transactions. I have the books and records to prove this statement."

Dr. Smith is charged with accepting $10,125 profits on short-term loans and an excessive rate of interest, while Mr Rubin is accused of having reaped profits of $9000 on two short-term loans, one for $38,000 and the other for $48,000.

WESTERN PACIFIC BUILDING
1031 South Broadway

He Figured A Way
To Improve Working Conditions without increase of rent

This executive faced a serious problem. He found it impossible to increase his volume of business without adding personnel. His present offices were crowded now. So it must have more floor space, higher rent.

But this increased overhead would entirely wipe out the profit of the increase in business he could expect for some time to come.

He consulted the Planning Department of the new Western Pacific Building. They showed him that odd and irregular spaces and improper light in his present offices cut down his usable floor space 10 per cent. Poor arrangement of partitions caused another 5 per cent waste.

A plan for office layout in the Western Pacific building was worked out. Partitions were arranged to fit his special requirements. There were no irregular or odd spaces. Each office was flooded with direct daylight and fresh air. Thus every foot could be utilized.

He found that room was provided for increased personnel, without increase of rent. And that better working conditions would increase the efficiency of employees.

Perhaps you have this same problem. Our Planning Department will gladly work out plans for corporations and organizations requiring special layouts. No obligation.

The strategic location of the new Western Pacific Building provides greater convenience for your clients. A new standard of service. Unusually low rentals.

Kandahars in "Oversizes"

Just to mention a few among the hundreds. Kandahars seem never to wear out! And of their designs and colors, one never tires. The larger sizes, such as 9x15 foot, are priced $625. Others are 12x17.10 foot, $1070.00; 12.3x19.9 foot, $1090.00, and the 13.10x22 foot, $1413.00. Oriental Rugs in small sizes, too!

For a dozen different kinds of Homes, ...DAMASKS! An Amazing Array!

Damasks for the Spanish and Italian home, to be sure. These seem the logical and first-thought of fabric when draperies are being considered. Even Colonial and Early American homes lend themselves to certain Damask patterns. Norman and English houses of proverbial formality take kindly to Damask hangings. And the modern home that follows no clearly defined period trend (but is a charming place to live in) uses Damask to frame its windows.

And so Bullock's Presents Damask!

—In many, many patterns, colors and color combinations. In a range of prices that makes Damask possible for everyone. Damask for large homes and small . . . you'll find Bullock's Damasks in amazing array.

Damasks at $2.50

Stripes mostly. Green and gold, red and gold, blue and rose, red and green, etc. One a black ground with gold figure is stunning. Rayon and Cotton Damasks, $2.50 yard, 50 inches wide.

Damasks at $3.50

Again stripes are characteristic. Stripes large and small. Many colors and color combinations. Some solid colors in Spanish red and flame with floral patterning. Rayon and cotton Damasks, $3.50 yard. 50 inches wide.

Damasks at $5.00

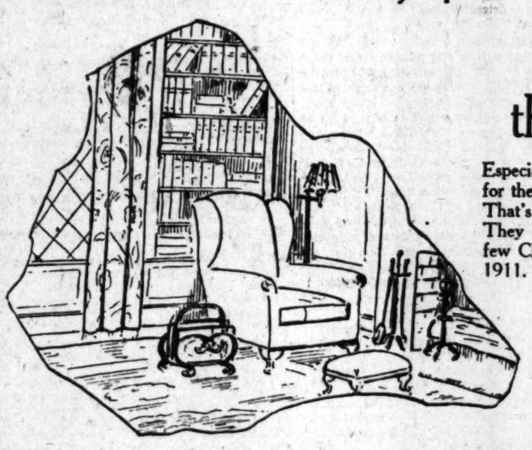
Bullock's already famous "Grazia" damask in Shiki weave. This is quite new and ever so smart. Its weave is different from most Damasks in that it is softer, more pliant. Solid colors and two-tone effects. Rayon and Cotton Damasks, $5 yard. 50 inches wide.

Bullion Fringe to trim the Marquisette or Voile, 30c yard. A very fine twisted cord that finishes the bottom of your glass curtains admirably. Bullock's Advisory Bureau for Home Interiors will help you with your Damask problems, of course.

Draperies, BULLOCK'S, Sixth Floor

Because French Marquisette is so ideal for the glass curtain with Damask side hangings, very special prices on this fabric! Sand shade, 48 inches wide, 85c a yard. 40 inch..... French Marquisette, 65c

Chiffon Voile, $1 Yd. —is "the newest and smartest in foundation curtaining," so we've been informed by someone who ought to know. This fabric comes in pastel shades of rose, Nile, orchid, flame and blue. 38 inches wide.



Magazines or Books; Keep them in this Rack . . . $1.50

Especially do magazines have a way of getting mislaid. And how annoying to search for them when you most want to dip into an article or story for just a few moments. That's the beauty of these little Racks. Carry them from one room to another . . . They are colorful, too. In green, or black and gold. Do these suggest putting by a few Christmas gifts? Phone your order if you cannot get into town today. TRinity 1911. They are made entirely of metal, by the way.

What's New in Lamps?

Crystal-like globes, ever so big and substantial looking reflect the colors of their shades in a fascinating manner. These Lamp Bases are not of real crystal, to be sure. But they've a silvery, mirror like surface that reminds one of the crystal gazing globes of necromancer fame. Their prices are, complete with shade, $39.95.

Hal Roach Going East Tomorrow

Hal Roach, motion-picture producer, announced yesterday that the improvement in his wife's condition will permit him to leave tomorrow for Washington, D. C., where he has been called for military training under his major's commission in the United States Signal Corps reserve.

Mrs. Roach has been recuperating at the Chase Diet Sanatorium since her return with her husband from a six weeks' visit in New York. Her illness was the result of a strenuous period of social activity.

Sentences Hang Over Guardsmen

Failing to attend weekly drill at the Armory, four California National Guardsmen yesterday were sentenced to pay $10 fines or serve five days in the City Jail by Municipal Judge Wilson.

The sentences were suspended for two years and the defendants, Charles W. Olson, G. C. Rubin, Edward M. Conway and F. C. Saputo, given a severe reprimand by the court.

ATTORNEY FORMS NEW PARTNERSHIP

Announcement was made yesterday by Richard Cantillon, of the law firm of Cantillon and Hamilton, that he has withdrawn from that firm to formulate a partnership with Frank A. Sievers. It was stated that the new firm will bear the name of Cantillon and Sievers and that they will occupy offices in the Subway Terminal Building. Both men have had long experience in the practice of law.

DE MILLE SEEN DAILY ON SET OF "CHICAGO"

Cecil B. De Mille is taking a personal interest in the directing of "Chicago," the stage play being filmed with Phyllis Haver in the lead, it became known yesterday. De Mille is seen almost every day on the "Chicago" set, giving rise to reports that he actually is directing the play, but at the studio yesterday it was said that Frank Urson is to receive directorial credit.

THE SQUARE DEAL

If the American marines are going to run the next election in Nicaragua this will be one time when the voters will have an honest count.

GOOD REASON

It is a good thing we have a speed limit. Most men nowadays simply must have something to break. They have worn out the Sabbath.

WANED RAPIDLY

Short history of world series: At the start, the Waners were the hopes of Pittsburgh; after the third game the hopes of Pittsburgh were waners.

DEMORALIZING

Still, it was a bit rash of the Pittsburgh fans to boo Bush. Baseball men must be temperate, and even the best of them couldn't stand boos.

ALL IS VANITY

A college professor asserts that the men of the next generation will be rouging their faces and carrying vanity boxes. This will enable husbands to make up with their wives.

THEY ALL DO IT

A London typewriter girl succeeds in swimming the English channel after making seven unsuccessful attempts. Thus proving that almost anybody can negotiate the passage if they stay in the water long enough.

WAY DOWN IN TENNESSEE

The Tennessee press could use a little evolution in its nomenclature. A woman may stand for being called a "poetess," or even a "sculptress," but to call a newspaper woman a "reportress!" Do they call a female lounge lizard a "lizardress" in Tennessee?

FOR HONEYMOONERS

According to traffic officials Niagara Falls is still the pet resort of American honeymooners. It has been the favored tryst o' lovers for five generations and is still going strong—although California is crimping it heavily. The bridal tide is starting to turn.

MADE TO SUIT

Tom Taggart is desperately in earnest in grooming Evans Woollen, the Indianapolis banker, for the Democratic Presidential nomination. He insists that Woollen is of the right weave and will wear well. He is not quite a yard wide, but he is all Woollen. Tom declares that he is made to suit.

LOOKING BACKWARD

At the age of 102 years a Spokane matron is quoted as expressing herself strongly in favor of dancing and smoking for women as being helps to keep their minds young and in tune with the time. She reads her Bible, but she rails not against the liberties of the hour or the vagaries of her sex. Being a pioneer has not made her a bit bossy.

AN AIR SERVICE

The new type of planes to be used in a regular passenger and express service between Chicago and the Pacific Coast will cost $65,000 each and accommodate a dozen persons. This would be giving the luxurious railway trains some real competition. The flyers would be provided with every material need and the trip would be made within the span of a single day. It sounds impressive.

IN FOREIGN LANDS

We may have hold of most of the world's gold, but we are nevertheless taking a vital interest in affairs across the big pond. According to the best available estimates the Americans last year invested $725,000,000 of their money in the stocks or bonds of foreign industrial corporations. Our interest in the welfare of Europe is tangible and direct. We should be among the world's best keepers of the peace. While keeping the home fires burning we are not forgetting the factory chimneys overseas.

LEFT-HANDED POLITICS

From all parts of the country have come diversified comments regarding the indorsement of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York as the next Democratic nominee for President by a number of representatives of the Democratic sections of seven Western States. These comments, mostly by Democratic leaders and papers, show such a difference of opinion as to the gesture in favor of Gov. Smith made at Ogden last month, that it is borne in upon the mind of an impartial onlooker that this gesture was evidently made with the left hand.

There is no genuine hand-clasp given by the Ogden politicians across the country to the Governor of New York. It reminds one of the Japanese fashion of shaking hands with one's self.

TEAPOT DOME

The victory of the government in the two Naval Oil Reserve scandal suits is now complete with the decision of the Supreme Court in the Teapot Dome case that the lease made to Harry F. Sinclair's company was illegal and fraudulent—a decision that has been expected since the same court a year ago cancelled, on similar grounds, the Elk Hills lease to Edward L. Doheny's company. The outcome of the conspiracy trial of Sinclair and Albert B. Fall, scheduled to start in Washington next week, is a comparatively minor matter. The really big point has been determined: no one is to enjoy the fruits of fraud.

Justice Butler, who delivered the opinion of the court, proved the clarity of vision of that body when he used the language of righteous indignation in speaking of Sinclair and Fall. Reviewing a transaction through which $200,000 in Liberty Bonds came into possession of Fall's son-in-law, M. T. Everhart of Pueblo, Colo., of which $70,000 was passed directly to Fall himself, Justice Butler said:

"The clandestine and unexplained acquisition of these bonds by Fall confirms the belief, generated by other circumstances in the case, that he was a faithless public officer. There is nothing in the record which tends to mitigate the sinister significance attaching to that enrichment."

Of the Continental Trading Company, through which the bonds were handled, Justice Butler said: "The purchase and sale of contracts enabling it to make more than $8,000,000 without capital, risk or effort, the assignment of the contract to the resale purchasers for a small fraction of its probable value, and the purpose to conceal the disposition of its assets make it plain that the company was created for some illegitimate purpose."

The dignity of the great court is enhanced, not damaged, when it thus speaks out and the words of Justice Butler, uttered under conditions of great solemnity that attend the sittings of the court, brand Sinclair and Fall more deeply than conviction and sentence by a criminal court could do.

As in the Elk Hills case, the action of the Supreme Court adds new laurels to the reputation of United States District Judge McCormick of Los Angeles, since his analysis of the oil leases and the circumstances surrounding the leasing was applied in both cases. The Teapot Dome case did not come before him, but before another district judge in another district, who held that the government's contention of fraud was not established.

The decision also enhances public confidence in the administration of President Coolidge, whose determination to hew to the line, no matter whom the chips might hit, restored to the people two great oil pools that may prove vital in national defense. The President refused to be stampeded in any direction. He took calm, sure judgment on the facts when they were brought to light, and acted with firmness at the proper time, without regard to any possible political effect. It was his judgment that neither he nor his party could properly be held responsible for the actions of an unfaithful member of it, a view that was adopted overwhelmingly by the people in the election of 1924. The Republican party is shown to be strong enough to acknowledge and correct mistakes made in its regime; it has been strengthened by the Naval Oil Reserve cases, and Democratic attempts to make political capital of them have proved a boomerang.

WELCOME TO REALTY MEN

Blue and gold, the colors of the California Real Estate Association, will this week mingle with the gold of the sands and the blue of the skies at the beautiful seaside resort of Santa Monica. For five days the men and women carrying on the important business of developing the State by bringing homeseekers and home owners together for the purchase or exchange of properties and the populating of unoccupied lands, will be in annual convention at the queen watering place of Southern California.

The people of Santa Monica, of Los Angeles county and the Southwest metropolis appreciate the honor conferred by the holding of the twenty-third annual convention of this State-wide association at this year's chosen headquarters and extend unreservedly the hand of welcome to the thousands of delegates who will flock there from all parts of California. While the convention is primarily one of business and organization for the coming year, the entertainment and pleasure side of the occasion is a feature not to be overlooked, and providing this entertainment for their guests will be the pleasant business of all who can act host to California's realtors.

So much depends on the right handling of the problems that constantly spring up in the buying and selling of real estate, so much of the future prosperity of the State rests on employing only legitimate and conservative methods in bringing opportunities for investment before prospective purchasers, so largely is the reputation of the State wrapped up in the confidence the stranger may place in the given word of its real estate agents, that the measures taken by the California Real Estate Association for keeping this business on a sound and steady footing have become one of the major operations of the commonwealth.

The names of those who are officering the association, the standard they have set for those who apply for State licenses, the means they are employing for weeding out the unreliable agent and the measures they are advocating to forestall booms and prevent consequent depressions are guarantees that at the Santa Monica convention the real estate business in California will advance another step toward that strict integrity which is the goal of its activities. Santa Monica will have the privilege of celebrating its Columbus Day this year by entertaining thousands of our modern State Columbuses who are doing for the land opportunities hidden in California's future what the old Italian navigator did in discovering the unsuspected wonders that lay beyond the waters of an uncharted ocean. And Santa Monica this week will welcome the blue and gold of the California realtor as an inspiring emblem of a goodly company engaged in the progressive enterprise of opening up new worlds.

CONSECRATION

HIGH WAGES

Nowhere, perhaps, are American Federation of Labor arguments lamer than when they attempt to prove that high wages are the cause, rather than the effect, of prosperity, unless it is when federationists make the claim (they do not dare try to prove it) that the incomes of closed-shop workers are greater than those who work under the American plan as it is in vogue in Los Angeles. It has been asserted freely at the federation convention here that Los Angeles is a "low scale" town. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

It must be obvious in the first place that a family income cannot be measured wholly in dollars, without taking into account what the dollars will buy. Dollars are not an end in themselves; they are a means. Real wages are measured in comfort, satisfaction and well-being, in the standard of living the worker is enabled to maintain, and in other factors which cannot be analyzed statistically so that fair comparison can be made. Nor do daily or hourly wage comparisons give an accurate idea. It means nothing to say that competent Southern California bricklayers receive $11 to $12 for an eight-hour day while those of New York City receive $14, unless it is also explained that free Southern California bricklayers have no time off because of jurisdictional disputes or strikes and will, therefore, earn far more in a year, in addition to being able to buy more with $11 than can be purchased in New York for $14.

Can the average New York union workman afford a car? The great majority of Southern California free workmen have them. Does the workman live in a house or a tenement? How about light and air? Do his children get the best schooling? Are there fresh vegetables on the table the year round? Can he spend his evenings pleasurably? What are the expenses for rent, light, heat? How long does it take him to get to his job? These are all factors which must be taken into consideration before a true comparison can be made and they cannot for the most part be reduced to dollars, pounds, inches or minutes.

It is also absurd to speak of a "scale" of wages in Los Angeles. Under the American plan men are paid according to their ability, so that some receive more than the highest union scale in other cities, while others receive less. Men here are not held down to the dead level of the poorest and slowest, and there is no such thing as a "scale."

Let the federation delegates who are really seeking the truth go among the free Los Angeles workmen and see for themselves how they live, find out what their savings bank balances are, note how their children are dressed and how healthy and well-fed they look, talk with those who have worked "back East" and know the difference and ask them how they like it. They can get information in this way of far more value than from reams of statistics, but it is a safe bet it will furnish no ammunition for the use of labor agitators.

Every sane person wants to see wages as high as they can be compatible with sound economics. Beyond that point they tend to hurt rather than help workers by throttling industry and reducing employment. The union theory would raise wages arbitrarily and without regard to the capacity of industry to pay them. But no one connected with the federation has yet explained why the highest wages are paid and the greatest prosperity exists in the two unorganized industries, automobile and motion-picture production.

COLUMBUS DAY

Disputes about who discovered America do not, as a matter of fact, detract much from the glory of the man who has come to be known as the Great Discoverer. It is quite immaterial to point out that Columbus never reached the mainland; it is useless to assert that Leif Ericson arrived some four or five hundred years before or that some Irishman preceded the Scandinavian. These explorations, interesting as they are from an academic viewpoint, had no practical results, while Columbus's voyages were well enough advertised to bring about an extension of European civilization into this hemisphere.

So today is dedicated to the man who hurdled great obstacles and overcame great handicaps and found a new world when he was looking for an old one. To Columbus we owe the present development that is America, and it is proper to honor him on this account, without paying too much attention to questions of priority.

For that matter, Ericson and his possible Irish predecessor are really entitled to less credit than the canoe-voyaging Asiatic who first crossed Bering Strait and was actually the first man to set foot on the American continent, assuming that he came that way. His discovery, like that of Columbus, was really fruitful, since it extended the human race into a new habitation. The ancestors of the American Indian, wherever they came from, were the real discoverers.

A BACK-SEAT DRIVER

The latest inspiration of the Democratic donkey is to team Mrs. Woodrow Wilson with Al Smith in the next Presidential election. With such a team it is hoped that the Bourbon band wagon will have an appeal to all sections of the country.

She being a woman and the widow of a lamented President, it is difficult to discuss the matter candidly. Language is hampered for suitable words. Only certain terms can be used with gentility. Nor does it appear chivalrous to suggest the possibilities of placing a woman over the wind-jammin Senate. She may survive; but what of Borah!

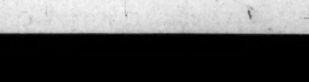
Back-seat driving always furnishes considerable excitement and entertainment; but it sometimes takes the mind and eye off of the road. What effect will back-seat driving have on the government? Not a few think back-seat driving queered the League of Nations in this country.

Great benefit might accrue from having a woman in charge of the nation's house of wind; for the sex is famous for having the last word! However, that any such benefaction enters the minds of the followers of Jefferson may be questioned.

They seem to be thinking of sweeping the Western States into the Democratic column. That a woman is exceedingly handy with the broom is freely admitted; but that she can sweep whole sections is dirt of another color. The Solid South may need a vacuum cleaner. Then what of Al Smith, the patron saint of the wets? Will the chauffeur listen to the back-seat driver?

THE TINDERBOX

It would be a fine thing if the League of Nations could require the Balkan nations to give bonds to keep the peace. Offhand it looks as if there were a quarrel under every hat. Every guy carries a firecracker and a match.



PROVING THE RULE
By James J. Montague

When a youngster in college shows little concern
In the way that the team will turn out,
When he wastes his good time in an effort to learn
What the studies he takes are about,
When he pays but scant heed to collegiate sport
And has nothing but books on his mind—
His classmates conclude he's a pretty poor sort—
In fact he is only a grind.

When reverend seniors unbend now and then,
Becoming less grave and severe
And, forgetting their status as great learned men
They give a green frosh the right steer,
They observe in the lofty and dignified tone
That seniors know how to employ,
"You must learn to let text books severely alone
For a grind is a mutt, little boy."

Thus the untutored youth who might otherwise deem
That the work of a school or a college
Is to breed in his bosom a lasting esteem
For the various branches of knowledge,
Is saved from the folly of wasting his days
As no manly young gentleman should
For, before from the pathway of wisdom he strays
He is taught that a grind is no good.

And though now it turns out that a hard toiling grind
Whose labors were long and severe
And who spent his semesters improving his mind
Earned forty-five thousand a year—
The red-blooded college men have to admit
That the fellow has done pretty well.
But it does not affect their opinions a bit—
They observe that you never can tell.

FIRST TELEGRAPH INSTRUMENT

The history of telegraphy, as shown at the centennial exhibition of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, proved an intensely interesting exhibit. It started with the first telegraph instrument, the one by which the first message was sent from between Baltimore and Washington. This was part of the exhibit of the Western Union Company and the visitor was led right along through the various stages of development to the very latest method of sending messages across the ocean by submarine cable. The original Morse instrument has long been part of the Smithsonian Institution's collection and it was loaned for this occasion.

Crime Waves

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The writer would like to commend the cartoonist for the fitting cartoon in this morning's issue of The Times. When the United States realizes that you cannot give the public a straight mental diet of crime, analyzing and diagramming the situations for their better interpretation, without creating brain paths that will result in the reader imitating what he has read so often, when a like situation arises, we shall see a rapid diminution in our crime waves.

The Times is about the only newspaper in the city that does not serve crime news in its morning, noon and night editions' first pages. Crime is news and should be printed but not featured and heroized and more or at least as much space should be given to the ultimate outcome of crime as is given its commission.

I have asked several persons since the Kelly-Mackaye trial whether or not Miss Mackaye had gone to the penitentiary. Up to the present I have been unable to learn. The reason is that her crime was played up for days, but the inevitable result of all crime, punishment sooner or later—public or personal atonement—is not featured, when it ought to be stressed.

When everyone is doing anything, regardless of how foolish or wrong it may be, there is no one left to criticise. Thus it is with crime. It is becoming more general because it shocks no one. We read it, see it on the screen and in the drama. We are used to it. We expect it so that if no sensational happening greets our expectant eyes upon opening our morning paper, we almost feel disappointed. Other folks' sins are interesting and however we may say "Well, isn't it awful?" We are not shocked and we get a vicarious thrill out of someone's misadventure.

In the hands of the press lies the solution of the crime problem. The press is able to swing public opinion and it is the only means of educating the masses against crime, both national crime, which is war, and private crime, which is murder and plunder by the individual.
E. TRAYME.

Rip Van Winkle

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] That's right—keep it Main street as I and many other old-timers love it. Let the street rest in peace, I say, especially the south end of it—calmly asleep as it is now. No new life, no building, not even a movie in thirty blocks (from Thirtieth to Sixty-first street.)

To change its name might awaken it and again make it Calle Principal.

VENTURA, Oct. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Mr. Owens of Inglewood, in reply to a correspondent that the War of Independence was won by the Irish, asks, as well he might do, "What tremendous role did the Irish play in winning the war?" Sun Spots

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Referring to your editorial, October 5, 1927, "Sun Secrets," I have this to say: A man doesn't need to be a scientist to figure out what sun spots are. Planetary bodies, large and small, passing over the face of the sun and coming exactly between the sun and the earth. For instance, another party coming between you and a glowing stove in zero weather naturally diminishes the heat that you were up to then enjoying. Ditto the sun and earth. That Italian scientist is shooting astronomical bunk just as Mussolini Fascism is the political bunk.

UNIFORM

BY LANNIE HAYNES MARTIN

[In a suburb of Detroit recently 104 teachers refused to wear smocks ordered by the school board.]

I do not mean to give a knock
To any one; I would not mock
The humblest man (nor Edward Bok)
But I got one tremendous shock
As I went strolling round the block;
I thought I saw a brand new flock
Of Rosa Bonheurs pass—but ach!
One maiden rushed to punch a clock;
And one went strutting like a peacock
To bank her cash, from selling stock;
Another trudged with heavy crock
To sell her jam. And to the dock
They dragged one who had picked a lock!—
Shall teachers wear this self-same frock
And be the whole world's laughing stock?
"No, No!" said they. "We'll drink hemlock
Before we'll wear that goldarned smock."
Nor firmer stands Gibraltar's rock!

NOT CHOOSING

"I do not choose," as Calvin wrote, "to ask the voter for his vote," or words to that effect, then went about his divers chores, discussing tiresome things with born serene and circumspect. Throughout the land the messages flew, all people started in to chew over rags they had; quite every with the President. they differed figure what he meant, his language made them mad. "It doesn't mean he will not run," explained a voiced native son. "He bites his like to quit, but if the people demand his services to save the land; why, then, he'll still be it." "He means he's through," other jays; "he springs a known down east phrase, and "I do not choose;' he means to be polite in saying that in next year's fight, first blush will refuse." The learned pundits sure gave three heads cold rag Greek and Latin roots to shed Calvin meant; opinions came from priests and clerks, from voters delegate who works to earn honest cent. Tired men consulted hard and sage and searched dictionary's page, to find some of clew; the more they argued explained, with sapiential brow, feigned, the more the pundits puzzled. The weeks roll on and people groan in dire amazement and dismay just what good Calvin meant to say he conducts affairs of state and shoos book agents from his gate; tor seems to care a cent. He goes his work, he does his chores, clear up words that may offend the people, and and sows around in his ten-gallon hat he wears clock and kicks the cat from the kitchen door.

PASTOR PUSHES POLICE CHARGES

Dr. Gustav Briegleb Beards Commission in Halls

Dying Dog Episode Text of Jacobson Tirade

Three Officers Facing Trial as Result of Visit

The police trial board yesterday was ordered by the Police Commission to conduct an investigation of charges that three police officers acted in an insulting manner toward Dr. Gustav H. Briegleb, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Third avenue and West Jefferson street, and members of the congregation, when he summoned them to remove a dying dog from the church steps on the night of the 5th inst.

FOLLOWS UP EPISTLE

Dr. Briegleb had made a written complaint to the commission on the matter. Apparently not satisfied with his complaint in writing, the pastor appeared in person at the commission meeting yesterday and made several remarks concerning the conduct of police affairs that resulted in heated words being passed between the clergyman and Capt. Wallis, commander of the police vice squad at the time Councilman Jacobson was arrested on a morals charge.

Dr. Briegleb's complaint against the three police officers apparently was of minor consideration to the pastor, for he soon launched an attack on police administration in connection with vice conditions and the arrest of Councilman Jacobson, which he charged was a "frame-up."

Capt. Wallace took exception to the clergyman's remarks, and, leaving his seat, walked over to face his accuser, and spoke in defense of his reputation.

PASTOR RETRACTS

Dr. Briegleb admitted, "That's right, Capt. Wallis, your reputation is above reproach. But I think you were misled by other officers in the Jacobson case."

The meeting of the commission ended when President Webster moved that the officers connected with the dying dog episode be investigated by the police trial board. The officers named by Dr. Briegleb are Patrolman E. W. Moore and W. C. Hails. An unidentified plain-clothesman also figures in the case.

Why I Support the Community Chest

BY D. F. McGARRY
President Chamber of Commerce

All good citizens should support the Los Angeles Community Chest because its agencies are developing a community spirit of broad importance. As the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has been a vital factor in the city's growth industrially and commercially, so the Community Chest, uniting all classes in a movement to improve conditions socially, has become a vivifying force in the private lives of the people.

D. F. McGARRY

Service, as well as giving, is emphasized by the Chest in its philanthropies, and this, it seems to me, is the real function of properly directed charity.

Junior Chamber Members Form Air Corps Club

The Air Corps and Light Plane Club of the Junior Chamber of Commerce hopped off to a flying start yesterday, with forty members present at their organization luncheon-meeting at the Chamber of Commerce.

Capt. Cabell Carrington, World War flyer and chairman of the junior chamber aviation committee, who presided, outlined plans for this new aviation group and Harry C. Mabry, another veteran flyer, welcomed the new members.

Capt. Carrington turned the gavel over to Howard Miller, who presented his outline of organization, and by a system of questions obtained a definite idea from the group as to preferences of individuals for various branches of aviation study and activity.

He announced that Maj. C. C. Moseley, vice-president and general manager of the Western Air Express; Capt. Walter F. Parkin, representative of the United States Department of Commerce, and Lieut. Pendleton, an expert on navigation and aircraft instruments, will act with others to make up a faculty to direct training and study.

RAMMED CRAFT DUE HERE TODAY

Tanker Crippled in Collision Being Towed to Port

Vessels Meet in Dense Fog Off Port Arguello

Salt Water Causes Damage; Dry Dock Sought

With her engines flooded and her stern awash, the Richfield Oil Company's tanker Kekoskee is due here under tow this morning, from 130 miles north, where she collided with the Weyerhauser lumber steamer Pomona in a fog at 6 a.m. yesterday. The latter, with a crippled bow, is continuing to San Francisco.

The Kekoskee was returning to Long Beach in ballast from Oakland under command of Capt. Kark J. Olsen. When five miles off Point Arguello the dim form of the Pomona, under Capt. P. B. Barron suddenly loomed two ships' lengths ahead.

Maneuvers almost cleared the ships, the Pomona's bow cutting deep into the Kekoskee's engine-room astern, the vital part of the ship. Water raced in, the tanker settled by the stern and it looked for a time like the crew might be taken off.

TWO SHIPS AID TOW

The Pomona, which had stood by, continued north at 11 a.m. when Chief Boat'n Charles A. Lucas appeared on the scene with the Coast Guard cutter Shawnee, operating out of San Francisco, and began towing the disabled ship south.

In the meantime, Merritt, Chapman & Scott dispatched the big salvage tug Peacock from Los Angeles at 9 a.m., and relieved the cutter of the tow at sundown last night. Both local dry docks were in use yesterday and one which will lift up the Kekoskee for a survey had not been determined last night. Both ships are classed with the American Bureau of Shipping.

MACHINERY DAMAGED

Although the crash damage to both ships is material, the Kekoskee also will suffer from the salt water in her engine and boiler rooms. Electrical machinery will have to be overhauled and boiler and pipe coverings renewed.

The Kekoskee is a former Shipping Board tank steamer of 3558 tons net, bought on the east coast and brought from there by the Richfield Oil Company several months ago for operation out of their Long Beach terminal. Her replacement value would be about $700,000 to $800,000.

The Pomona is a steel steamer of 4819 tons net, owned by the Weyerhauser Timber Company and operated by a subsidiary, the Pomona Steamship Company of Everett, Wash. Norton, Lilly & Co. are agents.

DETECTIVES OF NEW YORK DISAPPEAR

Two Men Who Come Here After Prisoner Report and Drop from Sight

Fears for the safety of two New York detectives who came here two weeks ago to return a prisoner to the eastern city and dropped from sight following their arrival here without leaving a clew of their whereabouts were expressed by the authorities yesterday when an intensive search was ordered for the missing men.

Al Berkowitz of Glendale was arrested forty-five days ago on a warrant from New York charging him with failure to provide for his family. Chief of Police Fraser of Glendale turned the prisoner over to Sheriff Traeger to be kept in the County Jail pending extradition.

On the arrival of the two New York detectives they identified themselves, arranged for the extradition of Berkowitz and said they were ready to leave with their prisoner. They then mysteriously disappeared. Berkowitz is still in custody at the County Jail.

The case came to light when Deputy Public Defender Benedict addressed a letter to Chief Fraser calling attention to the fact that Berkowitz has been held for forty-five days without proceedings toward extradition.

Chief Fraser in conjunction with the local authorities promptly began a search for the missing officers, fearings they might have been victims in California of former enemies from New York.

APPEAL TO BE ARGUED ON BRIEFS

Dorothy Mackaye Must Remain in Jail Pending New Trial Decision

Oral argument was waived and it was stipulated yesterday that the appeal of Dorothy Mackaye, former actress, from a conviction of conspiracy to commit manslaughter in connection with the death of her husband, Ray Raymond, song and dance man, who was beaten by Paul Kelly, film actor and admirer of Miss Mackaye, will be submitted before the Appellate Court on briefs to be filed before the 31st inst.

It was stated at the courtrooms yesterday that the order of the Appellate Court justices fixing the time in which briefs may be filed will have the effect of forcing Miss Mackaye to remain in the County Jail until a decision is handed down. If the Appellate Court should grant her plea for a new trial she will be admitted to bail.

Willingness to waive oral argument and submit the case on written briefs was expressed in open court by Bingham Gray, attorney for the convicted actress.

Kelly now is serving a sentence in San Quentin penatentiary, having recently voluntarily withdrawn his appeal to the Appellate Court.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

One of the delightful affairs of tomorrow will be the beautifully appointed tea with which Mrs. Maxwell Barnes of Larchmont Boulevard is entertaining from 3 to 5 o'clock in honor of Mrs. F. Charles Hume and Miss Katherine Seymour of Houston, Tex. Baskets filled with French bouquets will be used in profusion in the decorations of the house and table appointments, while the refreshments will be carried out in the pastel shades in color motif. Assisting Mrs. Barnes in receiving her guests will be Mrs. Waller P. Burns, Mrs. John H. Blair and Miss Blair.

Engagement Announced

Of more than usual interest to society of the north and south was the announcement made several days ago in San Francisco of the engagement of Miss Helen Dorothy Foster to Hans Koebig of Los Angeles, the wedding date being set for November 10, and there will be a quiet ceremony, owing to the recent death of the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Walter Foster. Miss Foster is one of the prominent debutantes of the north, having gone to live in San Francisco from Seattle several years ago. She is a sister of Blair Foster, whose wedding with Miss Edna Christenson was an event of last year. She is an expert horsewoman and passes much of her time at Del Monte and Pebble Beach. Mr. Koebig is planning to take his bride to Honolulu on their wedding trip and after their return will make their home here.

Betrothal Announced

Mrs. Walter H. Logan, 326 North Vega street, Alhambra, entertained recently with a tea in honor of her daughter, Miss Lillian Loudon, who has just returned from a four months' trip in the Eastern States and Canada. The occasion served also to announce to her many friends the betrothal of Miss Loudon to John Vander Loan, Jr., of Grand Rapids, Mich., the wedding to be an event of early spring.

Sixty guests were bidden, and as each arrived a miniature corsage was presented, to which was attached a tiny Cupid, bearing the names of the engaged couple.

The bride-elect attended the University of California at Los Angeles, and is a member of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority.

Church Wedding

One of the loveliest of recent weddings was that of Miss Maud Rudaly of Sheridan, Ind., who became the bride of Matt Dinning of Hollywood, the 7th inst., in the Little Church of the Flowers at Glendale, the ceremony being read by Dr. Stuart McClennan of the First Presbyterian Church in Hollywood.

During the ceremony James Allen sang "Oh, Promise Me," and Miss Sarvis sang "Because," accompanied by Miss Eileen Woodburn, who also played the "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn wedding marches.

The bride made a charming picture in her white georgette gown, which was made with a wide lace flounce of rose pointe lace, and a long veil of matching lace held with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Mrs. Vey Joyce, as matron of honor, wore a gown of orchid georgette with the wide flounce, embroidered in pastel shades, and carried an arm bouquet of pink sweet peas and ferns. Little Mary Lee Quillin, in a frock of ruffled pink georgette, was flower girl, and Dick Joyce, wearing a suit of white satin, was ring bearer.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. Dinning's parents, 1255 Lodi Place, Hollywood, and Mr. and Mrs. Dinning left Saturday on the "City of Los Angeles" for Honolulu. After a three weeks trip they will return to make their home in Los Angeles.

Announces Engagement

Formal announcement is made by Mrs. Anna T. Gillon of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Hazel Foster, to Ernest S. Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson Holmes of Palms. The date of the wedding will be announced in the near future.

Mr. Holmes, who is dean of the Institute of Religious Science and School of Philosophy, has attracted wide attention recently with his Sunday addresses in the Ambassador Hotel Theater.

At Beach Club

Mrs. Robert Green, prominent in social and club circles, gave a bridge luncheon, Monday, at the Deauville Beach Club, Santa Monica, honoring Mrs. Paul Heydenreich, president of the Matinee Musical Club, and Mrs. C. H. Carley of Michigan, who is a sister of the hostess visiting in California. Autumn flowers in various shades of yellow adorned the luncheon tables, while hand-made place cards marked covers for Mrs. Dana Cox, Mrs. Robert Hillis, Mrs. Floyed Carley, Mrs. James Lambrecht, Mrs. Mort Singer, Mrs. H. J. Whitley, Mrs. Frank Suttle, Mrs. Matson Morrill, Mrs. Adelaid Whitfield, Mrs. A. R. WIFE OF PHILHARMONIC LEADER

She and Husband to be Guests at Dinner

Mrs. Georg Schneevoigt

AMONG the charming additions to social and musical circles of the Southland are Mr. and Mrs. Georg Schneevoigt, who arrived yesterday and for whom many delightful affairs are being given. Mr. Schneevoigt is the new conductor of the Philharmonic Orchestra and this evening William Andrews Clark, Jr., is entertaining at his home in West Adams street with a dinner in their honor. On this occasion Mr. and Mrs. Schneevoigt will be presented to the board of directors of the Philharmonic Orchestra, who are the other guests of the evening. Tomorrow afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Schneevoigt will be honor guests at the women's committee luncheon in the music room of the Biltmore.

Useful Thoughts

Salt water will set all shades of pink.

Skimmed milk will stiffen fine organdies and dainty laces.

A little borax sprinkled under rugs will keep away troublesome moths.

Sawdust sprinkled evenly over the floor before laying linoleum will make it wear longer.

A splendid healing solution for cuts and burns is made by dissolving one teaspoonful boric acid in one pint of water.

NANCY PAGE

Children Use Imagination to Explain a Hidden Wish

By Florence La Ganke

Nancy was often at her wit's end to know how to deal with Joan. She did not want to remove all the bric a brac and bits of lovliness which were about the house. She felt that children should grow up in the presence of beauty. She knew, too, that nothing was more disastrous than a day full of "Don't do this" and "Don't do that."

But how to reconcile these beliefs with Joan's active fingers and her imaginative tales as to how the accident or the breakage happened was the puzzle.

For instance, Joan broke a picture in a silver frame. She brought it to Aunt Nancy saying a funny little girl had come into the room and broken it. Aunt Nancy let her tell the story to the end. She realized that Joan was not consciously lying. There was no need for her to do that, for Aunt Nancy had early learned that nothing brings forth lies like punishment or threat of punishment.

Joan's imagination had created a scene in which the harm was done by a girl whom Joan didn't like. She was almost unconsciously picturing herself in that role since she knew she had done wrong in breaking it. A quiet, calm talk with Aunt Nancy brought out the truth.

The LAST WORD

By ALMA WHITAKER

THE SAVERS AND WASTERS

"I am just about sick of this game," groaned Margaret. "Doesn't it seem foolish of me to go around turning off lights, darning old socks and stockings, scheming not to waste crusts of bread and all the other economies I practice, only to have the money saved poured down the drain?"

"For instance, I go down to market instead of ordering over the phone, and maybe save $1. I use old matches to light the gas and probably save a dime's worth of matches a year—and so on. I should say that my combined little economies amount to several hundred dollars in a year. But who cares? Tom forgets to pay the taxes in time and we have to pay an assessment of $40 for delinquency, when we could just as well have saved that amount. He is the same over the water, the light, the telephone. We are always having to pay an assessment for being behind with the bills. He is just plain careless all the time, and I'm sick of it.

"Just for a change, I'm going to be wasteful, too. I won't mend that next batch of socks—Tom can go buy new ones. I'll leave the lights on all over the house. I won't care if the faucets drip and run the water bills up. I'll go and have shampoos instead of washing my own hair. I won't bother to make over last year's dresses. I'll just give them away and get new ones. I won't think up schemes for using yesterday's leftovers for today's lunch—I'll throw them all in the garbage can. We shall go bankrupt, of course, but it isn't fair that I should do all the saving and Tom all the wasting.

"Nonsense," laughed Isabel. "You could be no more be wasteful than you could jump over the moon. You are one of the thrifty kind and it would hurt you more to be wasteful than it would Tom. I am a thrifty soul, too, and I know all about it. We thrifty people are born that way, it's in our blood. It isn't a virtue. We do it because we love to, because anything else would be hateful to us."

"Both you and I, my dear," teased Isabel, "would be utterly wasted as millionaire's wives. That is why we have been endowed with careless husbands, so that our saving proclivities will always have plenty of opportunity for exercise. We'd be lost if we did not have to be thrifty to save the family. Nice thrifty wives nearly always do have wasteful husbands, just as thrifty husbands so often have extravagant wives. It is a sort of law of compensation."

"Then are you telling me that I ought not to nag Tom for being so careless and wasteful when he does these things?" demanded Margaret indignantly.

"Oh, by no means. Bully him for it every time. He's as bad as my Jimmie. I always bully Jimmy. It makes me feel very superior and virtuous. It is a marvelous hold to have over a husband. It never does any good, of course. Neither of them will ever reform. But they will always feel sheepish and guilty. And when they get rich—on our saving and become great men and make speeches at banquets they will confide sentimentally how much they owe to their wives, while privately believing that they were too artistic, too sensitive to bother about such things when their minds were on greater achievements. Oh, it really works out rather well in the end. As sure as you hear a rich man giving his wife credit for early economies you will understand that is the exact situation. But, of course, while you are nagging Tom about his wastefullness these days, don't forget to keep a private smile up your sleeve. That's important, it takes the sting out of the nag and saves you losing your good looks," beamed Isabel.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

The Paint Pot

Keep the paint brushes in a jar of turpentine between usings.

Keep cans of paint tightly covered between usings or the paint will harden.

Should the brush become hardened and stiff, place it in a saucepan and cover with vinegar. Let boil until the brush is soft and pliable.

Should the paint become hardened and apparently useless, pour an inch of turpentine on top of it and let remain for a few days. Then stir with a stick and continue until soft and ready for use.

The Spotted Raincoat

When the raincoat becomes spotted or splashed with mud, a raw potato cut in half and rubbed well on the spots will remove them quite readily.

On Sheer Materials

Try rubbing a little library paste on the wrong side of thin materials and letting it dry before cutting buttonholes. It will give you a firm surface for sewing.

Kills Worms

To exterminate earth worms from potted plants, thrust unburnt sulphur matches, heads down, into the earth around the plants. Use from two to six matches, according to the size of the plant.

In the Coal Stove

Before burning up the fire in preparation for baking, open the oven door and let the stale air out and the fresh air in. When the fire begins to brighten close the door and in five minutes the fresh air will cause the oven to be ready for use.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy

author of "The Four Ways to Health"

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

MANY CAUSES OF HEADACHES

Every time you feel "sick in the head" you are missing a great opportunity if you do not seek to discover the cause of the pain, or headache. In a great majority of cases the ordinary headache is caused simply by biliousness produced from a burdened liver filled with toxins which congests because of insufficient elimination. Overeating and the free use of heavy foods contribute very greatly to this torpid condition of the liver. A careful study of your diet for one or two meals before the misery starts will usually give you a clue to the real cause. It will be found that certain foods such as onions and garlic, and also acid drinks as cocktails and red wine will produce irritation of the bladder which will affect the eyes or top of the head by what is called "reflex action."

Another kind of reflex headache is produced by constipation, in which case a large amount of feces is packed in the rectum, and presses against the pelvic organs and the sensitive nerves of the lower spine. The aching, drawing feeling in the back of the neck comes from uterine congestion in women and prostate irritation with males. No matter what cause has produced it, such as prolapsus of organs or an unbalanced sex life, you will find much relief in taking an enema and thus cleansing out the lower bowel, thereby relieving pressure against these sensitive generative organs.

The headache from high blood pressure is very distressing, as it seems that the head is trying to burst, with a ringing noise and pounding of the pulse in the ears. Low blood pressure is characterized by a dull ache which is more pronounced after shopping or doing anything which produces enervation.

The steady pains in some parts of the face may be due to abscessed teeth, and those under or over the eyes to antrum or sinus infection. Ordinary gastritis or stomach indigestion, resulting from dietetic indiscretions, will often produce a headache within an hour after eating a bad meal of poor food combinations.

Most headaches can be quickly stopped by taking an enema and lying down to relax for a few minutes in a darkened room. If the eyes ache each day after hard strain from reading or working over books, you will be wise to consult one optometrist after another until your eyes are properly fitted with the necessary glasses.

By all means, do not be satisfied to temporarily cure a headache, but be diligent in your search for the real cause, and determine to correct your bad habits and thus banish this distressing trouble which, if allowed to continually repeat itself, will also surely lower your efficiency

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Hard Water writes: I drink quarts of water a day and still am constipated. Before moving here, my water drinking habit of eight glasses a day (soft water in that town) kept me in fine shape."

Answer: I am sure that the drinking of large quantities of water is often one of the causes of constipation and therefore can not assist in its cure. If you drink more liquid than the body requires, the intestines are discouraged in throwing out their lubricating fluids, and the result appears to be a gradual drying up of the intestinal fluids. To cure constipation, eat plenty of greens, exercise more, and cut down on the starches.

Q.: M.J.B. asks: Is celery good for young children and very old people?

A.: Well bleached celery is good for everyone. It never creates any digestive disturbances, and can be used by anyone who is able to use any kind of food at all. Be sure to get the kind that is well bleached, as this bleaching removes certain volatile oils that are irritating to the digestive organs.

Q.: Janet Mane asks: Do you know of anything that would cause one's skin to turn from a pretty white to a dark color? In two years my skin has become a dark brown. What can I do to get back a white skin?

A.: If you are not tanned from the sun, your dark skin is probably caused by some form of liver derangement. If this is so, take a fruit fast and then live on a careful diet. Take special exercises to stimulate your liver. Supplement these exercises by some kind of manipulative treatment over the gall-bladder and liver area.

Question: B. E. M. writes: "I have black lines running before my eyes, especially upon going out into the light. It is making me very nervous, since there is no let-up to them. Would an average of three cups of coffee a day cause this?"

Answer: The black lines are probably caused by some form of liver trouble which, of course, might be made worse by drinking so much coffee. Have a good diagnosis made by a physician and aslo by an optometrist. When you are sure of the cause of your trouble, the cure lies in simply removing that cause, whatever it may be.

Q.: Housewife asks: "Why do I have such a time trying to make raspberry jelly jell, when I have no trouble with apples or quinces?"

A.: Your trouble comes from the fact that raspberries contain practically no pectin which is necessary before cooked fruits will thicken or jellify. There is a generous supply of this substance in such fruits as apples, quinces, currants, gooseberries and guavas, hence their jellying qualities.

Q.: Miss A. C. R. writes: "I wonder if you would give in your column your opinion of cigarette smoking?"

A.: Moderate cigarette smoking is not necessarily harmful, provided you do not inhale the smoke. It is now not believed that nicotine is taken into the system through smoking, but is burned and destroyed by the fire. However, if you inhale any tarry-like substance it is deposited in the lungs, and this is decidedly harmful.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

THREE-YEAR-OLD can not talk

Mrs. M. M. writes: I wonder if you can tell me why my little girl, who will be 3 years of age in February, can not talk? Isn't she very late?

Answer: The first thing which suggests itself when a child is very late in talking is that he is deaf. Sometimes the parent does not discover this until the child has passed the age for talking and then she realizes that something is wrong.

Of course, this is not always the case. One small boy in a family of three adoring sisters said little or nothing until past three years of age, chiefly because he had no need of a tongue. His every wish was gratified almost before he had time to wish it. Pampered children, the youngest of large families, frequently are late in talking just because they get everything they want without bothering to ask for it.

A latent mental development would, of course, be indicated by the child's inability to talk. I am sure you would find other signs of this in the child. If she is bright and alert and understands everything that is said to her, I should not worry too much about the late talking. If she does not understand you, or is heedless of what you say to her, when she is not looking, I should suspect deafness.

WATER PIMPLES

Mrs. R. F. P. writes: My 6-month-old baby has water pimples like styes on her eyelids. She has had three. They come a few weeks apart. What causes this? Should I see a doctor?

A.: A stye does not resemble a water pimple, rather it resembles a small boil. So your description baffles me. I think it would be wise to consult a doctor if she has any more of these. They may be due to something in the diet, too much of some element. Just what that is I can't even guess as you did not mention what you were feeding her.

PATOU STRESSES GREEK LINE

PARIS, (AP)—There is more than a hint of Greek draping in some of the winter models which Paris is praising.

Patou has a conspicuous example of flowing line in a dress for evening made of black chiffon. A berthas effect is attended into a scarf which hangs from the right shoulder in a long forward falling drapery. There is also a suggestion of drapery in the chiffon skirt which hangs much longer on the left side than it does on the right.

A jewel of aquamarine holds the scarf in place on the shoulder.

In almost all instances it is better to let the patient sleep when he can rather than weaken him to administer medicine.

SWISS STEAK

Select a two-pound steak from the upper round. See that it is cut one inch or one and one-half inches in thickness. Sear it on both sides in a hot skillet. Then remove to a platter and dust thickly with flour. Place in a casserole with a small piece of suet. Mix one chopped onion with one cupful of tomato. Season with salt and pepper and place this dressing over one-half the meat and fold the other half over. Add a very little water, renewing if necessary to keep it from burning, and cook very slowly two or three hours. Thicken the gravy, and serve from the casserole.

ROMAN CHICKEN

Cook half a pound of vermicelli and drain thoroughly. Spread upon a platter and cover with a highly seasoned tomato sauce. Shred the white and dark meat of a small cooked chicken into fibers no larger than a match and lay them upon the sauce. Cut four sticks of celery and a Bermuda onion very fine, season with salt, paprika, a dash of ginger, cloves and cinnamon (if desired,) and cook brown in a little butter. Spread over the chicken and put into the oven to get very hot. Moisten with a little chicken stock if needed and serve very hot.

SCALLOPED SWEET POTATOES

Boil the potatoes without peeling until half-done. Scrape off the skins while they are hot and leave them to get cold. Then cut into slices almost half an inch thick, and arrange in a buttered baking dish, scattering bits of butter and a little sugar (¼ teaspoonful to the layer) between them. When the dish is filled in this order, pour in a cupful of boiling water in which a tablespoonful of butter has been melted. Cover with bread crumbs—dry and fine—dot these with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cook, closely covered, for one hour until brown.

GRAPE JUICE

To one pint of grape juice add a tablespoon of granulated sugar and heat until [illegible]. Strain and seal. When ready to use, pour into glasses to within [illegible] inch of the top and fill the space with whipped cream. Turn into [illegible] cream.

TWO MENTIONED FOR RADIO POST

Successor to Col. Dillon on Board Discussed

B. H. Linden, O. R. Redfern Outstanding Figures

Each Regarded as Having High Qualifications

The death of Col. John F. Dillon, fifth district member of the Federal Radio Commission, leaves an important vacancy to be filled. His successor will hold office until the spring of 1929, as Col. Dillon's appointment was for two years. He must be a resident of one of the States within his district, which comprises Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Washington, Oregon, California, Territory of Hawaii and Alaska.

TWO MENTIONED

There are two outstanding figures in radio circles of the Pacific Coast who are regarded as having the requisite qualifications. One of these, Bernard H. Linden, is acting supervisor for the sixth radio district of the United States Department of Commerce, which comprises California, Utah, Arizona, Nevada and Hawaii. On Col. Dillon's appointment to the radio commission last March, under the radio law which became effective on February 23, Mr. Linden assumed his chief's former duties at the custombouse in San Francisco.

Since 1904 Linden has been actively associated with wireless and radio progress, first in amateur lines, then with the Marconi Company, the Radio Corporation of America, and since 1917 in governmental service.

ELECTRICAL EXPERT

The other possibility is O. R. Redfern, the present supervisor for the seventh district, with headquarters in Seattle. He is a graduate of the Mare Island naval electrical school, and installed the radio telegraph and telephone station at Sacramento, which became part of the naval exhibit at the California State Fair.

His experience includes work for the United Wireless Telegraph Company and the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company. Previous to the World War he was an assistant radio inspector for the Department of Commerce, from which he received leave of absence to later enter the Navy as an ensign (radio.)

The Department of Commerce radio districts, under the direct charge of supervisors, number nine, while the Federal Radio Commission members are five, one from each of the five zones into which the body divides the country for radio administrative purposes.

Youth in Crash Escapes by Ruse

Thomas Jefferson, son of the late Joseph Jefferson, who immortalized Rip Van Winkle, and himself an actor of parts, was outsmarted by an 11-year-old youth in an automobile collision in Hollywood yesterday.

The actor, now appearing in the films, was driving along Hollywood Boulevard when the youth struck the Jefferson car, crushing a fender and disarranging a bumper. The lad cheerfully gave his name and address. He said his name is Jack Wilson, son of H. E. Wilson, 993½ Larabee street, Sherman.

The star of "Lightnin'" ascertained the cost of repairs to his car and called on Mr. Wilson to make an adjustment. He found Mr. Wilson but learned the Wilson car had been stolen from a parking place some three days ago, that there is no Jack Wilson, in fact no son in the Wilson family.

NEWS OF THE CAFES

With the influx of collegians and high school students for the fall term, a full jazz band, under the leadership of Harry Judson, master of ceremonies, now furnishes music nightly for dancers in the Friar's Club, 216 North Western avenue, Los Angeles' newest cafe and supper club.

The fall term has brought the return of so many students who make the Friar's a rendezvous that Ward McFadden has augmented the terpsichorean facilities of the club by introducing a full band to take the place of the smaller dance orchestra that formerly held forth in the cafe.

Novel cabaret programs are conducted nightly in addition to the dancing from 6 p.m. until 3 a.m. for the entertainment of motion-picture stars, stage folk and others who foregather for late suppers and early breakfasts.

"SUPPER CLUB CAPERS"

"Supper Club Capers" is the revue now featuring the second week of the fall season in Antco's Cafe Diable, 6726 Hollywood Boulevard.

"Vernee," a novelty dancer who recently returned from a musical comedy tour abroad, is the star of the cast and other principals include Fiorine Shipley and Wendall Conklin, better known as "Luke and his Uke."

Antco, well-known cafe manager, announces capacity crowds at the cafe to take advantage of the dance music by the augmented Cafe Diable Orchestra during the luncheon hour.

FASHION SHOW TODAY

The second of the series of four fashion show promenades staged by the May Company in Brandstatter's Hollywood Montmartre Cafe will take place today at the matinee dansant. The performance will be repeated this evening during the dinner period.

Barbara Kent, featured film player and one of the thirteen Wampas baby stars of 1927, will be guest of honor for the occasion.

The semifinals in the series of dancing contests being held in the cafe will be one of the features of the evening program, which will also include several singing and dancing specialties.

CREOLE REVUE LIKED

One of the best shows ever presented to cafe patrons of Los Angeles is now being staged in Frank Sebastian's New Cotton Club in Culver City.

Mary Richards and Mildred Washington, with a cast of sixteen performers, are appearing in a Creole Revue of unusual excellence.

Dancing contests are held in the cafe on Friday nights and the guest of honor always is some person well known in the art world.

KANSANS MEET TOMORROW

Miss Mina Lou Morse, soloist, will sing at a Jayhawkers' meeting tomorrow night in Veterans' Hall, 940 South Hill street. Henry J. Brubaker will lead in community singing and the roll call of Kansas counties, the festivities concluding with dancing.

PLANE SEEN NECESSARY TO BUSINESS

Banker Predicts Time Nearing When Air Travel Will be Commonplace

The day is not as far distant as many now believe when the business man will feel as much at home in an airplane as he does in an automobile, Theodore T. Hull, vice-president of the Pan-American Bank and president of the American Aircraft Corporation, told members of the Downtown Business Men's Association at their annual banquet in the Chamber of Commerce Building last night.

Dr. Hull said he spoke from experience. He now flies his own plane and has made three transcontinental trips. He has been flying only two years. He recently completed a round-trip by plane to New York, accompanied by Mrs. Hull.

Robert D. Sangster, manager of the industrial department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, told the business men of the steady advancement being made here in industrial development and predicted that the increase in new plants and the expansion of those now here will continue in the future as they have since the World War. He said that before the war Los Angeles and Southern California gave little promise of the industrial development that has since taken place.

He said that a survey showed that Los Angeles and the metropolitan area had an industrial pay roll in 1925 of $1,200,000 and in 1926, $1,250,000.

George J. Eberle, speaking on the "Business Possibilities in Los Angeles," advised caution in planning business enterprises for the coming year.

The following new directors were announced:

Andrew Mullen, George Brock, Dwight Hart, O. B. Burdick, C. C. Colyear, Walter C. Day, H. W. Frank, E. J. Fleming, M. Gore, Calvin C. Green, W. L. Clack, Irving H. Helman, Grover I. Jacoby, H. R. Krohn, George L. Kyte, R. L. Leonard, E. W. Lewis, T. G. Lohrman, John Lopisich, H. F. Metcalf, Orrs E. Monnette, Clifton Peters, George Rice, Jr., E. L. Rogers, Dain Sturges, E. H. Uhl, Theodore J. Van De Kamp, J. G. Warren, F. E. Watts, P. E. Woods.

BOWL CHIEF SEEKS PACT ON ARTISTS

Brite Goes East to Deal for Co-operative Hiring of Concert Talent

Upon the eve of his departure yesterday on the steamship Manchuria, sailing for New York via the Panama Canal, Raymond Brite, general manager of the Hollywood Bowl, announced that while he is in New York he will confer with Arthur Judson, manager of the Lewishon Stadium and Mrs. Leonore Armsby, president of the San Mateo summer concerts. The purpose of this conference will be to attempt a co-operative arrangement whereby the greatest European conductors and soloists may be brought to America in the summertime for the Bowl, Stadium and San Mateo concerts at less cost to each than under the present arrangement where each organization contracts independently.

RAYMOND BRITE

Brite will combine business with pleasure on his trip. He will be gone about six weeks, returning to his desk early in December. During his absence, the Bowl offices will be kept open by Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish and Miss Kathryn Amos, secretary to Mr. Brite.

PARENT AND SON PATCH WILL FEUD

Kiss and Make Up While Court Awards Estate of $15,000 to Boy

Prospects of a life-long feud between mother and son over the will of the late Mrs. Edna Mays, mother and grandmother, respectively, of the two, vanished yesterday morning when the two kissed and became friends in Superior Judge Bush's court. The court ruled that Mrs. Mays was of sound mind when she put her mark on a will giving the son, Harry E. Cook, her $15,000 estate and leaving but $1 to his mother, Mrs. Ethel May Turnipseed of Atlanta, Ga.

The will was contested by Mrs. Turnipseed on the ground that Mrs. Mays was in a state of coma when the will giving her son the estate was drawn. Testimony on both sides became bitter, with neighbors and friends of both Cook and his grandmother giving evidence contradictory over the condition of the aged woman the week before she died.

Counsel for both sides took a conciliatory attitude toward each other when the case had reached a critical stage and the decision of the court apparently satisfied both parties, the will giving the estate to the son being admitted to probate and the mother withdrawing her action. It is understood the son will concede his mother an interest in the estate as the result of the resumption of affectionate relations between the two.

Wampas Star Free of Mate

Dorothy Revier, once a Wampas Baby Star, received a final decree of divorce yesterday from Harry Revier, motion-picture director.

Some time ago she admitted that she would wed Charles Schoen Johnson, clubman and former husband of Katherine McDonald, screen actress, when her divorce became final.

'CELLO GAINING IN POPULARITY

Furede Blazing New Music Trail in KHJ Work

Two Pianos Used in Playing Von Weber "Concerto"

Brahms "Hungarian Dance" Well Received

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

The late David Popper, eminent Bohemian 'cellist and composer of some of the most popular 'cello literature in the entire world of music, was well represented on the KHJ program last night with the weekly recital of Samuel Furede.

Mr. Furede, who has been heard in public recital a number of times within the past few months locally, leaves this week for a northern tour during which time he will play from some of the San Francisco Bay radio studios.

The importance of the 'cello for orchestral effects can not be overestimated, but its part as a solo instrument is not always realized. Mr. Furede has done much to educate the radio public to a higher appreciation of 'cello music and his broadcast of last night, with selections by Popper, Offenbach and others, was an admirable performance viewed from every possible angle.

TWO PIANOS USED

The evening radio recital also marked the studio appearance of Harold Smyth, Pasadena music teacher and well-known concert pianist. His renditions of the Leschetisky, "Two Larks," and Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C Sharp Minor," were faultlessly given with exquisite artistry and musicianship.

But perhaps the greatest interest was lent to the playing of Carl M. Von Weber's, "Concerto," which was played with two pianos, Mr. Smyth and Louise Miller, KHJ pianist, performed the number by the distinguished North German pianist-composer who was often called the founder of the romantic movement in German music.

This composition in all its brilliancy and distinctiveness was ode of the twenty numbers which Von Weber created for two pianos. The duo of piano artists left nothing to be desired in the presentation of the superb composition. The Fitzgerald Music Company, distributors for the Knabe, who which is used in the KHJ studio, also furnished a Franklin for the concert.

BRAHMS FEATURED

Violin duets were other features on the classic night at The Times radio studio. These were played by Olga Mitana and Roy Hellrigel, accompanied by Virgie Dugas. These talented young artists ought to feel considerably encouraged for they have consistently played fine programs since they first entertained at the studio several months ago. The favorable comments of the radio audience have been well earned.

Their duet numbers, as well as solo selections, includes numbers by Schubert, Korsakov and Keven. I think, however, that the audience found the high light of the violin entertainment in the Brahms "Hungarian Dance, No. 5.

In boyhood days there was a strong fascination held by Johannes Brahms for the odd rhythms and curious harmonies of the old Hungarian tunes, particularly in the friskas and the czardas. In later days he undertook a study of this type of music and gave the public during his lifetime some twenty-one Hungarian dances.

These folk melodies originated as the dance tunes of the gypsies and were usually in two distinct parts, the lassen, or slow movement, and this is ordinarily of a more or less melancholy strain, and the friska, which is a rapid, wild and impassioned dance. The initial movement is, of course, the lassen, and then the dance becomes animated with the advent of the friska, and at last the dancers slip back into the lassen for a rest.

POPULAR BARITONE

The vocal soloist on the all-star radio offering of the evening through KHJ was Ira D. Morgan, lyric baritone, with the sympathetic piano accompaniments by Agnes Ringheim. The song recital included Johnson's "Grey Days," Dickson's "Thanks be to God," the "Kerry Dance," "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride," "On the Road to Mandalay," and others of the semiclassic or ballad type.

There is a genuinely sympathetic and sincere ring in the tonal quality of Mr. Morgan's voice, which long ago stamped it is an outstanding voice in all of the ether realm. With rare diction and a pleasing inflection his presentation of songs has struck an unusually responsive chord in the heart of all those in the listening audience of the air.

Somehow or other, most of his numbers in the semimonthly radio recitals appeal to practically every class of listeners. The rollicking songs appeal to the young, the folk song to the old people, the spirituals to everyone, and everywhere there is a refreshing awakening to an appreciation for the ballad in songs.

OLD MADE NEW

In the years of public broadcast baritones have sung thousands of times "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride" and "On the Road to Mandalay," until hundreds of radio fans fervently wish that someone will furnish a horse and that the journey to Mandalay will be completed.

But it may well be said that Mr. Morgan's interpretation of older songs brings to them a new interpretation in which the accompaniment of Miss Ringheim is always a pleasing feature.

For the juvenile talent on the 6:30 broadcast in KHJ's studio there was Lois Jane Campbell, "Brown Eyes," with a couple of readings; the weekly program of the city playground department harmonica band; Marguerite Bringham with a little pianologue; Baby Jeannette James, talented 4-year-old reader; George Kerr, youthful mandolin player, and Gertrude Persky, young violinist, accompanied by Doris Werner.

Dealers Gather to Prepare for Show of Autos

Thirty-two Los Angeles automobile distributors and dealers met yesterday at luncheon at the Los Angeles Athletic Club and completed arrangements for participation in the Fourth Annual Automobile Salon in the Biltmore, starting the 19th inst. and continuing four days and evenings.

The salon will occupy about 25,000 feet of floor space in the ballroom, foyer and galleries. A great chart covering this space has been prepared and exhibitors drew to select positions for their cars.

Exhibitors are members of the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers' Association, which is sponsoring the exhibit.

As the result of the collapse of a large building in Cornhill, a thorough testing of buildings is in progress in London.

Actor Freed on Woman's Charge

At the request of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Frampton a complaint charging Fred Clarkston, actor, of 5319 Hollywood Boulevard, with embezzlement of $5000 from Mrs. Alice Smith of 2045 Claudina street was dismissed yesterday by Municipal Judge Baird.

Deputy Frampton declared that Mrs. Smith decided to drop prosecution. At the time the complaint was issued Mrs. Smith is asserted to have said she gave Clarkston funds to purchase a drug store for her, but that he appropriated the money to his personal use.

"BOHEME" HAS IDEAL QUALITY

Perfected Reading of Famed Score by Cimini

Chamlee and Macbeth Both Achieve Triumphs

Humor is Well Brought Out in Merrier Episodes

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

With Conductor Pietro Cimini giving lyric wings to the orchestra, and a generally adequate cast of principals, headed by Mario Chamlee and Florence Macbeth, "La Boheme," Puccini's popular and familiar romance of Latin-quarter life of Paris, offered lustrous evidence of the superior quality of the opera season last night at Shrine Auditorium. Memory does not suggest any production of this work more excellent in recent years. It was a new "La Boheme" that was presented.

My own personal anticipations were for anticlimax in this particular opera. The repertoire of the Los Angeles Association has been so unique and noteworthy to date that the prospect of hearing the more familiar works does not spell the same thrill of expectation that it might have had the sequence of productions been a little different. The better known being intermingled with the new, instead of coming all together toward the close.

Too, "La Boheme" brought before the audience again Mr. Chamlee and Miss Macbeth, who were identified with the unimpressive "Romeo and Juliet" opening, though the fault in this case lay in the choice of opera rather than of principals.

To the credit of Mr. Chamlee and Miss Macbeth it may be said that their accomplishments last evening redeemed any doubtful results that might have obtained at the opening. Chamlee especially was in fine voice and used all the more impassioned moments of the role of Rudolpho to his great advantage—never, however, to the detriment of a uniform dramatic and musical interest. His was a well-balanced and consistent interpretation and except for moments here and there evidence of most creditable singing. His rendition of "Mi Chiamano Mimi" was notable in its reserved warmth and the ovation that greeted it.

Both Chamlee and Miss Macbeth gained abundant applause following the first and the third acts, which belong musically to the characters of Rudolpho and Mimi. Chamlee won the largest demonstration, with cheers, whistles and bravos. Laurels were also distinctly awarded to Director Cimini, when he came before the curtain after the third act with the ensemble of singers.

Miss Macbeth is an eminently attractive Mimi, and in view of the many stout or Junoesque singers who essay this role, her very slight, delicate physique is sympathetically suited to the portrayal. She invoked the charm of the character and without overemphasis its pathos—almost child-like in the death scene, when with the realization of approaching tragedy she buried her head pitifully in the pillows of the couch improvised in Rudolpho's studio.

In the singing her voice appeared at times to waver. When this did not affect the pitch of the tone, the quality lent itself rather uncannily to the interpretation of the fragile little flower girl.

There were innumerable delicacies and shadings in Miss Macbeth's interpretation, incidentally, that brought out new beauties in the role. It is regrettable only that her voice is not always of a satisfying quality in the lyric moments. It seems deficient in tonal roundness in the middle and lower registers.

The festive Cafe Momus scene was very efficiently staged, though a trifle more of light would have enhanced. Lighting of the first scene during the quest for the key was also all wrong, no difference whatsoever being noted when the candles were blown out. Some time after ward the light was diminished. There is no excuse for this in an opera like "Boheme."

Despite that one must give praise for the ample ensemble of the Momus scene, and also the very clever tricks in adding to the pictorial glamour, it was to a degree wanting in dash and esprit. But its elaborations satisfied.

Great comedy were the first and final scenes—those in which Rudolph, Marcel, Shaunard and Colline as the four musketeers of the Montmartre, have their frolic. One of the funniest bits was where Colline and Shaunard fought their famous mock duel riding zestfully about on a couple of chairs, a la medieval tournament.

Millo Picco was the Marcel, Desire Defrere the Shaunard, and Ezio Pinza sang the famous Coat Song, which means that he was Colline. Lodovico Oliviero did double duty in the buffo roles of Benoit and Alcindoro.

The musetta of Katherine Seymour was more than attractive, and she wore a fetching costume in the second act. Her voice was light in the waltz song, and she did not catch its spirit satisfactorily, but she won approval for her general performance.

Primarily, I feel it was Cimini's evening. I have seldom heard the music of the third act played more discreetly or attractively by the orchestra, and the Addio was a number of sheer delicacy rarely equalled. The pauses, the contrasts, and the minutest phrasing of Cimini in this opera were notable. If there were some instances of too much volume, even these were not seriously detracting, and more than offset by the otherwise ideal perfection.

Burt Novel Is Screen Subject

The highly dramatic love drama laid against a background of the Swiss Alps, "Body and Soul," from the pen of Katherine Newlin Burt, published in book form as "The Branding Iron," has been remade into a colorful motion picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and will be shown at Loew's State Theater starting Friday.

As a novel it was read by millions and was translated into half a dozen languages. Reginald Barker, known for his direction of out-of-door pictures, directed "Body and Soul" and is said to have made it a dramatic story. The all-star cast includes Allen Pringle, Norman Kerry, Lionel Barrymore and T. Roy Barnes.

"BLONDS" AGAIN

Eugene Borden is the latest addition to the cast of featured players in the screen version of "Gentlemen Prefer Blonds," which Mal St. Clair is directing at the Paramount studios. Borden was selected from more than 300 screen tests for the role of Louis, the young Frenchman, who plays such an important part in the escapades of the two American girls, Lorelei and Dorothy.

LAUGHTER PREVAILS AT OPENING

"Two Arabian Knights" is Capital Comedy; Premiere Brings Throngs

BY MARQUIS BUSBY

If you have been to Arabia you'll smile.

If all you know of the Near East is gleaned from reading novels about sheiks, you'll laugh out loud—but not from the same reason.

"Two Arabian Knights," which had its world premiere showing at the Million Dollar Theater last night, is about as oriental as corn beef and cabbage. But then bona fide Arabian customs would probably be far less interesting than those pictured, and it's been a long time since a theater has echoed and re-echoed to such continuous laughter as last night.

The picture is literally one succession of amusing incidents.

It has been some months since Broadway has seen a premiere with bright lights, stars and the curious gathered to catch a glimpse of their favorites. Downtown made the most of the opportunity. It was almost impossible to get into the Million Dollar last night.

John Barrymore was master of ceremonies and introduced the stars of the production to the audience.

If there must be still further comedies involving the amusing exploits of doughboys during and after the war by all means send the leading characters to the Orient. There they will find new and novel situations. There is nothing hackneyed about "Two Arabian Knights," or in Lewis Milestone's direction.

In the picture Louis Wolheim, as one of the doughboys, stands revealed as a comedy star of the first rank. William Boyd adds new laurels as the pal, but then his opportunities are more limited. Mary Astor is exquisite as Anis, the Arabian princess.

Little time is wasted by introducing characters and getting into action of the plot. The story begins with a fight between a lowly private and his sergeant. In the midst of the fray the two are captured by a German scouting party and taken to a prison camp.

The two doughboys finally escape from the prison camp in as thrilling a get-away as the screen has pictured recently, only to find themselves in the midst of a band of Arabians being returned to their native country.

They again escape to a boat bound for the Orient, and here they meet the Princess. The attempts of the two soldiers to attract the princess are very funny, Wolheim, the less handsome always being at a disadvantage.

It is in the luxurious home of the Arabian Princess that the plot reaches its denouement—thrilling enough but rather flimsy, one feels.

There are any number of laughable incidents in the picture deserving of mention. Some of them, alas, are owing to worry censors gray-headed in certain states.

Always just a step ahead of the spectator, the plot is full of surprises. The expected doesn't happen until the very end. Of course Boyd, the handsome soldier, escapes with the Princess.

After the trio of characters leave the steamer for an Arabian palace interest lags a bit. It wouldn't hurt to prune out some footage.

Wolheim is immense as Sergt. Peter McGaffney. His facial expressions—rage, surprise, love need no subtitles to explain them. Boyd takes another step forward in his characterization of the happy-go-lucky doughboy. Mary Astor has chance to do little other than look ravishingly beautiful and wear a number of lovely costumes.

In the supporting roles Ian Keith is picturesque as the Arabian lover of the princess. Michael Visaroff is a villainous looking sea captain, and Michael Vavitch, a good actor, has a very small role as the prince.

Lewis Milestone is a director of ability in broad comedy of this type. At least he has succeeded in giving the screen a much needed novelty.

But, to repeat, "Two Arabian Knights" is not very Arabian.

Wallace Smith adapted the story.

Leo F. Forbstein interprets with feeling the music of Chopin during the screen short subject, "Frederic Chopin." Telling the tragic romance of the composer for George Sand, the colorful woman writer, the picture is intensely interesting.

FAIRBANKS SPECTACLE IS BOOKED

"The Gaucho" Contracted for by Grauman; to Open at Chinese

Definitely ending all speculation as to the next Grauman presentation, Sid Grauman announces that Douglas Fairbanks's "The Gaucho" is to follow "The King of Kings" into Grauman's Chinese Theater.

While no definite date is announced for the opening, the Cecil B. De Mille production of the life of Christ is scheduled to end its run on the 30th inst., and the Fairbanks spectacle of the Argentine will be introduced a very few days thereafter.

Graumen has plunged into the monumental task of personally supervising preparations for the premiere to introduce "The Gaucho" following his return Monday from a four weeks' sojourn in the East, where final negotiations were made to book the United Artists picture.

Although as yet his detailed plans are not revealed, the theater magnate is said to have outlined an elaborate prologue spectacle of the pampas, totally different from any previous of his efforts.

He plans to make the forthcoming premiere, the second to be staged in the Chinese, surpass in novel features even the dedication of the orate playhouse with the opening of "The King of Kings."

Stone Plays in Sills Picture

Arthur Stone has returned with his bride from their combined honeymoon-location trip among the big trees of Humboldt county, California. The couple left the day after their wedding in August, with the Milton Sills company to film scenes for "The Valley of the Giants," in which Stone plays a comedy supporting role. Mrs. Stone, the former Dorothy Westmore, does not appear in the picture.

While Stone is making the current picture with Milton Sills, the comedian will be seen in one with the same star at the West Coast Boulevard beginning Friday. This is "Hard-Boiled Haggerty," in which Sills appears as a hard-hitting war aviator, and Stone as his devoted buddy.

KANE SIGNS LEADS FOR PICTURE

Lois Wilson, H. B. Warner, Leads in "French Dressing;" Ricardo Cortez Goes to Europe for French Picture; Sally Blane Signs Contract With Paramount

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

When Robert Kane set himself about the job of selecting players for his first First National production,

LOIS WILSON

"French Dressing," he evidently made up his mind to treat himself to the very best cast that money could buy.

So what more reasonable than that he should sign up Lois Wilson and H. B. Warner for the leading roles? And that is exactly what he has done.

Lois Wilson's admirers will be happy to know that she will have some excellent acting opportunities in "French Dressing." Miss Wilson has just completed her starring role in "Coney Island," the Ralph Ince production for F.B.O.

An outstanding cast of players will support the leads. Lilyan Tashman and Clive Brook head the supporting members. Allan Dwan is directing the picture, as everybody knows, and I understand the first shots were fired yesterday. Adelaide Heilbroun wrote the original story, with screen treatment by J. L. Campbell.

Mr. Kane evidently admires Miss Wilson's work, as this is her third picture with him. She played the lead, you remember, in "Bluebeard's Seven Wives" and in "Broadway Nights" when he was producing in New York.

The producer originally planned to make the exteriors of "French Dressing" in Paris, and in fact he made a trip to France this summer, even going so far as to pick out locations. However, he changed his mind for some reason or other, and the picture will all be filmed in California.

H. B. Warner was loaned to Kane by Cecil B. De Mille, to whom Warner is under contract.

Ricardo Cortez to Europe

Two famous names, both so famous indeed that I hardly know which to print first, are at this very moment reposing on passports to Europe, with their owners making hasty preparations for a trip. A third well-known name may be added to the party. The names are Ricardo Cortez, Alma Rubens and Winifred Hart, and I decided to put Cortez's name first only because he is going to work over there. His wife, Miss Rubens, is merely going to enjoy herself.

RICARDO CORTEZ

Cortez has been engaged by Leonce Perret, French producer, for a star role in a picture to be produced in Paris and Berlin. So that the actor and his wife will have a nice long trip. They expect to be gone two months.

"I have an offer to work over there," said Miss Rubens yesterday, "but I don't want to work abroad. I want to travel and study and enjoy myself."

The pair will leave on Saturday of this week for New York, whence they sail soon after for the other side.

Winifred Hart, known formerly as Mrs. William S. Hart, recently divorced from the two-gun man of many famous pictures, may accompany Ricardo and his wife. She likewise has an offer to play in an European picture, but she has not yet decided. She has, however, applied for her passport. In case she goes, she will leave her small son, Bill Hart, Jr., in charge of her mother and the child's tutor.

Paramount Keeps Sally Blane

That lucky child, Sally Blane, has been signed to a new contract by Paramount, according to the announcement made yesterday by B. F. Schulberg.

SALLY BLANE

The young and pretty Miss Blane, who has three sisters, all in pictures, of whom perhaps the best known is Loretta Young of First National, danced her way into the movies about a year ago. Her skilled terpsichorean efforts on the floor of a Hollywood supper club caught the eagle eye of a Paramount executive, who arranged a screen test, which was followed by a contract.

Sally's first screen chore was as a sextet girl in the Wallace Beery picture, "Casey at the Bat," which was followed by a role as leading woman to Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in "Now We're in Dutch." She did so well with all of these parts that she was given the lead opposite Jack Luden in the western picture, "Shootin' Irons," which only increased the enthusiasm of studio officials for her possibilities.

Dempseys Returning

Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor, the ex-champ's wife, will come back to Hollywood on Friday, I learned yesterday. They have stopped off in Salt Lake City to visit Jack's relatives there.

Miss Taylor has received a number of picture offers, and when she comes home she will doubtless make up her mind which one she will accept.

John Clayton Poole's Act

John Clayton Poole has little time to run around and work up form on the game that is a double for his last name. He is shaping up a revue which if being shown in the Carlton Theater this week.

Later the act will have a tryout for the Pantages time. The revue consists of some beautifully staged dances and musical numbers.

BROKER HELD IN TRAFFIC CRASH

Wilford Claire in Santa Ana Jail Cell

Detained Pending Outcome of Injuries to Boy

Said to Have Been Drinking and Speeding

SANTA ANA, Oct. 11.—Wilford Claire, 35 years of age, residing at 8536 Utah street, San Diego, bond broker, was held in the County Jail today on a charge of being drunk, which may be changed to murder should Gordon Webster, 17-year-old Modesta boy, die from injuries received when Claire's car turned turtle at Capistrano Beach last night.

Webster is said to be in a critical condition at the Santa Ana Valley Hospital. He suffered a very dangerous fracture of the skull in the wreck, which took place at 10 p.m., at the point where the State highway crosses the Santa Fe Railroad track at Capistrano Beach.

According to information given the Sheriff's office, Claire was traveling at high speed and was apparently under the influence of liquor. He had wrecked the car occupied by young Webster and a companion, Harry Haas, 15, of Modesto, and was taking the two boys to San Diego with him when the crash occurred.

Haas is said to have told officers that he and Webster were on their way in a light car from Modesto to San Diego for a hunting trip, and that Claire's car struck them near El Toro, putting it out of commission.

"Come with us. I will take you to San Diego and buy you a better car than you ever saw," Claire told the boys, with a magnificent gesture, Haas told the officers. So Webster and Haas continued their journey with Claire, who drove at terrific speed, according to Haas.

At the Capistrano Beach railroad crossing, the car bounced off the pavement and Claire lost control. The machine rolled into the ditch crushing Webster's head. Haas was slightly hurt and received first aid treatment at San Juan Capistrano. Claire also received minor injuries. He was taken into custody by Ben Craig and George Peterkin, traffic officers.

Kern Grand Jury to Investigate Series of Fires

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 11.—Allegations pro and con on charges of an arson ring in this county will probably be investigated by the grand jury which was called into session today by its foreman, A. W. Marion, former justice of the peace.

Ray Bailey, the District Attorney, was called before the grand jury and spent most of the day closeted with the investigation body.

No authoritative information was released by the grand jury, but it is assumed that its foreman, Mr. Marion, will study the matter of alleged incendiarism in this county until the truth is discovered.

The grand jury now in session was impaneled by Judge Erwin W. Owen, presiding judge of the Superior Court. The jury was not in session during the summer months.

THREAT CHARGES TO BE GIVEN TO JURORS

UPLAND, Oct. 11.—O. S. Herrara's charges that Nicolas Mazzola, East Eighth-street rancher, threatened him with a gun, will be aired by a jury at some future date as the result of Mazzola's emphatic denial yesterday in Judge George R. Crane's court that he flourished the weapon. Mazzola entered a plea of not guilty and demanded a trial by jury. Herrara's story is that he went to the Mazzola ranch to make inquiries concerning the whereabouts of a friend. He said he was talking to Mazzola's mother when the defendant appeared and drew a weapon on him, ordering him from the place.

Woman Sues to Cancel Note in Fur Farms Deal

SANTA ANA, Oct. 11.—Alleging that she was induced by fraudulent representations to invest $10,000 in the Golden West Fur Farms, and to give a note for that amount, secured by a mortgage upon property in San Diego, Mrs. Margaret Josephine Isham, formerly Mrs. Margaret Leach, today filed suit in the Superior Court against the First National Bank of Garden Grove, Edward T. Griffith, Marcellus W. Meek, George U. Carter and John A. Harvey, to cancel the mortgage and note and to cover $10,000 damages.

Griffith, Meek, Carter and Harvey, she declares, induced her to make the investment by assuring her that she would receive $200 per month as dividends, and promised her a salary of $200 per month as representative of the company in Oakland, where they said they were going to open a branch.

There was no intention to open an Oakland branch; no salary and no dividends, she claims. On the other hand, she alleges, the company was at the edge of bankruptcy. Griffith is now owner of the note, she alleges, though the note has been assigned to the Garden Grove bank. Mrs. Isham declares the transfer was made without consideration.

Attorneys Russell Pray and O. E. Farnham of Long Beach represent Mrs. Isham.

Bell to Elect to Break Tie on Council Ballot

BELL, Oct. 11.—A special election is to be held in this city on account of the result of the incorporation as a city election, which was held two weeks ago, in which George Corby and Roscoe Bowers each received 461 votes as fifth member of the Council. There was a field of ten candidates, and four of theme were elected, with a tie for fifth place. The Board of County Supervisors has set November 8 as the date for the special election, when a fifth member of the Council will be chosen by the voters.

It was thought that the newly elected Council, after organizing, could select the fifth member, but it is understood that the Council is divided on a choice.

The proceedings for a city of the sixth class will not be completed until after the special election is held, it is stated.

PLANS APPROVED FOR NEW SIDEWALKS

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 11.—Plans and specifications for construction of twelve blocks of sidewalks and curbs in East Bakersfield were approved last night by the City Council during the shortest session of the year. The plans call for sidewalks and curbs on both sides of King street from Jackson street to Bernard street, the northern city limits. The Council action was taken after all previous proceedings calling for the same improvements from Kentucky to Bernard streets had been abandoned. A resolution of intention to ditch the new work also was passed unanimously. Only two other items of business were transacted during the ten minutes' Council session. Upon recommendations from City Manager James Ogden and Mayor L. K. Stoner, the Council "placed on file" without action a communication from Attorney E. A. Klein, who urged passage of an ordinance regulating the hours for selling meat in the city of Bakersfield.

POLICEMAN LOANS CAPITAL FOR FINE

GLENDALE, Oct. 11.—Capt. W. A. Loving of the local police department played the good samaritan today when he loaned $15 to Robert P. Boyce, 122-A South Brand Boulevard, to pay a fine for speeding. In consequence, Boyce walked out of police headquarters in a much happier mood than he had entered. Boyce said he had just been discharged from the Navy. He explained that he could pay the fine if given a day, but that he did not have any money with him.

SAN DIEGO WILL GET AID SQUAD

Indications Rockwell Field to be Restored

Pursuit Planes Ordered for Ninety-fifth Unit

Removal of Dirigible Mooring Mast Requested

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 11. (AP)—Indications that the War Department definitely has decided to restore Rockwell Field to its prewar and wartime status as a great military aviation post, were seen in orders from Washington today assigning sixty-two modern pursuit planes as the nucleus of the flying equipment for the Ninety-fifth Pursuit Squadron, one of three units of the Seventh Pursuit Group, which is to be permanently based at the local airport, effective June 1, 1928.

Simultaneous with the announcement that organization of the Ninety-fifth squadron will be started within the next two months, the War Department has politely requested the Navy to remove its dirigible mooring mast from the western end of North Island.

Maj.-Gen. Mason Patrick, chief of the Army Air Corps, is reported to have asked the removal of the mooring mast because the structure will interfere seriously with the flight movements of the large number of pursuit planes, which are to be based at Rockwell Field. The mast was erected on army territory several years ago and was used only once by the dirigible Shenandoah. The Army considers it a useless item of equipment in view of the present status of the lighter-than-air field of the Navy.

The commissioned and enlisted personnel of Rockwell Field after June 1, next, will equal that of wartime days, it was revealed today.

The army air post will have forty-nine Regular officers, thirty-three reserve officers, 603 enlisted men, exclusive of the officers and men detailed to the medical and quartermaster detachments. Together with the civilian personnel working in the shops the total strength of Rockwell Field will exceed 1000.

The first two units to be based at Rockwell will be the Ninety-fifth Pursuit Squadron and the Eleventh Bombardment Squadron. In 1929 the bombardment squadron will be transferred to March Field, Riverside, which is to be converted into a permanent bombardment group base after enough cadets have been trained there to complete the commissioned complements of the authorized air units under the five-year aviation program.

Monte Vista to Vote on Water District Board

MONTE VISTA, Oct. 11.—San Bernardino Board of Supervisors yesterday set November 10 as the day for electing new directors for the water district, which recently was organized here.

During the summer Monte Vista district voted 125 to 3 in favor of forming the water district. The November 10 election is the next step in the program for securing an adequate water supply for the district bounded by the western city limits of Ontario, the eastern limits of Pomona, the north line of Chico Rancho and the Santa Fe Railway right of way.

Following election of directors, the third and final ballot in the district will be for bonds to finance the water system, which it is estimated will cost $60,000.

Monte Vista has long been confronted with the problem of more water. The fire hazard has been high due to low water pressure and limited supply. To overcome this situation property owners voted to organize their own district. An experienced engineer was employed to survey the district. His recommendation was practically unanimously approved.

ITEMIZED BILL RENDERED

Soap, Water, Use of Sponge and "Elbow Grease" Priced in Effort of Pasadena School Board to Satisfy County Superintendent

PASADENA, Oct. 11.—County Superintendent of Schools Mark Keppel is a hard man to satisfy, according to the Pasadena Board of Education. But the board does its best.

Business Manager Lehrbach recently forwarded a bill to Keppel from F. B. Cole, who operates a string of service stations and who was formerly chairman of the Board of City Directors here. The bill was for cleaning one of the school board's cars, and read:

"For steam cleaning of motor and chassis and washing body of car, order No. 3784, $4.50."

Keppel refused to pay it for the local board, saying the bill should have been itemized. Cole was so informed, and produced this:

"Materials: Nonalkali soap (green,) 8 cents; L. L. gas for making steam, 23 cents; kerosene No. 1-a white, 4 cents; use of chamois and cloths, 15 cents; use of sponges, 3 cents; fifty gallons city water (Villa reservoir,) 50 cents; bone labor, two colored men manipulating hose and tools, $3.47; total, $4.50.

"Labor estimated: 175 strokes to the right, 126 strokes to the left, 104 strokes circular, 300 jabs, direction not noted; no estimated profit or charge for typewriter."

Keppel paid the bill.

PIONEER CELEBRATES

F. M. Wright of San Fernando, 86 Years of Age, One of First to See Possibilities of Valley

SAN FERNANDO, Oct. 11.—F. M. Wright, one of the pioneers of the San Fernando Valley, observed his eighty-sixth birthday anniversary Monday. Mr. Wright was the guest of honor at a dinner party given in Memory Gardens by Mrs. Wright Monday evening.

For fifty-one years Mr. Wright has lived in the valley, coming here in September, 1875. He was one of the first to see the vast possibilities in the San Fernando Valley and was a tireless worker in behalf of the valley's development.

Mr. Wright and Col. H. C. Hubbard formed a partnership more than half a century ago. During the years of their active partnership the two men held a common purse and their checks were all issued in the name of Hubbard and Wright and no partnership papers were ever drawn up between them, their friendship and faith in each other being sufficient. The partners' first ranch was called the Homestake and was situated one and one-half miles south of the mission. "While they were living on this ranch," an article in a local paper states, "they decided to put down a well as they had to bring all their water from the town of San Fernando, three miles away. When the well was half-completed Wright, because of cave-ins, refused to go down in the well. Hubbard said there wasn't a particle of danger and to prove it went down. Wright's team in the meantime ran away and he went after it, leaving Hubbard in the well. As predicted, there was a slide of earth. Hubbard called again and again for the rope. No one answered. When Wright finally returned he looked into the well and saw that something was wrong. When Hubbard stopped for breath Wright told him he wouldn't send the bucket down until he cooled off. The well was never completed."

In 1880 the partners leased the Paxton ranch, where they remained until 1887, when they purchased the Hawk ranch of 1100 acres. This they owned until 1910, when it was sold to be divided into the town of Zelzah.

Col. Hubbard celebrated his eighty-third birthday a few weeks ago. Both Mr. Wright and Col. Hubbard take an active interest in present-day affairs and Mr. Wright is an ardent motorist as well as an excellent bridge player.

Wah, who is partner in a store here, says he has no notice yet of the decision but has no alternative but to sell out his business here and at Bakersfield and return to China.

HOST AND SON GIVEN LIQUOR SENTENCES

ARMONA, Oct. 11.—A six-months' jail sentence to the host, S. E. Wright, for possession, a fine of $100 to the son, Don L. Wright, who brought in the liquor, for transporting, and discharge of J. Andrews, George Wilson and A. H. Crawford, guests, was the net result of a raid on a party with liquid refreshments at the Wright home here Sunday. As Wright senior had a small daughter to support, commitment was withheld.

Dry Sleuth's Nose Leads Him to Big Winery

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 11.—How his nose led him to uncovering one of the biggest illegally operated wineries around here in months was related today by Col. Leo Strome, prohibition agent. Last night, he said, he and Prohibition Agent Paul Holland started on a tour around the city with the avowed purpose of employing the use of all five senses in stirring up something.

Within two blocks of an Indiastreet house the colonel's nose began to sniff, he said. He and Holland sniffed their way down the street, trailing the odor of wine in the making. They entered the house where the odor seemed the strongest, and in the basement found the following, he said: One 500-gallon vat with mash in it; one press, one hogshead with a capacity for 250 gallons; eight fifty-gallon barrels, and a quantity of other equipment incident to the making of whisky.

Augustine Camillia and Augustine Zolezza, said to have been operating the winery, were taken into custody and today were arraigned before United States Commissioner Henry C. Ryan, who set their bonds at $1000 each.

Funeral Service for R. J. Baird

VAN NUYS, Oct. 11.—One of the largest funeral services ever conducted in Van Nuys took place this afternoon at the Van Nuys Presbyterian Church over the body of Robert J. Baird, pioneer business man and officer in the Southern California presbytery. Following the services the body was conveyed to Mountain View Cemetery, Pasadena, for interment.

Mr. Baird was instantly killed in an automobile accident last Friday when the touring car he was driving was struck by a Pacific Electric car at Chandler Boulevard and Pacoima avenue, between here and North Hollywood. Pastors of all the Van Nuys churches took part in the funeral ceremonies, the sermon being delivered by Dr. David Farguahrson, Mr. Baird's pastor.

A eulogy was given by E. I. Edwards, president of the Van Nuys Kiwanis Club, the club members having attended in a body. Mr. Baird was the first president of the local club and one of the organizers several years ago. A troop of Boy Scouts also attended. Mr. Baird, as a part of his religious and civic activities, was one of the organizers of the Boy Scout movement in San Fernando Valley.

He was as well known in the valley as he was in Van Nuys. Many prominent citizens from the various cities in the valley attended the funeral.

JURY FREES BOY OF DELINQUENCY CHARGE

CORCORAN, Oct. 11.—A jury on which there were two women, after about fifteen minutes deliberation in the Superior Court today acquitted Fortunato Macias, a young Mexican, charged with contributing to the delinquency of 15-year-old Mary Perry of Corcoran, with whom he eloped last July to Willows, where, refused a license, they lived as man and wife until the arrest of Macias about six weeks ago on a charge of child stealing. This was subsequently reduced to contributing to the delinquency of a minor, as the girl said she went willingly and declared that she will marry Macias as soon as she can get a license.

SANTA PAULA LOSES ITS ONLY HOSPITAL

SANTA PAULA, Oct. 11.—Eastern Ventura county will lose the only hospital within thirty miles, when Santa Paula's Cottage Hospital closes its doors on Saturday. The Cottage Hospital here has been a private institution, run for many years at a slight deficit by the doctor in charge, but since his death his widow does not feel that she can keep the hospital and consequently is closing it on the 15th inst. A committee from the local Chamber of Commerce is investigating the idea and it is hoped by the many people living east of Santa Paula that a hospital will be built here to tage its place.

PASADENA CITY BOARD IN ROW

First Friction Reported in Newly Elected Body

Split Over Building of New Municipal Auditorium

Proposal for Raising Funds Not Considered

PASADENA, Oct. 11.—City Director Shupe's proposal that the city build the proposed municipal auditorium and rehabilitate the municipal golf course through money to be realized from the sale of fourteen parcels of city-owned land was presented at the regular meeting of the Board of Directors today, but the Directors refused even to consider it.

Their indifference to his motion so provoked Shupe that a sharp exchange of words followed, breaking for the first time the harmony that has characterized board meetings since the election of seven new Directors last spring.

The main reason why the board refused to consider the plan appeared to be that Shupe had not first presented it to his colleagues in the secret session which is held before every regular board meeting.

Shupe has a carefully worked-out plan which would provide plenty of money for the two building projects, which are strongly favored by the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations. He explained it in detail at a recent meeting of prominent citizens.

He made the motion that the plan be carried out today, and was seconded by Director Monroe. This met with no response, so that he moved the plan be taken under advisement. Chairman Taylor outlawed this motion on a technical parliamentary point.

"To forestall this motion because of trivial parliamentary niceties is about the smallest thing I've seen," Shupe declared hotly. He threatened to cause a general public election on the question if blocked further by the board, after a futile argument with the chairman.

Increases in membership and scope of activities were reported by committee chairmen who addressed the delegates today. There are now nearly 2000 delegates in attendance. The encampment closes Friday night.

BODY OF YOUTHFUL HUSBAND SENT HOME

TULARE, Oct. 11.—Remains of Louis Kearns, 20 years of age, who met a tragic death in an automobile crash on the State Highway near the Tagus ranch last week has been sent from the Rice undertaking parlors here to Portland, Or., for interment. The widow, a bride of only a week when her husband was killed, her sister, and Maurice Kearns, brother of the deceased, all of whom were injured when their car collided with an oil truck, are still confined in Tulare Hospital. While improving, they were unable to accompany the body to the northern city.

PROBATION FREES CONVICTED THIEVES

TULARE, Oct. 11.—Lap robes come high in Tulare county, especially if acquired in a dishonest manner. Mr. and Mrs. Leah Hammer were sentenced to fifty days in the Tulare County Jail by Police Judge H. C. Cross of Tulare, following their plea of guilty to a charge of theft of a lap robe. The sentence was then suspended by the judge. The couple were arrested after their alleged removal of a robe from the car of S. D. Galbraith, parked in the business district. Ned Bower, secretary of the Tulare county traffic office, apprehended them in the Paza Garage and notified police officers.

SHERMAN WAY PAVING

RESEDA, Oct. 11.—The George R. Curtis Paving Company is the low bidder, at $208,163, for the improvement of the south side of Sherman Way, between Van Nuys and the western limits of Owensmouth, a distance of about six miles. The contract will be awarded as soon as the bids are checked over. There were seven other firms who bid on the work.

Patients Said Able to Pay Get Free Operations

REDLANDS, Oct. 11.—That patients have been going to the County Hospital and getting free operations and free medical attention when perfectly able to pay for it and that the taxpayers of the county have paid, instead, was the statement presented before the Board of Supervisors of the county by a medical society committee, which may result in a change of policy at the hospital.

The rule has been that only paupers can be admitted to the hospital but it is said to be flagrantly abused and people are being admitted who are perfectly able to pay. The Supervisors accepted a recommendation from the medical society that a committee of eight be appointed to study the entire situation and made a recommendation although it was apparent that the Supervisors will not continue to operate the hospital on the present basis.

Of this committee two are Redlands physicians. The committee is made up as follows: Dr. G. G. Mosely, president of the society of Redlands; Dr. C. L. Curtiss, Redlands; Dr. C. G. Hilliard, Redlands; Dr. F. M. Gardner; Dr. R. S. Gibbs, Dr. A. C. Ambler of San Bernardino, Dr. F. H. Pritchard, Dr. Walter F. Pritchard, Dr. C. F. Whitmer of Colton and Dr. F. F. Abbot of Ontario.

Opinions Differ on Death Cause of Navy Worker

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 11.—An opinion that Demetrio De La Cruz, mess attendant on the U.S.S. Yarborough, committed suicide and was not murdered, was expressed at police headquarters today.

The body of De La Cruz, with two bullet holes through the left breast, one of them piercing the heart, was found at the side of a road in Balboa Park at midnight Sunday. A gun was lying in his hand and an empty shell was beside him on the ground.

Investigation by police revealed the fact that De La Cruz purchased the gun himself, the weapon being delivered Sunday night. The pawnbroker who sold the revolver also gave De La Cruz three shells from a broken box of ammunition.

Although the new theory is one of suicide, there are several facts, it is said, which have not been completely explained. One of these is the fact that the dead man's left cuff is powder burned as if he tried to ward off a weapon held against him.

An autopsy was performed today by Dr. John J. Shea and Coroner Schuyler Kelly will hold an inquest later.

TICKETS SELLING FOR CONCERTS AT TULARE

TULARE, Oct. 11.—The campaign to sell sufficient tickets to assure success of a series of musical concerts to be given in Tulare this fall and winter, establishing a sound financial foundation for the newly organized Tulare County Music Club, has practically gone over the top, according to report. Good sales have been reported in Tulare, Visalia, Porterville, Lindsay and Exeter and members are concentrating on further efforts here. Leaders believe the end of the week will find enough tickets sold to provide the guarantee required to bring the famous artists here.

ORANGE GROWERS PAID

Nearly Quarter-Million Dollars Sent Out by Olive Heights Citrus Association

ORANGE, Oct. 11.—Nearly a quarter of a million dollars were being forwarded to growers affiliated with the Olive Heights Citrus Association today, as net returns for the third Valencia pool of the association, it was announced today by Ben H. Cole, manager.

The pool, the largest yet paid out by the Olive plant, ran from July 12 to August 29. A total of 153 cars was contained in the shipments.

The checks, which were in the mails today, totaled $245,609.75, bringing the total receipts for the first three pools to $539,278.48 net to the growers.

Cole announced that the pool just being paid out will probably be the largest of the season both from the standpoint of returns and shipments.

The plant has just closed its fourth pool, which is to be paid out within the next few weeks. The pool contained seventy-five cars. Work is now under way on the fifth or cleanup pool, which is expected to contain approximately thirty-five cars.

The Olive association expects to wind up its season about October 25. With 408 cars shipped in the first three pools, Cole predicted that a total of more than 500 cars would be shipped before the season closes, establishing a new record in the plant's history. The total returns are also expected to be the largest in the association's history.

FATALITIES INVESTIGATED

Inquest Into Three Deaths at Bakersfield Fails to Place Blame for Any of Them

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 11.—Coroner's inquests into the deaths of three victims of Kern county automobile accidents were conducted today by Coroner N. C. Housee. Verdicts of accidental death were returned at the inquests of Mrs. Anna Zinnecher, 40 years of age, of Randsburg; John Santes, 16, of Rhode Island, and an unidentified 65-year-old man.

The jury found that Mrs. Zinnecher came to her death from a fractured skull and broken neck when she fell from an automobile near Randsburg last Friday. Funeral services for the Randsburg woman were conducted this afternoon at Sawtelle.

A basal fracture of the skull was found responsible for death by a jury hearing evidence in the John Santes inquest. The 16-year-old boy, together with a companion, was struck and fatally injured the 5th inst. on the Golden State Highway, near Famosa. He died last Friday at a local hospital. News of his death has been sent to his mother, Mrs. Mary Santes of Providence, R. I., and it is probable the body will be forwarded there.

Attempts still are being made to learn the identity of the 65-year-old man who was killed by an automobile while walking on the highway five miles south of here Saturday night. The jury accredited death to concussion of the brain. Funeral arrangements are being held in abeyance, pending an attempt to find friends or relatives of the dead man.

GALA PREMIERE IS SCHEDULED

"The Gingham Girl" First Showing at Tower

New Theater is Unique and Beautiful

Most Expensive of Size in Country

Marking a new milestone in the progress of Los Angeles toward the rank of first theatrical city in the world, the new Tower Theater, one of the first in America to be built exclusively as a motion-picture house, will be formally opened this evening with a premiere showing of Lois Wilson in "The Gingham Girl."

The opening will be an auspicious occasion. Not only will there be all the celebration incidental to the western premiere of a feature picture of first rank, not to mention the first downtown showing of the Vitaphone, but the dedication of the theater building itself assumes proportions of importance.

The Tower Theater represents the dreams and the ideals of its builder and owner, H. L. Gumbiner.

It is a picture theater only. No provision has been made for stage entertainment of any kind, other than that which may come under the head of such as the Vitaphone.

It is a small theater, seats but 1000, although it occupies space at Eighth and Broadway, in the heart of downtown Los Angeles.

However, there are to be found within its doors every possible convenience for patrons. Many of its features are complete innovations in theater construction, for example, a nursery room for children, furnished with a sand pile and toys, a room for mothers known as the "cry room," where from behind soundproof glass mothers may watch the picture feature knowing that if the children cry no member of the audience will be disturbed.

FRENCH RENAISSANCE

S. Charles Lee, architect responsible for the design of the theater, has drawn from the French Renaissance, an undeniable feeling of beauty, luxury and charm, which characterizes not only the interior of the building with its long, slender and gracefully designed auditorium, but the spired exterior.

He has combined lavish ornamentation in his decoration with an exquisite blending of color and nicety of detail until the result is one of unusual appeal.

IMPORTED MARBLES

The Palace of Versailles has furnished inspiration for many of the bits of art found here in tapestries and paintings. The marbles found in both auditorium and lobby have, many of them, been imported from Italy and France, with Alaskan and Vermont quarries furnishing others.

The entrance lobby, by which one enters the auditorium proper, is of striking design. There are huge Corinthian columns flanking a white marble stairway, leading to the balcony promenade. Walls are paneled in imported marble.

A huge chandelier which hangs from the center of the ceiling is fashioned of crystal, marble and bronze and said to represent a single expenditure of $5000. It utilizes more than 400 light bulbs and is one of the most distinctive and effective of features.

LOUNGE ROOM

One of the most distinctive rooms of the building is the lounge room in which wall panelings are of walnut, with a large center table of inlaid walnut, declared to cost $1000 in itself. In this lounge room may be heard the strains of the large Wurlitzer organ of the theater, music carried thence from the main auditorium by special radio broadcasting device.

"Weather" in the theater is to be "manufactured" by one of the most up-to-date scientific methods, with a uniform temperature of 70 deg. insisted upon at all times.

MUSICAL COMEDY

"The Gingham Girl," starring Lois Wilson and George K. Arthur, will have its western premiere when it opens at the new theater tonight. The film is an adaptation of the musical comedy of "The Gingham Girl" which was written by Daniel Kusell and ran on Broadway for over a year. It is an F.B.O. production. David Kirkland, who is one of the pioneers of motion-picture production, is the director of "The Gingham Girl."

The cast includes Jed Prouty, Jerry Miley, Betty Francisco, Hazel Keener, Charles B. Crockett and Maud Fulton.

VITAPHONE

The Vitaphone, presenting notable performers in reproductions of their acts, is to be a permanent feature at the new Tower, and Vitaphone prologues will be presented at every performance by arrangement with Warner Brothers.

CHUCKLES from LIFE

Portrait of a man who has just read the analysis of the "genuine-pre-war-right-off-a-liner" Scotch for which he paid ninety a case.

Sure Proof of Greatness

MY NEIGHBOR, Sidebottom, is a great man. I used to let on I didn't see him when we were taking the same train for town, but that is all over. I wait for him now when I see him running down his steps.

One morning about two weeks ago, before I discovered Sidebottom's real quality, he caught up with me and tried to get into step. I say tried, because Sidebottom is that kind of fellow. He is not happy unless he is in step. I have made him skip as many as seventeen times in one block. Of course, I don't do that any more.

He said to me, "I think I shall sell my old dinner jacket and get one that's up-to-date."

Naturally, I just laughed cynically. I have said the same thing to my wife three or four times a year for ten years and I still have the same outfit I had when we were married. I said some pretty mean things to Sidebottom.

When I got off the train that evening, Sidebottom came out of the coach ahead. He had a box under his arm, so, recalling the conversation of the morning, I remarked, "I suppose that's your new Tuxedo?"

And he said, "That's exactly what it is. I thought I might as well buy it right away and sell the old one later."

Well, you can't beat that, Sidebottom," I said, "you are a wonderful man. How would you like to join our bridge club?"

ACTIVITY OF CITY POWER BOARD TOLD

Bureau's Agent Admits on Stand Dickering for Site at Harbor Continues

Evidence that the Power and Light Bureau's representatives had approached the General Pipe Line Company, which has a lease in the northeast portion of the West Basin at the harbor, with a view to a possible sublease or taking over the area as a site for the proposed $3,230,000 steam powered stand-by electric plant, and also that bureau experts had scoured the coast from Long Beach to Santa Monica for a possible site, was introduced in Superior Judge Tappan's court yesterday by counsel for the Southern California Edison Company.

The evidence was in the form of testimony brought out in the Southern California Edison Company's suit for a permanent injunction to restrain the Power and Light Bureau from proceeding with the plan to spend money which, it is asserted, should be devoted toward reduction of taxation.

Testimony as to the further intention of the bureau to proceed with the construction of a plant by obtaining a site, despite the fact that a restraining order has been made by the court pending the trial, was brought out on direct examination of C. A. Gardette, business agent for the bureau. He admitted that he had approached the officials of the General Pipe Line Company, but that nothing had been accomplished on the selection of a site, due to the restraining order.

John T. Martin, in charge of the bureau's construction work, preceded Gardette on the witness stand. He denied that he knew of any plan to obtain a site in place of the one originally chosen on the east bank of the West Basin.

Most of the day was spent in the direct and cross-examination of Col. Charles P. Leeds, formerly United States Engineer for this district, in the fixing of the boundaries of harbor tidelands. Through the testimony of Col. Leeds the court and counsel for both sides went on an "expedition of adventure" and "discovered" three islands at the harbor—Smith Island, Mormon Island and Terminal Island—on the map.

Two of the islands, Mormon and Smith islands, were barely recognizable on the modern maps of the harbor, due to the tremendous development which has taken place since the original lines were laid, and it also was found that what were islands many years ago now are peninsulas.

Col. Leeds declared it was necessary for a harbor to make reasonable provision for future commerce; that port development should keep well ahead of its commerce with facilities to take care of any future increase which might arrive. The case will be resumed tomorrow.

POLICE FREE FIVE TAKEN IN ROUND-UP

Suspects Released When Victims Fail to Identify; Girl Robbed in Own Home

Five suspects arrested in the campaign by Los Angeles police to halt the activity of banditry in the city, were ordered released yesterday when the victims of scores of recent robberies failed to identify any of them as their assailants. More than a dozen others will be held in custody pending further investigation, according to Capt. Cato, head of the police robbery detail.

With the scout-car system perfected providing a mobile patrol force in the vicinity of all vulnerable spots, only two additional robberies were reported yesterday.

Miss Ellen Applang, 1312 Maryland street, was robbed of $3 by a shabbily-dressed man who entered her room yesterday noon, according to her report to police. Miss Applang said that she has been ill for several days and was in bed at the time the bandit entered.

After the man gained admittance to her apartment he demanded money. Miss Applang said, and she screamed for help. He then struck her on the jaw with his fist; took $3 from her purse, and escaped.

Arthur Shelan, driver of a taxi, reported to police that he lost $14 Monday night when two men who entered his cab at Eighth and Figueroa streets held him up at Browning and Budlong streets.

John Burns, 34 years of age, of 4918 Lockhaven avenue, was identified last night as the man who held up and robbed Walter B. Dorrer, a jeweler of 1417 Twelfth avenue, of jewelry valued at $28,000 on the 6th inst. The identification was made by Dorrer at the Central Police Station.

NEW DATE IN AMSDEN CASE SET

Civil Service Manager's Hearing Put Off Until 27th Inst. by Board Vote

Hearing of charges against General Manager Amsden of the Civil Service Commission was postponed to the 27th inst. at the session of the commission yesterday afternoon. The date previously had been set for the 17th inst. at 9:30 a.m., with the proviso that a postponement should be taken, not to exceed ten days, in order that all members might be present. The hearing of the 27th will be to discuss the charges informally and determine whether written official charges shall be lodged against Mr. Amsden.

Driver Escapes from Bandits

An attempted hold-up was frustrated by H. Thompson, 2526 West Third street, last night near the intersection of Carondelet and Third streets, police report. Realizing that he who runs away lives to be held up another day — maybe — Thompson stepped on the accelerator when two men poked guns in his general direction and commanded him to stop, and the would-be bandits were left behind, he reported to police.

PLAYERS OF BRIDGE GET EXPERT TIPS

No-Trumper Declaration One of Losing Factors, Says Foster at Bullock's

Yesterday afternoon Robert F. Foster, the man who introduced auction bridge to America in 1906, told an enthusiastic audience of men and women at Bullocks, where he is giving a series of lecture-lessons, that one of the losing factors in the game is the no-trumper declaration, holding a singleton in the hand. Another loser, according to this expert, is the declaration of a suit bid by the person on the left over the no-trumper bid.

"Always pass a no-trumper, when that suit is bid," said Foster, "and you will be pleased with the result of the game. An analysis of 1000 hands has proved that this theory is sound and in time it will be as commonly known and used as the 'eleven rule.'"

The afternoon was spent in playing hands demonstrating the tactics explained by Foster, who said that a few years ago players were told to look over their hands for a no-trump bid, and, if that was not in sight, to bid a suit. Today, the practice is precisely the reverse. The first thing looked for is a bid in one of the major or "playing suits," hearts or spades, which are the suits most desirable for trumps.

It is when there is not a good bid in either of those two suits, and the hand is too strong to pass, and too good to waste, on trying to make five odd, in either of the "helping suits," clubs or diamonds, that one turns attention to the no-trump declaration, he said.

This naturally brings no-trumpers into the class of hands in which all of the suits are of almost equal length, there being no suit of less than two cards, and only one suit that short, he declared. Singletons and missing suits are the danger signals in no-trumpers.

Mr. Foster is including instruction in the newer game of contract bridge in each lesson by comparing the manner in which the hand would be bid at auction and at contract. That contract bridge will be played to a large extent in Los Angeles is indicated by the number of interesting questions that are being sent to Mr. Foster at Bullock's and which he is answering during the lessons.

Concluding his lesson yesterday, Mr. Foster gave the following points to be remembered and practised in connection with the no-trumper bid:

Never bid against a no-trumper when you are fourth hand unless you are prepared to overcall anything to which the no-trumper may shift.

Never leave your partner in, with a no-trumper, if you have a "bust" and any five-card suit that you can bid, regardless of its strength.

Never go back to your no-trumper if your partner takes you out.

Never bid no-trumps when you have a sound bid in a major suit of five or more cards.

This afternoon the assisting and defensive bids will be explained, followed by tea.

FONTANA

The First National Bank of Fontana with deposits of $700,000. There are approximately 1400 families at Fontana. Over 600 standardized poultry plants. More than 500,000 chickens. Shipments of products approximate $250,000 a month.

FONTANA tells its own story. After seeing Fontana, any facts and figures of soil fertility, abundant water flow, fruit and poultry profits, increase in acreage values, appear as an anti-climax. Fontana speaks prosperity, happiness. Clean, newly painted, home-like homes; well-kept lawns; healthy, heavy-bearing citrus groves; model poultry plants; the beautiful business section of the town itself; here is permanence, solidity, success, more surely than could be told by many pages of type.

Prices are as low as $500 an acre with water—ten years to pay. Investigate. You'll find that Fontana really is different.

See Fontana in the MOVIES
—A five-reel film has been made that shows you Fontana and tells you about the Fontana plan of happy independence and a protected income. The film is shown at 2:30 P. M. DAILY on the 6th Floor, 631 South Spring St. No charge and no obligation.

FOR the Fontana poultryman there is always available the advice of two practical poultry authorities. His poultry house, equipment and handling methods are standardized. A co-operative association calls for his eggs, and delivers him a check weekly. Most of Swift's famous Brookfield eggs come from Fontana. Here are ideal conditions in which to combine fruit growing with egg production.

You would find an hour or so at Fontana delightfully interesting. Come out. We'll be glad to show you around.

HOW TO GO: Drive out Foothill Boulevard to Fontana overhead sign about 50 miles from Los Angeles. Turn at sign and go two blocks to your right. Or take the San Bernardino Line of Pacific Electric at 6th and Main. Ask at the Building with the Tower for information.

Mr. Wealthy Man

This ad is addressed to you, if hats a home fit for a Prince to live in. But princes live in exclusive places. If you want to live amidst hustle and bustle this home is not for you. But if you prefer a "paradise" on flat ground among the Hills of Sycamores and yet only 20 minutes from the Ambassador & surrounded by other beautiful estates, then I have what you are looking for.

The home is part of an acre estate—a stone's throw from the Golf Club. Its home is 10 rooms and is the last word in modern architecture. There are 4 bedrooms and 3 baths. Also 3-car garage.

Price and terms are secondary matters to me. I want some one who appreciates Art, Beauty and Comfort and is thoroughly reliable. If you build it at the special price, $10,500; $1000 cash, bal. 7%. Look me up, S. Spaulding; or Phone MR. RANKE OR. 1151.
